Carter, nation poised for inaugural event

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Carter is coming to town, President Ford is getting ready to leave and Washington has begun its inaugural hoopla amid bitter winter cold.

The bands began to play Tuesday night at parties thrown by the inaugural committee for the incoming Democrats. And at the White House outgoing President Ford threw a surprise party for his wife, Betty.

Carter planned to leave his Plains, Ga., home and fly to Washington today after stopping at the Plains railroad depot to send off neighbors and friends traveling aboard a special inauguration-bound train.

Carter, 52, confessed Tuesday night that he felt "a little sad" about leaving his hometown, but was ready for the move.

The peanut farmer-turned-politician will spend tonight, the eve of his inauguration as the nation's 39th president, in Blair House across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House. He will attend a nationally televised pre-inaugural gala at the Kennedy Center tonight.

President Ford, who spent some 30 months in the executive mansion he will vacate Thursday, kicked up his heels Tuesday night at the surprise party, with 100 close friends and Cabinet members attending.

The 63-year-old President, whose term ends at noon Thursday, invited new Republican members of Congress to visit him in the White House today on his last full day in office.

Ford, who came to Washington as a freshman congressman in 1949, plans to depart after Carter's swearing-in. He will fly by helicopter and presidential jet to California, where he has a date to play in the Bing Crosby golf tournament at Pebble Beach on Friday. The Fords have rented a home in the Palm Springs resort area and plan to live there.

An aide said Tuesday that Ford, who will have a 24-member staff and $1 million for transition expenses through Sept. 30, plans to speak at various colleges in the months to come. He will spend three days in February at Yale, where he attended law school.

A cold wave put a damper on the Democrats' fireworks display at the Washington Monument on Tuesday night. With temperatures in the teens, the Park Service estimated only 1,000 persons were on the snow-covered Mall for the display of four tons of fireworks. A million persons watched the pyrotechnics on the same spot last July 4th.

But the crowds were expected to swell to the hundreds of thousands for Thursday's swearing-in ceremony, the parade down Pennsylvania Avenue and the parties — official and otherwise — all over town.

A cold wave settled over the city more than a week ago, icing over streets and sending the thermometer plummeting to near zero at night.

Temperatures were expected to rise as high as the low 30s on Thursday with a chance of snow in the afternoon or evening.

Although last week's snow is long gone from most roads, GIs attacked the residual ice on Pennsylvania Avenue with jackhammers, picks and shovels Tuesday to make way for the parade.

The festivities that began Tuesday run for five days, with dozens of free events. The seven official parties Saturday night are open only to holders of the hard-to-come-by $25 tickets.

Rules out blanket amnesty

Ford proposes lifting of gasoline price controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a last-minute move before leaving office, President Ford today proposed lifting price controls on gasoline.

The move is expected to face strong opposition in Congress, which has 15 days in which to veto Ford's move. A negative vote in either the House or the Senate would kill the action.

Administration spokesman have said that removal of gasoline price controls would have little immediate effect at the pumps.

The President today also ruled out blanket amnesty for Vietnam military deserters and draft evaders but directed that wounded and decorated veterans who received other-than-honorable discharges have their status changed to honorable discharges.

Ford late last month had said he would look into the possibility of a general amnesty for Vietnam war deserters and draft resisters after he was asked to do so by the widow of Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., who had supported such amnesty.

In a letter to Mrs. Hart today, the President said he had "decided to maintain my position on earned clemency and hope you will understand.

The Federal Energy Administration estimates the price of unleaded gas could go up about two cents a gallon, reflecting its higher refining costs. That increase may be offset by slight reductions in the price of ordinary gasoline which now bears part of the refining costs of the unleaded variety, the FEA says.

Congressional critics, however, claim that prices could climb as much as six cents a gallon. They say that removal of controls combined with recent price increases by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries could cost consumers as much as $8.9 billion.

The government reported today that the average price of a gallon of regular grade gasoline was 62.6 cents in December, while the average premium price was 64.8 cents.

LEARNS OF TRAGEDY

Mrs. Dorothy Hoffman collapses into the arms of police officers after being told that her husband, David, had been killed during a robbery of his dry-cleaning business in Pittsburgh Tuesday. Mrs. Hoffman had just arrived at the shop to pick up her husband after work.

JIMMY AND AMY? . . . . WRONG

'Ah'm workin' hod on it'

His accent betrays Carter 'look-alike'

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Why would a Yankee financial consultant talk like he's been wrastlin' alligators in a Georgia swamp?

On the eve of Jimmy Carter's inaugural, Carter look-alike Walt Hanna says it's because he's discovered presidential mimicry for fun and profit.

Hanna, a Wisconsin-born Harvard Business School graduate, is indeed the spittin' image of the President-elect. One could say, in fact, that Hanna and Carter look as alike as two peas in a peanut shell.

But, there's that accent...

"Well, ah'm workin' on that accent," Hanna says, struggling with a slightly less than convincing imitation of a honey-mouthed South Georgia drawl.

"And ah hope befoah too long, ah'll have it mastah'd. Ah've got a voice coach, and ah'm workin' hod on it."

Hanna — like Richard Nixon look-alike Richard Dixon before him — discovered there's fame and profit to be gained from nature's little jokes. He has hired an agent and has taped a pilot for a variety show being considered by ABC. He has appeared in an Italian documentary on American presidential politics.

Hanna's resemblence to Carter goes beyond looks. Like the President-elect, he has four children, including a nine-year-old daughter who could be a look-alike for Amy Carter.

"The resemblence is striking," says Hanna.

He says some of his friends have expressed concern over his safety, and he has even considered the possibility of assassination.

Hanna says he's not really worried, "but if it gets to be too much of a pain, I'll grow a mustache and dye my hair."

Smallest inflation rate in four years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose a moderate four-tenths of one per cent in December, bringing the over-all rise in prices in 1976 to 4.8 per cent, the smallest inflation rate in four years, the government reported today.

The annual increase bettered the Ford administration's goal of reducing inflation to a 5 or 6 per cent rate for the year and marked the best record since elaborate government wage-price controls held the rise in consumer prices to 3.4 per cent in 1972.

In 1973, prices rose 8.8 per cent, followed by a 12.2 per cent rate in 1974 and a 7 per cent inflation rate in 1975.

Although the rate of inflation cooled last year, the annual increase was still more than what Americans had become accustomed to during most of the post-World War II period

L.A. newsman kidnaped, forced home and robbed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police arrested two youths today after a three-hour crime spree in which a veteran Los Angeles radio commentator was kidnaped, another man fired on and robbed and a home burglarized.

KFWB radio newsman Cleve Hermann was kidnapped early today and forced to drive to his Sherman Oaks apartment, where he and his wife were robbed, officers said.

In Beverly Hills, Los Angeles Times distributor Leo Kempton, 56, was robbed of $100, then fired on.

Neither Kempton nor anyone else involved in the spree was injured, police said.

The two youths, not immediately identified by police, were arrested at 4:20 a.m. in a home on Mulholland Drive after a silent alarm was tripped. Officers gave their ages as 18 and 19.

Hermann was accosted outside a Hollywood bowling alley at 1:30 a.m. and forced to drive to his home. There the two youths took his money, his wife's ring and his car, officers said.

Hermann reportedly fell into conversation with his abductors who, police said, told him their troubles and then agreed to return the money, but kept the ring and car.

A short time later they told Kempton they wanted to buy a newspaper, but he said he had no change. Officers said they robbed him of $100 at gunpoint, then fired a shot at him.

Another victim was confronted by the youths on Benedict Canyon Road, but no details were available.

The pair allegedly broke into the home of a realtor on Mulholland Drive, where police were summoned by a silent alarm. Officers said they were arrested in the process of robbing the house and had pockets stuffed with jewelry.

Alaska basking, while most of U.S. shivers

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The Anchorage Hockey Association had to cancel its games Tuesday — ice on the outdoor rinks melted.

While many of the lower 48 states shiver in a deep freeze, Alaskans are swapping parkas and mukluks for sweaters and street shoes and basking in one of the warmest winters on record.

Instead of skidding on icy sidewalks, urban Alaskans are jumping puddles or dodging splashes from passing vehicles.

Temperatures in Anchorage, the state's largest city, were running 20 degrees above normal. The highs here on Sunday and Monday, both in the low 40s, wiped out records set 43 years ago.

On Tuesday, only two Alaskan stations reported readings in the minus range — Barrow at -4 and Northway at -12.

It's like a summer vacation for many of the 14,000 Air Force, Navy, Army, Marine and National Guard personnel here to take part in "Jack Frost 1977," an annual joint military cold weather combat exercise.

"Hey, guys, it's warmer here than on the East Coast," said one Leatherneck reserve arriving from Albany, N.Y., bundled in heavy clothing designed to ward off the biting subarctic temperatures he expected.

25% faster

Study sees state's economic growth rate leading nation

PALO ALTO (AP) — Between now and 1985, California's economy will grow 25 per cent faster than the rest of the country and reverse a downward trend that came on the heels of the Vietnam war, according to a new study.

The report was released Tuesday by the Center for the Continuing Study of the California Economy which characterized its long-term projection as "moderate to conservative."

"Many Californians have failed to recover from the shock of 1968-71, when the Vietnam war was ending, the aerospace industry was in trouble, the national recession impacted the economy and the state failed to grow faster than the U.S. for the first time since World War II," said center director Robert Arnold.

"For the past several years, the California economy has again moved significantly ahead of the rest of the U.S.," he added. "Despite current high unemployment, our detailed annalyses show new jobs will be created here at rates well above the national average."

At inauguration

It'll be reunion time for a Claremont family

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The inauguration of Jimmy Carter Thursday in Washington will also serve as a reunion time for a Claremont couple and their two daughters, one of whom is on the Presient-elect's staff.

Professor Henry Mitchell of La Verne College and his wife Ella, a teacher at Vista Elementary School in Claremont, will fly to Washington tonight to meet their daughters, Elizabeth, who is in charge of advance scheduling for Carter trips, and Muriel Mitchell-Smith, director of the Bureau of Consumer Affairs at Atlanta.

"We received a VIP invitation," Mrs. Mitchell said Tuesday. She said she is looking forward to the trip.

Mrs. Mitchell revealed that her daughter Elizabeth went to work for Jimmy Carter as a law intern in the summer of 1973.

At the time Miss Mitchell was attending Emory Law School. She decided she wouldn't continue her third year at the school and joined the Carter campaign last January.

In September she arranged for Carter's trip to Los Angeles.

Mitchell is on the staff at La Verne College, Fuller Theological Seminary, and director of Ecumenical Center for Black Church Studies in association with the Claremont School of Theology.

Mrs. Mitchell is a member of the Claremont Human Resources Commission, and the Claremont School District advisory committee.

More residents receive invites

Eight more valley residents have received invitations to the President Carter inauguration Thursday.

They are Mrs. Helen Kreps, 68, 5580 Moreno St., Montclair; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sandillanez, 209 W. Fourth St., San Dimas; Helena Johnson of San Dimas; Mark Cogan, 18, 1525 W. F St., Ontario; Dr. Ralph Ross, head of the humanities department at Scripps College, Claremont; Ella Mitchell, teacher at Vista Del Valle Elementary School, Claremont; and Lillian Paige, a teacher at Sycamore Elementary School in Claremont.

This brings to 25 the number of valley residents the newspaper has learned received invitations.

Mrs. Mitchell will attend, she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandillanez said they may attend.

The others said they would not.

A "friend" called to report that Dr. Ross had received an invitation. Her grandson, Bob Swetnam, reported that Mrs. Kreps had received one. Swetnam is a Progress Bulletin staff writer and photographer.

In each case, the recipient of an invitation had either written Carter a letter or made a contribution to his campaign, or both.

Plaintiffs are from Wyoming, South and North Dakota, Colorado and California.

Incorporation impact report accepted by the review board

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Asst. City Editor

The San Bernardino County Environmental Review Board Tuesday unanimously accepted the 147-page environmental impact report on incorporation proposals in Alta Loma, Etiwanda and Cucamonga.

In a second action, the board unanimously agreed the incorporation of a community in the foothill area "would have no significant effect on the environment."

The report now goes to the San Bernardino County Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFC) for consideration at its meeting Feb. 9, at 2 p.m. in the hearing chambers of the Environmental Improvement Agency, 1111 E. Mill St., San Bernardino.

That meeting will be open to the public.

This was the second time the Environmental Review Board had considered the impact report. After a long session on Dec. 28, during which the board heard testimony from 14 foothill residents, members sent the report back to staff for corrections. The final, approved report contained 52 corrections, most minor word changes.

During discussions that day, board members agreed that incorporation of a city in the foothills would not slow growth but would give residents greater control of planning and land use.

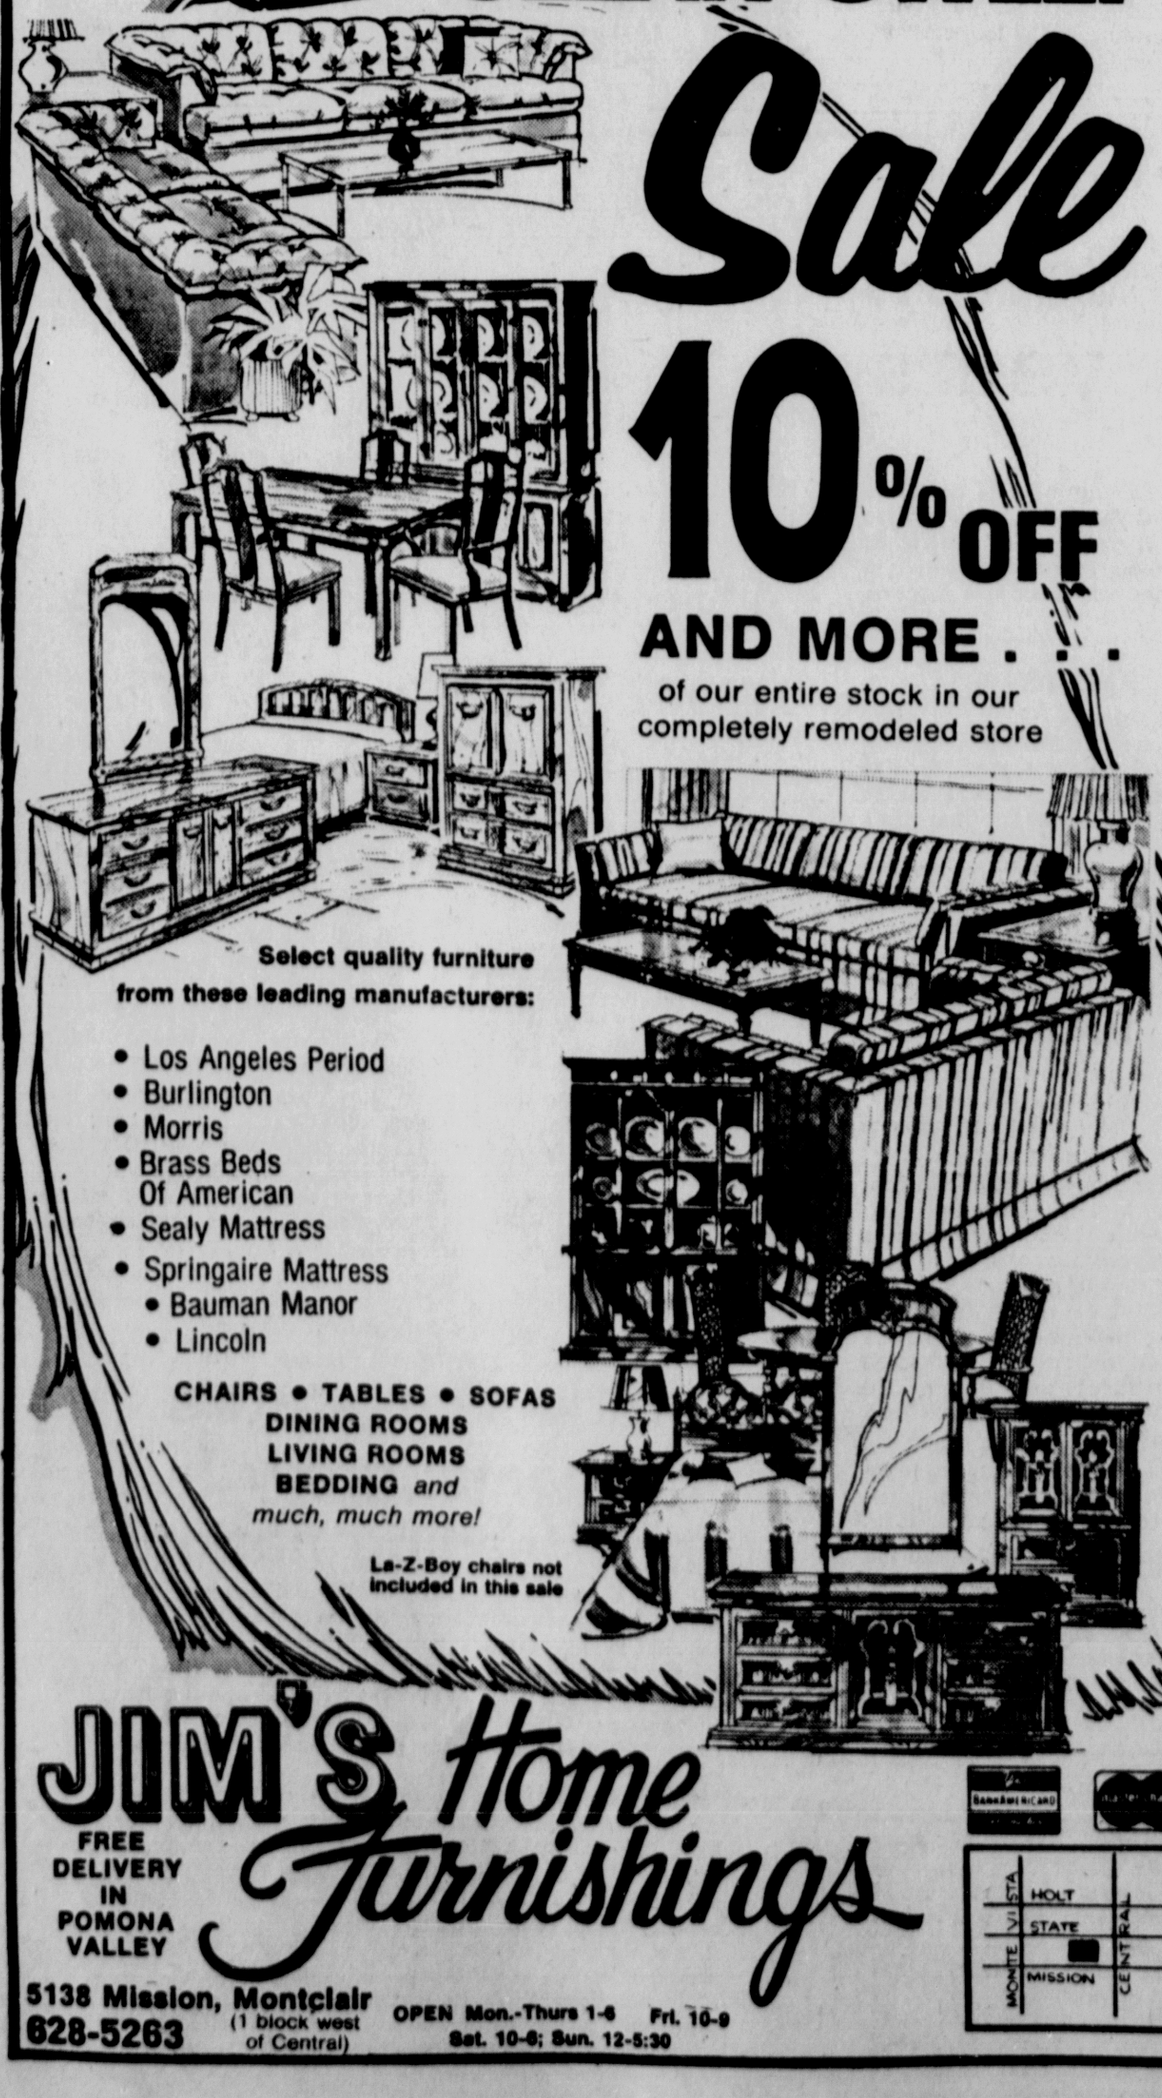

LAFCO has two resolutions for cityhood under consideration. The environmental impact report is a necessary preliminary required by state law before any incorporation plan may be approved.

One plan calls for the incorporation of Alta Loma and another calls for the incorporation of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda as one city called Rancho Cucamonga.

Should LAFCO decide in favor of one plan, a recommendation will be sent to the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors. That body, then, would set a date for an election.

County environmental analyst R. Gary Miller said that a swift decision by LAFCO could put the matter before the voters by next November.

Ontario fugitive nabbed

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

A 32-year-old purported captain of the Nuestra Familia, a prison gang, was arrested Tuesday by Department of Corrections and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents on fugitive warrants outside his sister's home in the 200 block of West I St., Ontario.

Marcus Robert Castaneda had been sought by state and federal authorities for violation of parole and federal warrants on three counts of bank robbery, said officials. He was arrested without incident.

Castaneda, nicknamed "Tarzan," was armed with a .38-caliber revolver at the time of his arrest, authorities said.

Agents said Castaneda has been wanted for questioning involving bank robberies by various law enforcement agencies, including the FBI.

He had been identified on three bank robberies in San Francisco, Santa Barbara and Sacramento, said officials.

He had worked along and with an accomplice, usually another Nuestra Familia gang member, using a .45-caliber automatic hand gun and a sawed-off shotgun in the bank robberies, officials added.

Castaneda was paroled from state prison on Aug. 18, 1975 in San Francisco. He had a felony warrant issued out of Alameda County on Jan. 13 for violation of parole.

Agents staked out the sister's home in Ontario for more than 24 hours before Castaneda's arrest.

He had been reported in the Ontario-Pomona area in November and once was reported seen at the Ontario Union 76 Truck Stop, agents said.

Cash wanted, not pizza

A young man who telephoned an order for pizza, robbed the place a half an hour later when he arrived to pick it up, Pomona police reported.

The holdup was at the Pizza Hut, 320 E. Foothill Blvd. Police were told that the man, described as white and in his mid-20s, was in the restaurant late Monday night. He told employes he would call in his order later and arrived just before midnight to get it. But he produced a weapon described as either a home-made pipe gun or a shotgun and demanded cash. In his excitement, one of the employes dropped the robber's pizza.

After getting the cash, the gunman warned the two employes to remain in the kitchen and fled. He was 6 feet 1, weighed about 170 pounds and had shoulder-length brown hair, a deep voice and a long, pointed nose. He wore a white sweater and dark trousers and ordered the pizza under the name of "Reed."

Victim captures robber

An Upland store owner fired five shots at a fleeing robbery suspect Tuesday morning before capturing him with the aid of a motorist at Seventh Street and Grove Avenue in Upland.

Police said Stephen Patrick McGowan, 20, of 8989 Orange St., Alta Loma, was booked in the West End jail this morning on robbery charges as a result of the 10 a.m. incident at Wilson's Market, 1402 E. Ninth St.

Police said that a man entered the market and confronted Mrs. Alpha Wilson with a knife. The robber ordered the woman to hand over the cash from the register but she ran to the back room to get her husband, Richard Wilson.

Wilson grabbed a gun and ran out to the front of the store to confront the robber, who then fled, police said.

Wilson told officers that he saw the robber jump into a car and he fired five shots at the vehicle. A motorist, seeing the store owner firing at the robber, stopped and offered assistance.

Wilson and the motorist chased after the robber's car to Seventh Street and Grove Avenue before stopping him.

When police arrived, Wilson and the motorist had the suspect at bay and police immediately handcuffed him and took him into custody.

Officers examining the suspect's car found one bullet hole in the vehicle's trunk.

Theft at ex-officer's home

Burglars broke into the home in Glendora of retired Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department inspector Joseph M. Licata and took items valued at more than $600.

Licata, 52, former commander of the sheriff's station in San Dimas, reported the burglary Tuesday. Items stolen included a .38-caliber revolver, a .22-caliber rifle, a camera, flash attachment and a pair of binoculars.

Licata told deputies he found a sliding glass patio door off its track when he returned home and discovered the items missing later.

Upland woman attacked

Upland police this morning are seeking a man who grabbed a 24-year-old Upland woman on Euclid Place west of Euclid Avenue and sexually attacked her Tuesday night.

Police said the man tore the clothes off the victim and attacked her on the street and then fled in what is believed to be a brown 1968 Chevrolet with mag wheels on the rear.

The woman further described the man as a Latin, 18 to 21 years old, 5 feet 6, 125 pounds, with brown hair and brown eyes.

In-n-Out drive-in robbed

A middle-aged robber ordered a hamburger at the In-n-Out drive through at 1875 N. Indian Hill Blvd., in Pomona and then drew a pistol and took all the cash, police said.

An employe, an 18-year-old Claremont man, said the man was black, about 40, 5 feet 10 and armed with a .22-caliber, short-barrelled revolver. He wore a blue jacket, maroon knit cap and dark trousers.

In addition to cash, the gunman fled with an undetermined number of gift certificates.

Upland youth arrested

A 15-year-old Upland youth was arrested Tuesday morning after attempting to break into a home at 2371 Sunfield Ave., Upland, police reported.

Police were alerted to the burglary in progress after an audible burglar alarm was heard by a neighbor.

The youth was captured by officers just outside of the home.

The youth was turned over to juvenile authorities for disposition on burglary charges.

8 die in Egyptian riots; price hikes revoked by Sadat

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat revoked price increases on food, gas and cigarettes today after riots in which witnesses said police fire killed eight persons.

The Egyptian government ordered a 14-hour curfew for Cairo, Alexandria and Suez City at the Southern end of the Suez Canal as rioting and clashes raged for the second day in protest against price increases. Public transport came to a standstill, shops and factories were closed and government employes stayed home.

Cairo radio said the curfew would go into effect at 4 p.m. and would last until 6 a.m. Thursday. It was Egypt's first curfew since the 1952 revolution that overthrew the monarchy.

The broadcast said police had been ordered to shoot curfew violators.

Associated Press newsman Sami Rizkallah said witnesses outside a police station that was set afire in Hadaik el Kouba east of Cairo told him seven persons were killed when police fired into crowds. Rizkallah said he saw at least 14 wounded demonstrators being taken to hospitals.

A detachment of riot police also opened fire as it battled a crowd near Al Azhar University, in the city's old quarter. Witnesses said a 10-year-old boy fell dead with a bullet in his chest.

An announcement said the government acted "at the request of Prime Minister Mamdouh Salem and the approval of President Anwar Sadat to suspend the latest price regulations."

It added that Salem's ruling Center party, which overwhelmingly dominates the 360-member parliament with 305 seats, would meet in the afternoon to review events. Parliament's economic committee will meet Thursday for the same purpose.

The Interior Ministry charged that Communists stirred up unrest among the workers in the Helwan iron and steel works and students at Ain Shams University.

Freeze closes businesses, schools, idles thousands

By The Associated Press

Subzero temperatures and natural gas shortages in the East, Midwest and South forced hundreds of thousands of school children and workers to stay home today. Businesses were closed in many areas, and officials in several states predicted tens of thousands more layoffs.

Fuel emergencies were declared in at least two states and a number of cities, and navigation was restricted by ice-blocked waterways throughout much of the nation.

Tennessee was particularly hard hit, with the state's Public Service Commission predicting that 100,000 persons could be out of work today because of factories and stores closed for lack of heating fuel.

Supermarkets, restaurants and drugstores in Clarksville, Tenn., were ordered to operate only six hours a day until further notice. Nashville industries were ordered shut down, and Nashville Gas Co. asked that public and private schools close to conserve gas.

Find killer of Legionnaires

ATLANTA (AP) — It took thousands of tests, dozens of researchers and scores of chicken eggs to find the still-unnamed microbe that scientists say claimed 29 lives in Philadelphia last summer.

Almost six months after reports of mysterious deaths started trickling to increasingly alarmed Pennsylvania officials, scientists said Tuesday the cause of Legionnaires' disease was a bacteria-like organism never before isolated.

"It's preliminary data, but we're very much convinced of its authenticity," Dr. David J. Sencer, head of the national Center for Disease Control, said at a news conference called Tuesday to announce the discovery.

Isolating the organism does not completely solve the mystery of Legionnaires' disease.

Researchers are in the field and laboratories trying to find out where the organism came from, why its victims were people at Philadelphia's Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, how it is transmitted to humans and how to isolate it from field samples.

The scientists want new blood samples from the 151 survivors of Legionnaires' disease to make tests on the new organism.

Most victims had attended the Pennsylvania American Legion convention headquartered at the now-closed Bellevue. All died from an upper respiratory infection similar to pneumonia.

Pomonan arraigned in car crash fatality

Jose Luis Mendoza, 22, was arraigned Tuesday in Pomona Municipal Court on a two-count felony complaint resulting from the traffic collision Saturday night which killed one woman and injured nine other persons.

Mendoza, of 506 Texas St., Pomona, was arraigned before Judge James H. Platt who scheduled the preliminary hearing for Jan. 26 and ordered him held in lieu of $2,000 bail.

Mendoza is charged with vehicular manslaughter and hit-run driving.

Meanwhile, one of the survivors of the crash, Linda Appiewhite, 29, of Pomona, remained in critical condition at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. A second victim who was reported in critical condition after the accident, Ignacio Magana, 40, of Stockton, has improved and was said to be in serious but stable condition today. Both were in the hospital's intensive-care unit.

Mendoza himself was injured slightly in the crash and was released to police after treatment at the hospital.

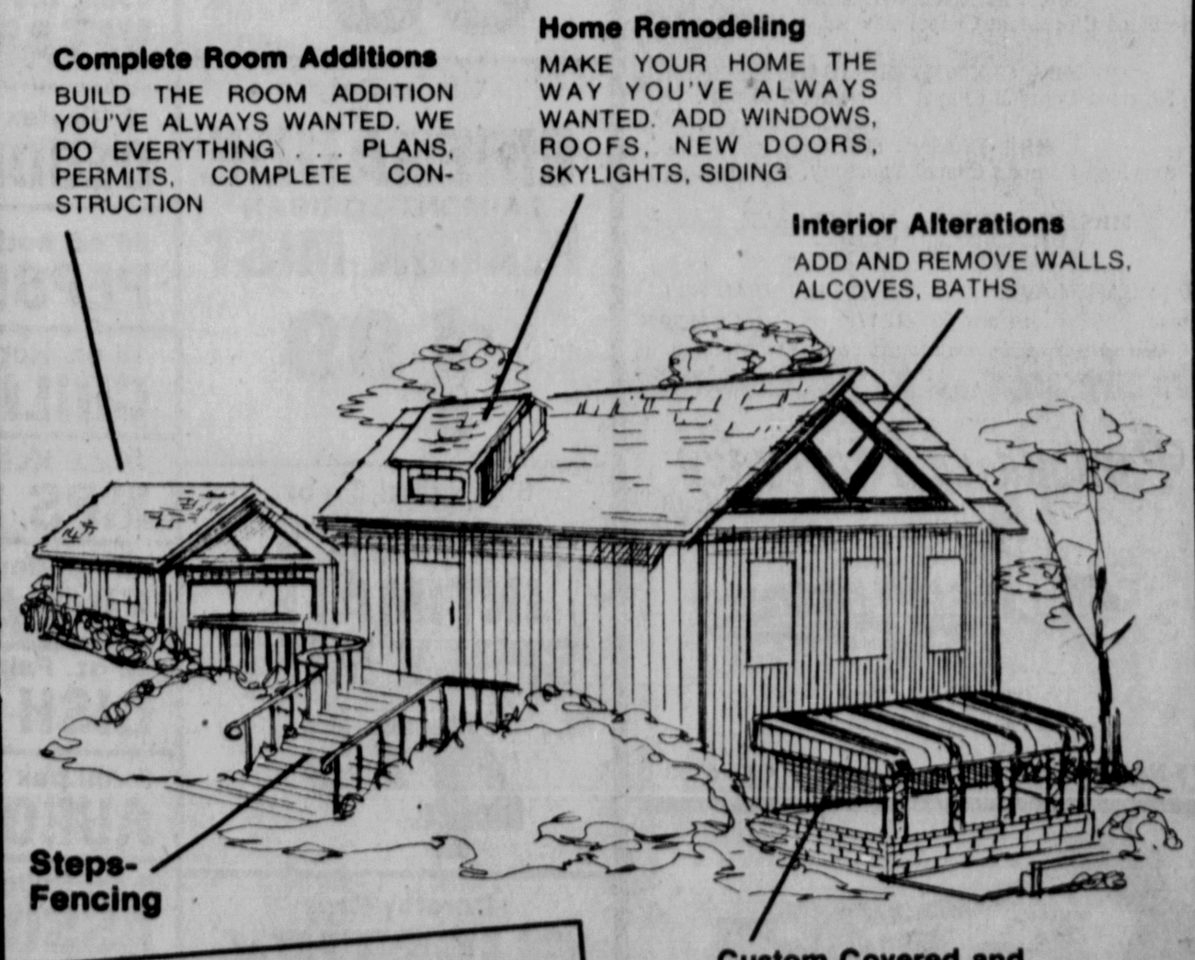

The woman killed was Cleo Milligan, 60, of 2006 S. Towne Ave., Pomona. Her husband, Bruce Milligan, 64, was among those injured.

Panama treaty in 3 months?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State-designate Cyrus Vance is telling Latin American countries the Carter administration should be able to complete negotiations for a new Panama Canal treaty within three months.

Foreign minister Gonzalo Facio of Costa Rica, serving as a special emissary of eight Latin American presidents, said in an interview Tuesday that Vance also told him Panamanian Foreign Minister Aquilino Boyd will be invited to Washington to begin talks within two weeks of Carter's inauguration.

That would make him the first foreign minister to be asked to the capital.

Facio said that in his conversation with Vance on Tuesday, the incoming secretary of state said "he thinks the completion of the treaty should be done within the next three months."

Facio said letters he brought to Vance for later transmission to Carter made three key points. He said the Latin American presidents expressed satisfaction over Carter's professed willingness to forge a new inter-American policy, hailed the appointment of Vance and expressed the view that "Panama is the main and first issue between the United States and Latin America."

He said the letters told Vance that Panama will be a "test of the good intentions" of Carter's desire "to start a new policy more equitable and more profitable toward Latin America."

Facio said he quickly telephoned Boyd to relay the results of his hour-long session with Vance. Facio said he was elated at the reception he got from Vance.

The U.S.-Panamanian canal talks have droned on for 12 years, heightening tensions between the two countries. Although several important issues still divide them, the key is the duration of the U.S. right to defend the canal and occupy the Canal Zone.

Bilingual pay

The California Department of Motor Vehicles has become the first state agency to submit a plan to the state personnel board to pay its employes a $30 bilingual salary differential.

The board voted recently to pay the $30 differential to those state employes who use their bilingual language skills for 10 per cent of their workday.

The department has identified 651 positions that qualify for the bilingual differential. However, multilingual coordinator Arnold Sanchez said that only about 300 motor vehicles employees have passed the department's language-skills examination, which makes them eligible for the extra pay. They include clerks, driver's license examiners and investigators.

Whale-watching tour

NEW VAN — Dr. Lorin Spencer, chairman of the Pomona Red Cross chapter, accepts keys to eight-passenger van from Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDaniel. The van was acquired through the gift of the McDaniels and funds from the Cecile Woods Lewis estate

Red Cross gets new van

Valley residents will have no trouble spotting the new Pomona Red Cross Chapter van.

It's the brightest possible yellow, with red and white emblems on the side and the tinted windows.

The 1976 eight-passenger van was acquired by the chapter through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDaniel, who purchased it just a few months ago, and funds from the Cecile Woods Lewis estate.

Dr. Lorin Spencer, chapter president, said the van is outfitted with many features which will assist the chapter in its disaster and community transportation programs.

It will replace an older, white van which has been heavily used to transport elderly and blind in the valley, to staff disaster training programs and as a first aid unit. The gray-tinted windows make it possible for passengers to see out, but screen the interior.

Bill Braden, executive director of the chapter, said the windows and other features make it possible for the van to serve as a emergency ambulance.

103 officers killed

Some 103 law enforcement officers across the nation were killed in the line of duty during the first 11 months of 1976, according to statistics released by the FBI.

The total was down from 114 for the same period the previous year, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley noted.

He said, "The killing of law enforcement officers in any number must be a matter of grave concern to a nation which cherishes its commitments to the rule of law."

Firearms were the weapons used in most of the slayings.

Of the 103 officers slain, 87 were killed with guns. All but 27 of the 87 gunshot killings were by pistols and of those 60, 13 were committed with the officers' own service pistols, Kelley said.

How to Cash in on the Boom in Rare Plates

NORTHBROOK, Ill.— The director of a world-wide art exchange in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with high resale potential.

According to Roderick MacArthur, director of the Bradford Exchange, one exceptional plate priced at $25 in 1965 now brings $1,750, and another selling at $9.75 in 1969 now sells for $440.

Mr. MacArthur says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes." He offers a free report on what to look for, when to buy, what to pay and much more. It even includes special offers on eagerly-sought collector plates at modest cost.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to the Bradford Exchange, 17203 Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. To be sure of receiving your free copy, please mail your request before January 29, 1977.

SACH's request for construction funds denied

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The California Department of Health has denied a permit request to allow $12.3 million in construction to complete San Antonio Community Hospital's master plan.

The state denied the Upland hospital an exemption from the new health planning law. The health department became responsible for hospital planning review under a state law which became effective last September, immediately after signed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

"This action of the state department showed complete disregard for the more than seven years of hospital planning in the development of our master plan," said Hans G. Wiik, the hospital's assistant administrator.

"Our plan has had lengthy local public review and has been on file with the local Comprehensive Health Planning Agency from its inception in 1970.

"But it was negated by the new statute in a short 90-day period."

The denial issued to the hospital was among 56 proposals denied by the department of health under the new law which requires state approval of hospital construction or equipment purchases of more than $150,000.

The state also denied a $10 million request by Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Fontana to build a new out-patient medical building and for general renovation.

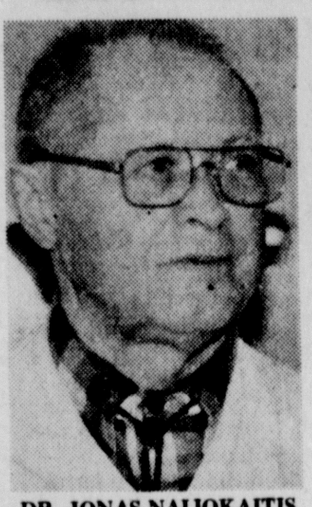

Locally, the state did approve the request of San Antonio Community Hospital to remodel its clinical and pathological laboratories at a cost of $238,000 and permit the expansion of the obstetrics department at Doctors Hospital in Montclair at a cost of $195,000.

The department of health also approved the renovation of Pomona Valley Community Hospital's radiology department at a cost of $400,000, and the hospital's purchase of a body scanner for about $500,000.

A PVCH spokesman said the body scanner has been on order for over two years and is now due. He added the remodeling of the radiological area of the hospital has already started.

San Antonio Community Hospital...

"The Upland hospital has spent more than $800,000 on the proposed construction, including planning fees, architectural fees and other fees through the state's office of architecture and construction for plan review for building and safety code requirements," said Wiik.

Health department officials said the main concern of the recent hearings was whether each hospital had financially committed itself, prior to Sept. 9, 1976, to such a degree that it would suffer substantial financial loss if the state denied it a certificate of exemption.

The state spokesman added that the denied applications were not based on the merit of the projects.

The state used as its guideline for rejection of a permit the requirement that at least 10 per cent of the total cost must have been expanded before "a significant economic loss" is considered to have occurred, said Wiik.

Wiik cited the inadequacy in the review process by the state department on the hearing.

Wiik said that he and Charles Drake, director of engineering, were given just two days notice to appear before the state board.

"We met with the board for just 1½ hours on Jan. 4," said Wiik.

He added that the hospital is now discussing the matter with hospital legal counsel to see what further action to take.

The hospital plan's second phase, the construction of new emergency department and out-patient services, was completed last year.

The third phase, which would have completed the master plan, did not include any increase in the number of beds or ancillary services. Instead, it was to add offices and areas for health support services, said Wiik.

The hospital has planned to replace several offices in leased buildings across streets from the hospital and in mobile buildings on parking lots.

The state announced the rejection requests total some $307 million. A department spokesman said some of the rejected projects may be approved after additional hearings, but would then have to be approved on individual merit.

BENJAMIN GEORGE PAVAN

'Frisco man put on most wanted list

A San Franciscan has been added to the FBI's list of the 10 most wanted fugitives.

He is Benjamin George Pavan, 36, who is being sought on a federal warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for armed robbery.

The warrant was issued after Pavan was indicted in San Francisco and Burlingame on charges involving five armed robberies, three safe burglaries, auto theft and receiving stolen property.

The FBI said Pavan has an extensive criminal record dating to 1956 and has been convicted of forgery and escape. He is considered extremely dangerous.

Pavan has worked as an accountant and a truck driver. He is white, 5 feet 7, weighs between 185 and 215 pounds and has a receding hairline and dark complexion. He has a prominent dimple in his chin.

Pavan replaced Gerhardt Julius Schwartz on the FBI list. Schwartz was arrested by agents in New York recently.

Montclair bingo issue presented to residents

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The Montclair City Council is hoping that residents will voice their preference on the bingo issue at the next council session Feb. 7.

The council approved a first reading Monday night after comments from several in the audience supportive of the city ordinance that would establish stringent controls over bingo games and those conducting the games.

The council, upon request of Councilman Tom McClure, delayed action on a motion to put the issue to a referendum on the ballot to determine local support or opposition to bingo in the city. The delay offered those in the audience the opportunity to comment on the issue.

Bill Astin said "If bingo can be controlled it should be allowed. And I emphasize control. It does help the churches and other charity organizations to raise money and gives a recreational outlet for older people."

Al Duett agreed saying that if the issue was tabled indefinitely and the council waited until March 1978 to put the matter on the general and local municipal ballot, it might create more problems.

"If you table it indefinitely, you will be doing the same thing the mayor warned against. That is the police turning their heads. It is going on now and should be controlled," Duett said.

Rod Skinner remarked that the second reading and public hearing would "allow the public another chance to speak to this. If there is anyone vehemently opposed to it, you'll hear from them."

With that, Councilman Ernest Rowley withdrew his motion for tabling, but maintained the option of making the motion again if the second hearing doesn't stimulate a sufficient sampling of the community feeling.

City Atty. Eugene Demchuk explained the particulars of the bingo ordinance. It is restricted to organizations that are considered charitable and non-profit according to state and tax legislation; and such organizations must have its offices or identity with the City of Montclair in order to conduct a bingo game within the city limits.

Besides the restriction on out-of-towners, the ordinance also limits the maximum of prizes to be awarded per game to $250 and no salary can be paid for participating in the conduct of the game. Individuals cannot realize a profit and the proceeds must go to the non-profit organization.

That organization, in turn, must keep bingo proceeds in a separate account. The ordinance restricts co-mingling of bingo funds with others for auditing purposes, Demchuk explained.

Demchuk said that there might be certain enforcement problems, but that exists in all city ordinances.

Rowland reading program planned

The faculty, staff and administration at Rowland High School plan to introduce a new program soon called "Everybody Reads."

Under the plan, all school personnel, including the principal, will spend 15 minutes a day on campus reading useful and interesting books, magazines and newspapers.

The purpose is to point out that reading is vital to everyone, regardless of age or walk in life.

Reading improvement has been receiving more and more stress in the Rowland school district recently and it is believed by administrators that the "Everybody Reads" program will bring an added thrust in that direction.

The high school will begin collecting numerous reading materials for use in the classroom during the reading period.

In addition to what the students and school personnel can gather, the district is seeking donations of books and reading material from the community.

Materials can be dropped off at the administration office.

Calls start soon on DMV mailing lists

Follow up phone calls to Gov. Brown's office, the Department of Motor Vehicles and local legislators are planned soon to determine the status of a Pomona plan to bar sale of mailing lists by the DMV.

The Pomona City Council two weeks ago sent letters to Brown, the DMV, valley legislators and all cities within the state urging that the practice of selling names of state auto owners to anyone requesting them be stopped.

Councilman and City Manager Jerrold Gonce said the practice encouraged and promoted burglaries, rape and harrassment of citizens.

"We asked in our letters for an answer, but neither the governor, DMV nor any legislator has answered so far," Gonce said.

Pomona policy forbids sale or disclosure of citizens' names on city taxpayer or utility rolls, Gonce said. Earlier he described the state practice of selling mailing lists to private parties as a "boondoggle."

Pomona girl wins camera

Alumnae theater party set

Pomona Valley Alumnae Club of Kappa Kappa Gamma has planned a theater party Feb. 4 at the Gallery Theater in Ontario.

Husbands and friends will be guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGill of Claremont for an after-theater party. Mrs. Jan Johnson and Mrs. Hugh Stocker will be cohostesses for the party.

Proceeds will go to the Rose McGill Fund which helps college students who need assistance.

Officers of the club are: Mrs. Jan Olaf Johnson, president; Mrs. Robert Crow, vice president; Mrs. Drew Barden, secretary; Mrs. Roger McGavin, ways and means; and Mrs. G. Alan Carlisle, publicity.

Program on tax tips set

"Timely Tax Tips" will be the topic of Jacqueline Kanega's presentation to the Professional Secretaries Association at their dinner meeting Thursday to be held at Michael's Restaurant in Glendora. The social hour at 7 p.m. will precede the 7:30 p.m. dinner.

Beer hair

Do you set your hair? We're told flat beer, lightly sprayed on damp hair (through a mist-spray bottle) is a fine setting lotion.

Camp Fire Girls

Candy sale will begin

Official kickoff for the candy sale planned by Camp Fire Girls is scheduled today when thousands of Camp Fire members begin calling on homes in the valley.

The three-week "Super '77" product sale, an annual affair, will continue through Feb. 15. Purpose of the traditional giant sale is to earn funds that are used directly for maintenance of the distinctive Camp Fire Girls program.

The sale marks the only time in the year that the girls go to the public for support. The young girls, in their red-white-and-blue costumes, will canvass every neighborhood and shopping center and will be seen selling candy in front of banks, supermarkets and stores.

Finest quality ingredients are used in the candy and nuts sold by the girls. And, Camp Fire has held the price down to the same low price as the last few years.

Learning to sell is a valuable lesson in growing up and mastering the technique of salesmanship. Watch for the girls with their sales supply of candy and nuts or call the Camp Fire office to place an order.

MR. AND MRS. BERNARD SEITZ

60th anniversary marked by Chinoans

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Seitz of Chino will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary Thursday when a Mass will be celebrated in their home by the Rev. Gerald De Luney.

The couple was married in Chicago, Ill., Jan. 20, 1917 at St. George Church. They have resided in Southern California since 1951. Mr. Seitz retired from American Railway Express in 1968 after 25 years of service.

Attending the celebration will be their daughter, Bea Grish and her husband, Raymond, their three grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Many diamonds

The richest man in the world is said to be the Nizam (prince) of Hyderabad, one of the states of India. His crown jewels alone are probably worth 21 million dollars. The Nizam's wealth is so extensive he even uses, nonchalantly, one of his larger diamonds as a paper weight!

Joyce Brothers

Bringing job home

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband has been under tremendous strain on his job. He has a new boss, a demon who enjoys applying his authority and pressuring those around him. Because my husband's upset, there's a strain on the whole family. He insists he can cope only by working at home. He starts right after dinner and doesn't take any time out. He says this is an escape since his boss isn't around. I'm afraid if he keeps this up, he'll have a breakdown. — C.J.

Dear C.J.: Your husband may be afraid that if he doesn't work at home, his job will be threatened. I agree that whatever his reasons, this is a dangerous situation. It would help if your husband could ventilate his feelings. You would be the logical person with whom he might share his sense of frustration and anger. As long as he directs his anger at the proper target, his boss, and not at you personally, or at his family, it's healthy for him to be able to express his rage.

According to studies of stress in jobs, the best methods of coping are to try to build up resistance by establishing regular sleep and health habits, by keeping work and nonwork life separate, getting exercise, talking things through with on-the-job peers as well as with the spouse, and withdrawing physically from a situation when it's necessary.

Try to encourage your husband to change whatever he can at the office, and then when there's nothing more that can be done, to try to accept the situation and leave it at the office when he walks out the door.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm a high school senior and I've already been in and out of love four times. I wouldn't think anything about this except that I have a cousin my age who tells me he's only been in love once. He has everything and I've always envied him, but now I'm not so sure. I mean, his family is altogehter, his parents aren't split, and they have a lot of bread. My Mom earns the living in our family and we run out of money about every two weeks. When I'm in love, I'm really in there. When I'm out, it doesn't last long. Does that make me sick? Or is my cousin the one who's sick? — R.G.

Dear R.G.: Maybe neither one of you is sick. As long as you're not causing too much pain to the person you fall out of love with, I think you shouldn't worry. Adolescence is the time when youngsters test themselves emotionally, and through experience they learn what can be expected in social situations, what they like and dislike in members of the opposite sex.

One recent study indicates that those who have a little tougher time in life, with moeny and emotional security, may tend to make up for these shortcomings by having more romantic involvements. They may seek warm relationships with others in an attempt to compensate for the warmth and affection they may be missing at home.

Mirages from atmosphere

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mirages, those optical illusions which can even fool a camera, are actually caused by atmospheric conditions, says National Geographic.

The most common kind of mirage is the inferior mirage which is caused when light rays are bent by passing through varying densities of air and reflected. When the road ahead glimmers like a lake on a hot summer day, the pool is really a reflection of the sky.

The Fata Morgana, another type of mirage in which images are projected into the sky, is named after King Arthur's sorceress sister. This unusual form of mirage can have strange consequences.

In 1913 the American Museum of Natural History sent Donald MacMillan in search of Crocker Land, an area of "magnificent peaks" in the Arctic reported by Admiral Robert Peary. At first MacMillan could not locate Crocker Land, but spotted the mountains. When the sun set, the peaks did too.

Patient's rights to be talk topic

Dr. Ray London will speak on "Patient's Rights" at the Saturday awards dinner of the Mental Health Association of San Bernardino County in Pomona.

The dinner will be held at 7 p.m. at the Castaway's restaurant.

Supervisors criticize juvenile delinquent plan at Harvey Mudd

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A proposal by Harvey Mudd College to rehabilitate juvenile delinquents by teaching them wilderness survival techniques is under fire by some members of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

The board put off action on a request to grant $49,149 to the college after Supervisor Kenneth Hahn questioned the value of the project introduced by Supervisor Peter Schabarum.

Hahn said he wanted a "further evaluation of the program" even though Harry L. Hufford, the county's chief administration officer, told him the request was "consistent with other grants" made by the county.

Schabarum told the board the money would be used to "take 230 delinquent youths off the street and teach them survival skills in a wilderness setting."

He said the program would be run by Octavio Boubion, director of the college's Upward Bound project. According to Schabarum his office and Boubion have been working on the proposal for the past 18 months.

"You mean, we'd be spending $50,000 on a group of wayward boys for a wilderness camping experience," Hahn asked. "That's about $200 per child."

Schabarum said the original request was $132,000 and it has already been cut. He said the program would be run by the Upward Bound staff.

But Hahn objected on the ground that the board is now trying to save money, and it is eliminating several juvenile crime prevention programs toward that end.

The program, as proposed, would be directed by Boubion. He said that in addition to the 230 to 250 youths, agency personnel dealing with juveniles also would be included as observer-participants.

Boubion said at least 25 trips are planned over a nine-month period for small groups of children. The participants would be taken in small numbers to wilderness camps and placed in "stress-challenge situations" as part of the experiments, he explained, with professionals from the police department, the probation department and the schools coming along.

Pomona council fails to approve grant applications

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

The future of some $5 million in state and federal special project grant applications was put in jeopardy Tuesday evening as the Pomona school board voted 3-2 not to grant approval for the applications' submission until the projects can be further scrutinized.

An unusual coalition of liberal, conservative and independent votes from trustees Mary Montes, Ken Pine and Eugene Whitlock was formed to defeat passage of the special project approvals.

Board President Montes first echoed the majority opinion when she said the district should begin to cutback on outside funding. She said the staff should consider eliminating two of the outside sources to begin with before eliminating others. She failed to specify which two. Mrs. Montes said the outside funding programs can often — through their rigid guidelines — create more problems than they solve by not allowing individual schools to arrive solutions to their own problems.

Pine said, "To say that many of these programs are working at maximum efficiency just doesn't hold water any more." Pine said that he has seen time after time when state or federal funds come to the district, do not do the job they were intended for and "we keep on applying for them for the sake of applying for them."

Whitlock questioned whether many of the programs being funded were part of or in addition to the basic educational needs of district students. He requested a special meeting of the board be held Jan. 27 at 6:30 p.m. in the Education Center board room to review the special project grants in detail. Board members are to submit specific areas of concern in writing to Supt. Charles Carpenter by Friday so that he may prepare an agenda.

Specifics were the major complaint of trustees C. Allen Braswell and Don Donnelly who protested that additional and specific information was needed as to which grants the district should not pursue. Braswell requested that, in the event no written specifics were received by the superintendent by Friday, the special Jan. 27 meeting be canceled. This was agreed to by the board.

The refusal to allow submission of the special project grants could have a far reaching effect on the district. Some of the larger projects have already had their applications approved including the three phases of the Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) grant and the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) grant.

But grants still needing board approval include the applications for the Miller-Unruh reading program, Title VII and Title IX of the ESEA grant, the childrens center program, the mentally gifted minor program (MGM), Headstart and the Bilingual Vocational Education Act.

While total elimination of the special projects seems unlikely at this time, Tuesday's action does show a distinct change on the part of the board toward closer scrutiny of special project funds as well as the programs those funds make possible. Whitlock indicated at the close of Tuesday's meeting that the special meeting would definitely be held and that he definitely would submit specific concerns in writing to the superintendent.

Expo pact agreement is signed

By MAE TATE

Another sequence in the continuing drama of Expo 81 came to an end Tuesday night.

The contractual agreement between the City of Ontario, Expo 81 Corp. and Ontario Motor Speedway was finally consummated with the signing by Mayor Paul Treadway during the regular City Council session.

The OMS non-profit corporation board signed the revised agreement last Wednesday and the executive committee of the Expo board recommended approval of the contract to its directors during a special session Monday night.

Although the signatures of Mayor Treadway, OMS President Charles Cummins and Expo 81 board chairman James H. Doolittle are affixed to the contract, the problems of an international world fair at the speedway are not yet resolved.

The matter of allowing a first trust deed on the speedway as collateral for a $7 million loan from the New York City bonding firm of Allen and Company has been postponed. But the issue must be resolved by March 11 or city officials and Expo promoters will find themselves back in the same boat with no existing agreement of the three entities. The original agreement expired on Nov. 5, 1976 when Expo 81 supporters failed to obtain presidential approval and the necessary $7 million for purchase of the speedway bonds from present bondholders.

Richard Pittenger, president of Expo 81 Corp., was a bit reluctant at first to discuss the loan with Allen and Co. and what the Expo group would provide as collateral on that loan.

"I'm not prepared to answer the question regarding collateral at this time. I want to re-read and review the contract before making a snap judgment statement," Pittenger said. "I haven't had any inkling that Allen and Co. won't go along with us. We have sent the agreement to them. It would have to go to their attorney, but we've received no indication that they won't go along with the contract."

Pittenger talked at length with the press following the meeting and explained that the particulars of the contract had been worked out by Expo attorneys Richard Hodge and John Skoog. He voiced consternation about saying anything that would jeopardize the application before the Security Exchange Commission for the purchase and exchange of speedway bonds for fair bonds or money.

Skoog arrived late after having mechanical problems with his car along the 210 Freeway. He spoke candidly, saying that some of the past problems had been caused by different interpretations of what the actual agreement between the city, speedway and fair organization said. According to Skoog, those misunderstandings are for the most part cleared up.

"Everyone is on the same philosophical brain wave now," the attorney said. "Philosophically everyone is in agreement that there is to be a fair."

On the issue of the first trust deed on the speedway, Skoog said that city officials had interpreted that first trust deed as "first, coming ahead of everything else, including the city." However, a trust deed, a tax deed and an easement are all different forms of a lien and does not necessarily take precedence over all else, he said.

"The city's reversionary rights are ahead of the trust deed. You can still have a first trust deed and have the city's reversionary rights ahead of it," Skoog said. "You're talking about two different animals."

Skoog said that representatives of Allen and Co. had agreed to accept the city's reversionary rights as first priority over the trust deed. An agreement to that effect is en route to New York City now.

UTILITY POLE REMOVED

Charley McDaniel, left, district manager for the Southern California Edison Co.; Al Smith, division manager for the General Telephone Co., and Pomona Councilman Georgia Grove, chairman of the Pomona Beautiful Committee, watch as workmen lift a huge utility pole out of the ground in front of 833 W. Holt Ave. Utilities along Holt Avenue are going underground.

Power poles to be removed in city beautification effort

With beautification in mind, the utility companies and City of Pomona Tuesday renewed efforts to replace overhead power and communication lines along Holt Avenue with underground service.

The effort was prompted by Pomona Beautiful, chaired by Pomona Councilman Georgia Grove, and a 1967 California Public Utilities Commission (PUC) decision.

"It took the cooperative effort of Pomona Beautiful, the Pomona Chamber of Commerce, city utility companies, city government and private businesses to establish a working project acceptable to everyone," said Mrs. Grove.

When completed, the project will eliminate power poles along Holt Avenue from the eastern city limits to Ganesha Boulevard on the west.

Total cost of the undergrounding project is estimated at $1.2 million.

The utility companies' share will be $1,039,000 for Southern California Edison Co. and $180,000 for General Telephone Co.

Funds for the project are accumulated by setting aside a percentage of the billing for each utility meter. This money can only be used for projects to eliminate overhead lines.

Individual businesses will pay out $15,000 during the project as conversion to underground facilities is made on private properties.

The present project eliminates 26 power poles on Holt Avenue between Dudley Avenue and Hamilton Street.

Poles on Holt Avenue from Dudley Avenue west to Ganesha Boulevard were removed at a cost of $375,000.

Completion of the entire project is scheduled for April.

Ontario-to-Baltimore flight plan to be heard

By TERRY WADE
PB Washington Correspondent

The Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington Tuesday bowed to a court order and agreed to hear the application of World Airways to fly passengers from Ontario to Baltimore for $89.

A hearing date of the two-year old application "is some months in the future," according to a CAB spokesman, and won't be set before a Feb. 17 deadline for filing petitions regarding the application.

"I'm sure there will be many petitions," the spokesman added.

Seven major airlines that already fly coast to coast service joined in efforts to stymie World's initial efforts to establish the low-fare service.

World first petitioned early in 1975 to provide service from Ontario International Airport to Baltimore and from Oakland to Newark, N. J.

After more than one year the CAB decided it could not consider the merits of the application because the Federal Aviation Act barred supplemental services such as World, obtaining a regular route license.

Last month, a federal court here ruled that the CAB interpreted the aviation act incorrectly and ordered the board to consider the application in its merits.

CTO members conduct peaceful demonstration

By DAVID READER
PB Correspondent

A peaceful demonstration by 51 members of the Central Teachers Organization was held outside Cucamonga's Central School district offices prior to Tuesday evening's meeting of the board of trustees.

The teachers, who held burning candles as they stood quietly waiting for the meeting to begin, were protesting what CTO President Andrew Carlmark called a "lack of progress in negotiations" with the board on the matter of a new contract between teachers and the district.

In a statement read to the board, Carlmark listed several points of disagreement between the two parties. These included salaries, which he said have not been equal to what similar districts have given their teachers.

Carlmark stated that the board made a "final, last, and best offer" to the teachers in late October. At that time, representatives for both sides agreed that if CTO rejected the offer, the matter would be turned over to an impartial fact-finder appointed by the Educational Employment Relations Board.

By a vote of 52-0, Carlmark said, the teachers turned down the contract offer and said they were ready to go the the fact-finding procedure.

The board asked teachers to wait until the board's negotiator could make them another offer in January. The offer, according to CTO, contained only minor changes from the previous proposal that had been rejected.

Carlmark also said the board's representative would not recommend that a fact-finder be brought in to settle the dispute.

Supt. Don Sperry said the board would not respond to any of the allegations brought forth in the statement by CTO, saying that it was all an attempt by CTO to make the negotiations public.

Village lights discussion is slated tonight

Discussion of street lights and pedestrian lights in Claremont's Village business district is expected to highlight the Village Action Advisory Committee meeting Thursday at 7:15 a.m. at Oldenborg Hall on the Pomona College campus.

At its Dec. 9 meeting, the committee recommended to the redevelopment agency that a basic one-foot square wooden pole be installed at mid-block and intersection areas, with the mid-block pole being 10 feet tall, and that at the intersection be 20 to 25 feet high.

The committee also recommended that the city staff prepare an over-all street and pedestrian way lighting plan for the Village.

The plan which the committee will study Thursday will include 62 street lights and eight pedestrian lights at an estimated cost of $70,000.

The committee will select which areas to install lights first within a budget of $35,000. Included in the plan are lights for the two public parking lots.

Travel film is canceled

The travel film on Hawaii that was to have been screened at Garrison Theater, Claremont, on Friday, has been cancelled.

The movie is part of the Claremont Travel Film Series for Pomona College.

Boy trapped in elevator

Pomona firemen worked for more than 1½ hours Tuesday afternoon to release a 5-year-old boy trapped in an elevator at a medical center.

Cornel Faulkner trapped himself in the elevator at 1770 N. Garey Ave. by switching the emergency button, thus turning off the power and lights in the elevator.

Members of Engine Co. 6 called at 1:50 p.m. tried to talk the youngster into turning the switch back on, to no avail.

The firemen tried to pry the first-floor door open to release the youngster . They finally managed to release the second floor elevator door and climb on top of the elevator.

Smut crusade is backfiring

One of the least persuasive arguments some people have advanced in defense of pornography is that the legal censorship of this form of "expression" could ultimately lead to erosion of the constitutional guarantee of a free press.

History plainly shows otherwise. Even at the height of sexual repressiveness in the Victorian era, this country's press could only have been described as robust. In many respects, it was far more sensational and far less self-disciplined than it is often accused of being today.

Even that arch-foe of smut, Anthony Comstock, who was responsible for getting the Post Office involved in the business of guarding the public morality, never dreamed of inhibiting ordinary political or literary expression.

But if the pornographers can be accused of trying to wrap themselves in the mantle of the First Amendment, there is also something unsavory about the tactics that have lately been adopted by professional smut-hunters. Ignoring as bad or worse material that is freely available almost everywhere these days, they have been going after a few highly visible targets.

An example was the conviction in Memphis last year of 11 people connected with the notorious porno film "Deep Throat" on charges of participating in a "national conspiracy to transport interstate an obscene motion picture." if the convictions are upheld, it will mean that a jury anywhere can set itself up as the moral monitor for everyone else in the nation.

Facing a similar "conspiracy" rap in Cincinnati is the publisher of a magazine called Hustler, which goes well beyond the better-known Playboy or Penthouse in raunchiness, but not as far as many other magazines that crowd it for space in certain bookstores.

Another case involves the New York publisher of a particularly tasteless pulp sheet, which is a mixture of hard-core pornography and outrageous political commentary. The only conspiracy here, however, seems to have been on the part of the legal authorities, who arranged to have people send in subscriptions to the publication — and then file complaints.

Obviously, and many will say, sadly, there is a market for pornography. No one is forced to go see a film like "Deep Throat" or buy a magazine like Hustler. Nor is there any evidence that anyone has ever been harmed by the alleged obscenity, in Memphis or Cincinnati or anywhere else.

Evidently there was a market for pornography a hundred years ago, when Comstock sent people to jail for things that would cause no raised eyebrows today. And a hundred years from now the courts will probably still be grappling with the perplexing issue of obscenity and how society should deal with it.

The trouble with the current trend in prosecutions is not only that they are doing nothing to stem the tide of pornography. It is that by using methods which would be considered highly objectionable if the charge were anything other than obscenity, the smut-hunters are making martyrs out of people who certainly don't deserve the honor and are actually conferring a kind of respectability on the pornographer's trade which it would not otherwise enjoy.

Surely this is the opposite of what they hope to achieve.

Price of progress

Cleveland's Cuyahoga River hasn't been in the news since it "caught fire" several years ago. Latest report is that the much-used and much-abused waterway is freezing over — something that was thought impossible because of its heavy load of pollution.

The winter, of course, has been colder than normal, but the major reason seems to be that the Cuyahoga is much cleaner than it used to be, thanks to pollution - control efforts. The result is that instead of a dirty river that is open to shipping traffic the year round, Cleveland now has a purer river but one that is subject to the hazards of ice build-up.

Such is the price of progress.

Execution is murder

Dear Editor:

Our country says that it is wrong for one man to kill another. Our country would condemn me if I walked outside my house and began to shoot passersby. However, our country also says that if one man kills another he deserves to be killed. It is perfectly acceptable and legal in this country to want the death of any man or woman convicted of killing another. This is illogical and immoral.

By condemning a man or woman for killing another we are saying that the act of murder is wrong. Are we still saying that murder is wrong when we activate the gas chamber, an electric chair or firing squad? Is this killing not the same act that we previously condemned? The only difference between the two acts is that the victim in a street murder is innocent and the victim of capital punishment is a convicted killer. Does this circumstance change the actual act of taking a human life? No. It is still a murder that is being committed.

By allowing capital punishment to take place in this country we are being dishonest with ourselves and we are committing a sin against our fellow man. If we believe that murder is wrong, then it is just as wrong to kill a convicted murderer as it is to kill an innocent man in the street.

I do not pretend to have the solution to crime or overcrowded jails, but capital punishment is not the answer. Capital punishment is another violent crime that we can add to our statistics. When I think of Gary Gilmore's death on Jan. 17th, and of the possible upcoming executions, I am embarrassed and I weep for my country.

Mr. X tells of Oswald meeting

WASHINGTON — A mystery witness has sworn to congressional investigators that a CIA agent introduced him to Lee Harvey Oswald in Dallas three months before Oswald gunned down President John F. Kennedy.

The witness, whom we have agreed to identify only as Mr. X because of attempts on his life, is the founder of a Cuban terrorist group that worked closely with the CIA.

The group held secret meetings at 3126 Hollandale in Dallas before the assassination. Not long after Kennedy was shot, a Dallas deputy sheriff was told by an informant that Oswald had been associating with some Cubans at "3128 Harlendale."

Mr. X's dramatic testimony casts new light on the story Sylvia Odio, daughter of a wealthy opponent of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, told to the FBI. Two months before the Kennedy killing, she related, she was visited in her Dallas apartment by three men who identified themselves as friends of her father.

One was introduced to her as "Leon Oswald." When she saw the picture in the newspapers of the man who had shot Kennedy, she fainted from shock. It was the same Oswald, she was certain, who had visited her apartment.

Congressional investigators have now learned that the late J. Edgar Hoover deliberately misled the Warren Commission about Mrs. Odio's mysterious visitors. She was such a persuasive witness that the commission staff was preparing to investigate her story thoroughly.

Staff members even speculated, according to one internal memo, that the anti-Castro forces might have recruited Oswald, a known pro-Castro activist, to kill Kennedy.

"The motive on this," states the memo, "would of course be the expectation that after the President was killed, Oswald would be caught or at least his identity ascertained; the law enforcement authorities and the public would then blame the assassination on the Castro government; and the call for a forceful overthrow would be irresistible."

But Hoover abruptly blocked this line of inquiry by notifying the Warren Commission on Sept. 21, 1964 that the FBI had located and identified Mrs. Odio's callers. He named them as Loran Hall, Lawrence Howard and William Seymour, all anti-Castroites. Hoover even suggested that Mrs. Odio could have confused the names "Loran Hall" and "Leon Oswald."

Now the congressional investigators have uncovered evidence that all three denied visiting the Odio apartment and that the FBI had obtained their denials BEFORE Hoover wrote his letter to the Warren Commission.

The investigators have also obtained the tape of a fascinating conversation, predicting two weeks in advance that Kennedy would be shot "from an office building with a high-powered rifle." The prediction was made by the late Joseph Milteer, a right-wing rabble rouser, who also happened to have close connections with anti-Castro leaders.

The conversation was taped on Nov. 9, 1963, in Miami by an FBI informant named Willie Somersett, who turned the tape over to the FBI the next day. Milteer is heard on the tape describing how Kennedy would die. Then the rabble rouser added knowingly that Kennedy "knows he is a marked man."

Milteer later admitted to the FBI that he had been in Dallas in June, 1963, but denied having any knowledge of the Kennedy assassination. However, the informant told the FBI that he asked Milteer after the shooting whether he had known about it in advance or had merely been guessing. "I don't do any guessing," replied Milteer.

But the most explosive development is Mr. X's statement that he met Oswald in the company of a CIA agent. Congressional investigators questioned the mystery witness closely on three separate occasions. They finally concluded that "his credibility is strengthened by the details he provides consistent with what he told us before. Significantly, he remains very strong on the Oswald sighting."

The encounter occurred in a downtown Dallas building, where Mr. X had an appointment with his CIA contact. The agent was accompanied by a man whom Mr. X later recognized as Kennedy's killer.

"When he saw it was Oswald that killed Kennedy," the investigators reported in a confidential memo, "he nearly freaked out, but he never said anything."

The investigators tried to pin down Mr. X on how he could be sure the man was Oswald. Mr. X replied, according to the memo, that he had learned "how to retain the characteristics of a person; he had trained himself to do that. And if it wasn't Oswald, it was someone who was EXACTLY like Oswald, his exact double."

Mr. X knew his CIA contact only as "Morris Bishop," which, of course, wasn't his real name. The congressional sleuths have been unable, thus far, to track him down.

If it turns out to be true that the mysterious Morris Bishop was in touch with Lee Harvey Oswald in Dallas, this doesn't mean, of course, that the CIA had anything to do with the subsequent assassination.

When nobody liked poodles

Noted the other day that the poodle is the most popular dog in America.

What happened to the collie, the airedale, the fox terrier and if you will pardon me, the hound dog?

Southerners, of whom I happen to be one, are fond of hounds and bird dogs. They earn their keep. A good hound pays for itself many times over in rabbits, coons, possums and wildcats — if you put a value on such creatures.

A bird dog that really knows its business is a jewel beyond price. It tells you where the partridges are — pardon me again, the quail.

Hounds have always been an important part of my life. There was my old Walker foxhound Mack, who accompanied me on my first visit to Lake Okeechobee along about 1918. Mack hated cows.

I was camped in a tepee tent on the ridge, down below the Hole in the Wall along with Mack when he started chasing this cow. I heard his baying a long way off and then, as it got closer, I realized the certainty of disaster. There was not room for the cow to pass the tent.

I stood aside. The cow hit the tent and carried it off. Old Mack came back, wagging his tail, asking to have his ears scratched. I scratched. He had done a good job.

Old Mack was nobody's fool. He was afraid of alligators. One time the Old Man and I were camped on a creek bank when Old Mack pushed himself into the tent. Dad grabbed him by the loose skin of his neck and threw him outside. He barged back in.

Dad reached back down to pick up a shotgun loaded with buckshot and delivered both barrels to a 12-foot alligator just outside the tent door.

Hounds are most remarkable for their ability to trail and tree. Old Man Roebuck was a little blind beagle that could tell you whether a fox squirrel was still up the tree, where the wild turkeys were, or how to follow a deer across a slough just by smelling the maiden cane.

Hounds can be both good and bad. I once owned one who would bay a coon until he had it treed and then would fall asleep underneath the tree. It was up to you to find which of 1,000 trees he was sleeping underneath.

The most unnerving thing about any sort of dog is what, for better definition, must be called ESP. You are sitting with your dog in the quiet of a camp at night when suddenly its hackles rise, it faces an unknown and invisible intruder, and you see nothing.

My favorite dog, in a lifetime of owning many, was big old red Pudge, a golden retriever. I used to take her out into the ocean in a 14-foot boat. When we were just about out of sight of land, Pudge would come back to me, put a paw on my shoulder and beckon with the other paw landward.

Pudge did not have much sense about alligators. She thought they were just another sort of dog. When we would go fishing in the back country, I had to keep Pudge tied up to keep her from becoming too friendly with the gators.

One time I remember, out on St. Lucie Canal, Pudge jumped loose and swam out to greet a friendly alligator. It snapped at her and she showed the good sense to swim back. I had to bounce rocks off the head of the gator before it gave up.

Poodles? No, we didn't have any. Our dogs were tough dogs. The country has changed.

Just in jest

Old years go and new years arrive but some things never change. Ninetten seventy-seven is no exception. The bleeding hearts are once again crying all over the place. Dozens of them have written letters to their newspapers whimpering in protest because inmates of San Quentin have been ordered to get rid of their pet cats. Space will not permit enumerating all the sad arguments these wailing do-gooders are using, but one typical example should suffice to give you the general idea.

"Life in prison is a grim, lonely existence. It is pitiful that inmates must give up pets which provide comfort and a sense of responsibility and caring. To take pets away is cruel and dehumanizing."

I have read dozens and dozens of such letters, seeking to learn if any of them made much sense. And the one strange thing that developed from all that reading was this. In not one instance did those bleeding hearts have a kind word to say for the victims of the poor, misused, misunderstood pet loving criminals — not one word of comfort nor any indication that they even gave a damn because of the "grim lonely existence" those victims are now living. —

Personally I believe it all adds up to one uncontestable truth. Bleeding hearts constitute perhaps the most "cruel and dehumanizing" thing a crime victim is forced to put up with for the rest of his life.

Why a Senate chaplain?

By EARL G. WATERS

The heat of the election campaigns having cooled, an incident which stirred angry reaction can now be viewed objectively. It seems the chaplain of the Senate, since replaced, used his office to urge the election of certain candidates whom he described as "good Christians."

Exactly how "good Christian" is defined is unclear although it may be suspected to mean one who faithfully practices the teachings of Christ, something few who profess the faith manage to do. On examination there is probably little distinction in "goodness" of character between such a Christian and those who adhere strictly to the beliefs held by the Jews, Moslems, Buddhists, Confucians or other worthy faiths. Even agnostics and atheists can be persons of high principles and morals.

It was wrong for the chaplain to favor one faith over another in an election. That violates Article VI of the Constitution which forbids religious tests as a requirement for public office. It was wrong for him to abuse his position by indulging in politics. That wrong was compounded by the use of his official stationery.

But in view of the lawmakers' tolerance of other legislative employees engaging in partisan campaigning at taxpayers' expense, it is understandable. The chaplain just got carried away with the mob. Obviously he didn't see how his electioneering differed from that of other staffers. Excepting for the injection of religion into the campaign, it didn't. In his zeal to advance the careers of those who subscribed to Christianity he overlooked the affront to those of other faiths.

The flap, coming as it did in connection with an election, obscured the basic issue involved. That is: why does the legislature have chaplains? Their function, that of offering a prayer at the start of each day's sessions, seems a glaring trespass on the principles of separation of church and state, the very principle used by the legislators in denying prayer of any kind in the public schools.

A persuasive argument against the practice of incorporating prayer with legislative sessions is found in the Declaration of Principles published in Liberty, a publication of the Seventh-day Adventists who are most forceful advocates of religious liberty.

"We believe," it is stated, "in religious liberty and hold that this God-given right is exercised at its best when there is separation between the church and state.

"We believe in the individual's natural and inalienable right to freedom of conscience; to worship or not to worship; to profess, to practice, and to promulgate his religious beliefs, or to change them according to his conscience or opinions, holding that these are the essence of religious liberty; but that in the exercise of this right he should respect the equivalent rights of others.

"We believe that all legislation and other governmental acts which unite church and state are subversive of human rights, potentially persecuting in character, and opposed to the best interests of church and state; and, therefore, that it is not within the province of human government to enact legislation or perform such acts.

"We believe it is our duty to use every lawful and honorable means to prevent the enactment of legislation which tends to unite church and state, and to oppose every movement toward such union, that all may enjoy the inestimable blessings of religious liberty."

It is obvious then that the very existence of the office of a legislative chaplain is offensive to the Adventists. For their same reasons it is probably equally objectionable to many others which gets back to the question of "why a Senate chaplain?"

Equality is a girdle for men

Dear Ann: I'm a 50-year-old lady with her own Equal Rights Amendment.

Last summer my husband and I spent two weeks camping. The feeling of freedom was wonderful. Part of it was going without my girdle for 15 glorious days!

The first evening back home we were eager to share our experiences with some close friends, so we treated them to dinner. When we got home, my husband said, "You looked a little sloppy tonight. Why didn't you wear your girdle?"

I became angry and invited him to look in the mirror and see which one of us looked sloppier. We both decided to go on a diet.

The next day I was still mad. I went downtown and bought a girdle — for HIM. When he came home, I said, "Put this on. You look a little sloppy." He thought I was kidding and replied, "Those things are for WOMEN." I told him they were for anybody with bulges — and he qualified.

Now we both wear girdles, and he not only looks better but says his back is giving him less trouble. Print this, Ann. We might get something going. — Equal In Dubuque

Dear Equal: I doubt we'll start a trend but thanks for writing. Your letter was my laugh for the day.

Dear Ann: Your response to the woman who hated smoking was downright gutless. "No Go In San Leandro" told you she removed the ashtrays in her living room but it didn't help.

Her brother-in-law called her "some kind of a nut," lit a cigarette anyway and put the ashes in his pants cuff. Her neighbor started to smoke in the kitchen, saw no ashtrays handy so she used the pot of African violets. Her husband's boss simply dropped his cigar ashes on the rug and said, "This'll keep the moths out."

Why didn't you tell her (as you have told so many others) to substitute that macaroni in her spine for a little stiffer stuff? I was shocked when you simply commented on the oddball traffic in her house and suggested that she keep some ashtrays handy "just in case."

I know a top-flight executive who owns a very successful cosmetic company in Lakewood, Ohio. He has signs posted all over the place that say, "THANK YOU FOR NOT SMOKING." If anyone lights up a cigar or a cigarette in his office he says, "Sorry, no one smokes in here. If you must have a cigarette, there's a room down the hall you can use."

Now there's an approach I admire. — Outspoken In Ohio

Dear Out: I recognize the man. He's my good friend Jess Bell. You are right. Bell's approach is forthright and admirable. I urge other executives to follow his example. Sorry I took a dive. Thanks for hauling me up short.

Dear Ann Landers: Inasmuch as a poll was conducted in your column for people who, if they had it to do over again, would not have had children, why not conduct a poll for people who would rather not have been born? — Curious In Fort Smith, Ark.

Dear Ark: I suspect you are being facetious but without conducting a poll, I can tell you that millions of people in this world are miserable and depressed. For them there is no joy in living. They would rather not have been born.

Traits in kittens stay to adulthood

DEAR DR. MILLER: Can you help us decide which one of these kittens to get? They are I think, seven weeks old now. The prettiest of the two, the calico, is terribly independent. But then I guess that's the way cats should be. The other tabby is curious enough and, of course, a cat should be that way, too. But she's a lot friendlier. She comes right over to us when we call her, or even when we don't call her (but kneel down for her). We're actually kind of stuck on young Stuck-Up (the calico.) Would this be the right choice, or does it make that much difference really? — K.Y.

DEAR K.Y.: Since kittens from the same litter can vary considerably in personality, choice definitely does make a difference. Generally speaking, the traits that show are the traits that grow. Odds are the calico kitten's disdainful demeanor will continue to dominate her personality. Conversely, the friendly feline may be reasonably expected to continue to develop a considerable interest in the species Homo sapiens. From a pet standpoint, that's not bad. Perhaps the best way to be sure you're making the right choice is to pick them both. Raising two kittens is by no means twice as much work as one, but it is definitely twice the fun.

Pooches in pickups

Those riding in the pickup truck bed have year-round hazards to cope with, particularly the constant danger of falling to the roadway. At any speed, this can cuase serious injury or death. If it doesn't, a following car may quickly do in the survivor. The dog who does survive intact is still likely left behind to become lost, lonely and bewildered. The partially-prudent person who leashes his dog to the pickup may prevent the previous problem only to create a new one just as bad. The leashing must be done properly or the dog jumping or falling from the truck could be dragged along the road to its death or, with a slightly shorter leash, could dangle over the side and hang itself. The dog confined on short leash INSIDE the pickup bed still has potential (albeit less critical) problems. Tiny pebbles bouncing from the roadway can cause injury. Wind, even warmed by summer, can cause eye and ear inflammation. Wind chilled by winter can make even well-coated dogs at least uncomfortable. At highway speeds, the chill factor can be severe in cool weather and impossible for most dogs to cope with in cold weather. Severe chilling and pneumonia are frequent complications. Pickups for pooches? Sure, anytime. But in the cab . . .

For Thursday, Jan. 20, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a tendency today to attempt to be all things to all people. This is fraught with danger, for you will hurt rather than help others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The day is loaded with opportunity. You may not appreciate the advantages that abound, but you'll still come out in the plus column.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Friends and associates will dig your ideas more today if you keep them simple. It's no reflection on your intelligence to do so.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your practical instincts will be overridden today by wishful thinking. Flimsy substance is not the true stuff that successful dreams are made of.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's very simple for you to rationalize today. You're looking for an easy way out. You'll be able to find some answers, but they won't be the right ones.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Look beyond your nose today or you'll miss the big picture. What you can find easily is probably more a mirage than reality.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Beware of being reckless today with your resources when they're coupled with those of another. You'll forgive yourself if there are losses, but the other party won't.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're a good opener today, but a very poor closer. You don't know when to stop selling. This could result in no sale at all.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Verbalizing colorfully comes easily to you today. The only fly in the ointment is your tendency to depart from the facts too readily.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Tips from well-meaning friends should not be taken at face value today. Get the advice of some experts in the field.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be more persistent regarding your goals today. You have been too prone to wither under criticism and this is not wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Think for yourself today rather than accept as gospel the words of others. It's possible you're giving them credit for being brighter than they are.

Your Birthday, Jan. 20, 1977

Some surprising changes are in store for you this year. You'll be exposed to an abundance of opportunity, but you must react quickly.

As one to the manners born

One of the things I like about visits to the dentist (or, to be truthful, the ONLY thing I like about them) is the odd magazines you get to read — unless your hands are trembling too much.

One recent trip found me immersed in an article on social awareness in a popular ladies' magazine — that is, a popular magazine for ladies. Knowing what to do and how to do it gracefully. It opened my eyes, I can tell you.

Guests are met at the front door, I learned to my astonishment. It has always been my custom to greet visitors in the cellar, about halfway between the furnace and the laundry tubs. Well, I've learned something.

"In introductions, whose name is said first?" asked the article, but the old smarty already knew the answer, because it rattled right along saying men are presented to women (except for clergymen and heads of government), younger to older, and so on. What if the priest happens to be a clergyperson? Or the younger a head of state? My!

However, it's useful to know these things in case about-to-be President Carter pops in on me unexpectedly (in my cellar). I can say, "This, O Head of State, is my wife." (If that's who it is.) Otherwise, it is correct to say, "President Carter, this is NOT my wife — and what are you doing in my cellar, anyway?"

How do you get on a first-name basis with acquaintances, mused the nutty little magazine. Then told. You call him Mr. Smith (a likely name) until asked by the other person to use the given name. This is always assuming that it IS Mr. Smith. Bound to be awkward otherwise.

"A man usually makes this suggestion to the woman rather than the other way around," says the article primly. I don't know what the other way around means — possibly a different kind of suggestion a man usually makes, the cad. The woman should then say, "Please call me Mary (or whatever your first name is)." More confusion.

"Please call me Mary or whatever your first name is," is going to sound either bold or evasive. That alleged Mr. Smith is bound to end up with a good stinging slap — and serve him right, too.

The magazine article blathered on about all sorts of insuperable social problems. When you are not seated at a table, what do you do with your glass when you are finished with it? Obviously you throw it into the fireplace with a resounding toast to the Queen. Didn't you ever see "Gunga Din"?

What to do with a napkin puzzles the magazine. Wurra, wurra, what'll thim foine folk be after thinkin' up nixt? You tuck the napkin under your chin whilst eating. Upon completion of the meal, belch politely, thank your hostess, wipe the silverware on the napkin, and thrust knife, fork and spoon into your pocket. The napkin is neatly folded and left for the next guest.

There's nothing difficult about social graces if you just use common sense.

Problem after ulcer surgery

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 50 years old and seven years ago I had an operation for a duodenal ulcer. The surgeon inserted a plastic tube to act as the stomach outlet and removed part of the intestine.

Since the operation, when I eat anything that has sugar in it an hour later I become very sleepy. My heart thumps like a bongo drum and I shake all over. My skin feels like it is on fire and I sweat terribly. I have to lie down and I go to sleep immediately. When I am out somewhere I don't eat because I never know when this will happen. I've had tests for diabetes and they don't show anything. Could you possibly give me any clues to what this could be? Other than this I am in very good health.

DEAR READER—You have what doctors call the "dumping syndrome." It is a complication of your surgery. That does not mean the doctor did something wrong. About a third of people who have operations for ulcers have a dumping syndrome after surgery. Less than five per cent of patients operated upon continue to have difficulties such as you experience. The others recover within a few months after surgery.

Apparently the mechanism is to empty (dump) the contents of the stomach too rapidly into the small intestine, before there is time to dilute the food with the acid digestive juice of the stomach.

Concentrated sweets such as sugar are the worst. These draw fluid into the intestine from your bloodstream in an effort to dilute the solution. This decreases the amount of fluid in your blood and decreases the volume of blood available for circulation. This and other hormonal responses stimulates your sympathetic nervous system.

The sympathetic response causes an outpouring of adrenaline, the fight or flight hormone. The heart rate may speed up, you may feel shaky and you will sweat. This is the typical adrenaline response that is also triggered with an attack of low blood sugar and also with attacks of anxiety. In some patients with your problem low blood sugar is a major factor in causing the symptom complex.

You can help manage your problem by following the program for low blood sugar (hypoglycemia) and I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-9 to give you more information on this.

Others who want this information on hypoglycemia can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, NY 10019.

The drowsiness is part of the picture and people with this difficulty often need to lie down after eating. It is important for you to limit your concentrated carbohydrate intake by avoiding sweets, sugar and starches and foods that contain them. You can eat leafy vegetables and bulky foods. Salads will help here. They are emptied more slowly.

You will need to eat more protein foods because these will not trigger these reactions and can be used for energy. Although there are few conditions where I recommend increasing the fat in the diet this is one place where it is helpful. You will need to use more fat for calories since you won't be using as much carbohydrate. Small frequent meals rather than large ones, avoiding liquids for an hour before and an hour after the meal and lying down after eating all help prevent this reaction. Avoid tobacco, alcohol and coffee.

"I'm thankful he didn't order me shot."

—Ted Turner, owner of the Atlanta Braves, who was suspended for one year by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for his actions in pursuing free-agent outfielder Gary Matthews.

"In the last two weeks, just walking into my building, you noticed the difference. People are starting to talk to me again. Before the ladies might say hello or avoid me. Now, they're talking of the playoffs already."

—Walt Frazier of the New York Knicks, on the changed attitude since his team became an N.B.A. contender recently.

Insane double has logic

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

North's two-club call was a decided underbid. His 19-point hand was really worth some sort of jump after his partner responded with one spade. On the other hand, North did not know just what jump to make. He didn't like the idea of a jump raise with just three trumps or a jump in clubs or hearts with his actual holdings in those suits. So he bid two clubs and hoped his partner would not pass.

South didn't pass. He raised clubs to three. North bid three spades, South went on to game and all of a sudden West doubled.

The double looks insane but there was a lot of method in West's madness. He was sure that his partner could ruff a club!

So West opened a club. East ruffed and returned a diamond to West's ace. A second club ruff was the third trick for the defense and then, as West explained later on, it was only reasonable to assume that East could produce a trick of his own.

East did. He held the ace of trumps and since the game was match points, West's double had given them a top score.

A British Columbia reader wants to know why a "finesse" is called by that name.

The answer is that the term goes way back to whist and was obviously coined by some unknown player of that game.

Turning on an electric eel

Approximately 40 per cent of an electric eel is comprised of about 70 columns which contain 6,000 to 10,000 little generators. When discharged at the same time, the eel's head becomes positive, its tail negative. Electric current then flows through the water between the head and the tail on all sides of the eel. To turn on an electric eel, you have to get real close, and scare it.

Those unscientific citizens who try to link facial characteristics with personality traits contend that people with small ears are inclined to be flirtatious and artistic.

SECOND-HAND CLOTHES

Q. "Don't people like Queen Elizabeth and Jackie Onassis get more money for their dresses when they sell them second-hand than they paid for them in the first place?"

A. Jackie Onassis gets sizable sums for her second-hand dresses, although probably not as much as the original costs. Queen Elizabeth, however, never resells a dress. Her cast-off clothing is either burned or ripped to pieces so the material can be donated to welfare institutions.

Q. "You said the shortest holo-alphabetic sentence is 'Pack my bag with five dozen liquor jugs.' But there's no X . . . ?"

A. Quite so. Should have said: "Pack my box . . . " etc.

NICKNAMES

Question arises as to whether the individuals in all societies have had nicknames. Don't know, don't know. Do know, though, that the nickname thing goes way back. Even to ancient Egypt. Scholars say their studies reveal that certain Egyptians in the days of the pharoahs were known to their intimates as Red, Baldy, Lazy, Ape, Frog, Donkey and Big Head. Those were commoners. One son of a king was called The Cat. And a particular king's daughter was referred to as Nosey.

Was just 100 years ago, please note, that Mr. Charles Hires of Philadelphia became the first person in history to figure out how to mass produce root beer.

Bomber eyes pardon program to lower sentence

WAUPON, Wis. (AP) — Karl Armstrong, the former Eagle Scout whose personal antiwar bombing campaign ended in death for a young physics researcher, says he'll try to use Jimmy Carter's pardon program as a wedge to get a reduced sentence.

Armstrong, now 30 and balding, is serving 23 years in the Waupon State Prison for the 1970 bombings of the Army Math Research Center at the University of Wisconsin-Madison and an Army ammunition plant near Baraboo, Wis.

Five years after he was arrested in Canada, Armstrong says he remembers both "the incredible high" he felt when he heard that the Army Center bomb had exploded, and the "intense sorrow" he felt minutes later when a radio station flashed word of the death.

Carter has not proposed pardons for civilian antiwar activities, but Armstrong says the spirit of the program should apply to his case.

In his first interview since he was sentenced since 1974, Armstrong, a former University of Wisconsin student, told The Associated Press: "You can talk about draft resisters, that they took a stand, but you know they risked very little. I felt very strongly about the war, and I took direct action to oppose it. I'm not ashamed."

Armstrong will ask Circuit Court Judge William Sachtjen to reduce his state sentence to 10 years, the same as his federal sentence. He pleaded guilty in both state and federal courts in April 1974.

"I'm not a criminal," Armstrong said, "and I don't constitute a threat to anyone. And the mood of the country has changed. A man died in the bombing, and there was a demand for payment. I feel responsible, and I can accept that.

"But 23 years — even the federal judge thought it was excessive."

U.S. District Judge James Doyle, in sentencing Armstrong, said he considered "imprisonment in the range of 25 years in extravagent response to the need for general deterrence."

Armstrong's attorney, Mark Frankel of Madison, said Monday that the request for a reduced sentence will be filed shortly after Carter announces his pardon program.

Armstrong said he plans to cite three new circumstances as reasons for a reduced sentence: Carter's pardon program, the 7-year sentence given to David Fine for his role in the Army Math Center bombing, and a cancer illness that leaves Armstrong's father, Donald, near death.

Carter, expected to announce the range of his pardon program next week, has pledged to pardon "those who violated Selective Service laws" and to consider pardons for deserters on a case-by-case basis. He also has been considering upgrading less-than-honorable discharges given to 250,000 servicemen during the Vietnam era.

Armstrong says he sees the pardons as reflecting Carter's desire to heal the domestic wounds caused by the Vietnam War.

Noting Secretary of State-designate Cyrus Vance's recent testimony that the war had been a mistake, Armstrong said: "I saw the act as a personal means of civil disobedience.

"The act itself wasn't a crime. I was as careful as I knew how. But in hindsight there was a measure of irresponsibility, and it was a crime because Robert Fassnacht was killed."

Fassnacht was working in his laboratory at 4 a.m. when the Math Center was bombed. He was killed by the impact, and is thought to be the only fatality caused by an antiwar bombing. Armstrong pleaded guilty to second-degree murder.

Of his decision to bomb military-related institutions, Armstrong says: "My crimes don't compare with the government's crimes in Vietnam.

"I knew it would be no bed of roses if I got caught; I thought I might be shot on the site."

Armstrong was one of four members of the so-called New Year's Gang that was sought for the bombing. He was working in a machine tool shop in Toronto when he was arrested after 18 months underground.

Fine was arrested in California in 1976. Armstrong's younger brother Dwight and former University of Wisconsin crew member Leo Burt still are sought in connection with the bombing.

Fine pleaded guilty to a reduced charge last August and is now serving seven years in federal prison. Sachtjen, the Dane County judge, also sentenced Fine to seven years on state charges.

Fine was sentenced more than a year after the Vietnam war ended, and Armstrong says Fine may have benefited from a mood for domestic reconciliation.

Of his life in prison, Armstrong says: "We live in our own narrow world, and we have our own narrow interests."

He is working with a group trying to win more rights for Wisconsin prisoners. He says he gets along well with the other inmates.

"Sometimes it's hard to make friends here. When you get out, you know you won't see these people again. I'm just not into robbing banks."

Armstrong says he reads and watches some television. Recently he began to take trumpet lessons in the prison.

"I'm pretty lousy," he says. Asked what songs he's learned, he adds, "We improvise the blues."

Prince Philip criticized by labor

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, said in a magazine interview today that Britain is like a building suffering from dry rot. He immediately drew criticism from three Labor legislators.

The prince's interview was in Director, a conservative monthly journal of about 45,000 circulation published by the Institute of Directors, a professional body supported by Britain's big business chiefs.

In the interview, Philip said socialist Britain has "virtually left the league of the big powers" and was heading for the status of a Third World nation.

"He was talking straight Victorian," said Labor legislator Tom Litterick. "That statement is straight out of Queen Victoria's age — it is arrogance."

"I feel sorry for him because this is high Tory (conservative) camp," said another Labor member of Parliament, Maureen Colquhoun. "He has become rather a British joke."

Racquetball latest sports craze to sweep nation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Something strange is at work in the wonderful nonsense world of sport in America.

Athletic types by the millions are deserting the great outdoors — even in Southern California — to enter stark white rooms and beat rubber balls against the walls with stubby racquets.

Then they go into the real world to speak glowingly of their activity, introducing the healthy habit to others.

These rooms used to be called handball courts, but the term is falling into disuse, except in the East. Elsewhere, these retreats from care and worry are called racquetball courts, named for the game most played in them, with rules and action similar to handball and squash.

Of course, there remains a hardy group of handball and squash players who may be found roaming the hardwood, muttering about how difficult it is to get court time and how racquetball players must be feeble minded.

Yet racquetball, since poor beginnings in the late 1950s, has boomed like few other sports since its first organized national tournament in 1968 at Milwaukee or in 1969 at St. Louis, depending on which veteran player you ask.

Those who should know cite many reasons for the phenomenon, including some psychologial explanations, but first some figures:

Best estimates of the number of racquetball players in the United States and Canada range from three to eight million.

The low figure comes from a recently commissioned survey. The high figure was mentioned by an optimistic publisher who also manufactures racquetball equipment.

In 1969, three persons played racquetball in San Diego, one of the sports' current hotbeds. Now their indoor numbers have swollen to 10,000 in that city, famous for its outdoor climate.

At the 1976 National Sporting Goods show, 66 companies showed up with their lines of racquetball equipment, mostly racquets, shoes and balls.

They report sales of about 10 million racquetballs a year, with racquet sales of about 1.5 million.

Businessmen estimate the number of courts in the land at 50,000, about 40,000 inherited from handball played at YMCAs, Jewish community centers, military bases and college campuses.

The remaining 10,000 courts are in the form of pay-as-you-play clubs averaging six to 10 courts each complete with hot baths, steam rooms and the like. Most were built in the last three years and construction shows no signs of slowing.

The construction figures come from a man who is one of the sport's certified pioneers, Dr. Bud Muehleisen of San Diego, a dentist, winner of that first national championship in St. Louis, 1976 senior singles champion at age 45 and developer of equipment.

He owns a good portion of the Southern California club action, and plays occasionally on a professional circuit.

The professional racquetball tournaments number about 15, and offer more than $120,000 in prize money.

A racquetball game with Dr. Bud, his victims say, is like trying to swat flies in a dark pit crawling with rattlesnakes.

"This game affords a great mental release," he said. "It's fun and easy to play. One real plus is the fact that the beginner can have as much fun as the pro. Not many sports offer that.

"What happens is that you become involved in a game with no out-of-bounds line or net. You may hit a bad shot and still be in the game. When you leave feeling good, you look forward to your next workout."

Easy to learn, he added, but hard to master, which keeps many men and women (the ladies make up 35 to 40 per cent of the players) coming back for more.

A number of professional athletes play in their off-seasons to keep in shape.

Ron Cey, Los Angeles Dodger third baseman, is one of them.

"The sport has a lot of things which are correlated with baseball," he explained. "My position has a lot of quickness and agility plays, with many splitsecond decisions, like racquetball."

However, not all is sweetness and light in this racket. Two groups are vying for national control of the sport, and the conduct of some players on the pro tour makes Ilie Nastase look like a choir boy.

Screaming and yelling in the name of psyching an opponent, said at times to be accompanied by foaming at the mouth, was common on the 1976 tour.

"I'm not convinced yet that racquetball is cut out to be a sport for a professional elite," said Ron Starkman, 37, who publishes one of the four periodicals devoted to the sport.

"But I'm convinced it is the greatest single participant sport in the country. You get a helluva workout in one hour's time, equivalent to two or three hours of tennis, with a small investment in equpiment."

Chuck Leve, 28, who heads the Chicago-based U.S. Racquetball Association, says: "In a sense we came in on the coattails of tennis, which made Americans racquet conscious. Suddenly, people discovered a better physical education bargain. It's not a fad."

Tom McKie, 32, leader of the rival International Racquetball Association, based in Dallas, notes that the sport largely has escaped attention of the national media, but is gaining notice. "And the advertising dollar is picking up," he added.

Both men identified the sport's hotbeds as Southern California, Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis, Minneapolis-St.Paul, San Francisco, Memphis, Dallas, Miami, Cleveland and Milwaukee.

"Our soft spot is from Atlanta to New York," said Leve. "But when some new courts go up in New York, watch out."

Know nothing

The Know Nothing Party, the nickname of the American Party, was a political group which wanted to curtail immigration to the United States and to curb the influence of the Roman Catholic Church. During its peak in the mid-1850s it had 5 senators and 43 representatives in Congress, and ran former President Millard Fillmore as its presidential candidate in 1856.

Potato chips must be fit to eat in Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — No matter where you munch potato chips — from Minneapolis to Tokyo — the bag probably tells you that they're fit to eat in Pennsylvania.

In one of the world's most widespread — if not widely read — inscriptions, somewhere near the bottom of the bag it says, "Reg. Penna. Dept. Agr."

It's the same with noodles, pretzels and corn snacks.

Back in 1933, a handful of Pennsylvania agriculture officials decided to require a seal of approval on all packages of macaroni, spaghetti, pretzels, potato chips and snacks made from cornmeal sold in the state.

"As a matter of economics, it's easier for the manufacturer to print that label on all his products, rather than just on those shipped to Pennsylvania," said Joseph Brennan, director of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Foods and Chemistry.

He said he once heard from a soldier stationed in France who saw the label on a bag of breadsticks made in Genoa, Italy.

The label does not necessarily mean that Pennsylvania has inspected the baker, but it guarantees that Pennsylvania's standards have been used for the inspection.

The label appears on items made by 916 U.S. bakeries outside Pennsylvania. Some 3,400 Pennsylvania bakeries also are licensed. So are 242 baked-goods manufacturers outside the United States.

The number grows each year, because no producer wants to risk having products seized by Pennsylvania agriculture agents.

If an agent finds a baked product being sold without the label, the manufacturer usually is notified not to send any more products until he is licensed, Brennan said.

But exceptions are made, he added, particularly for overseas bakers. "It's pretty much a judgment call," Brennan said. "We usually allow them to sell their products until they're granted their license. Unless, of course, there's a health hazard."

Brennan said Connecticut has a similar licensing program, but requires only the company's license number on the package.

The labeling program apparently began because out-of-state bakery products were becoming popular. But it hasn't been extended to other products, probably because of the heavy paperwork involved.

Producers of milk, frozen desserts and soft drinks have to be licensed, but don't have to show any label.

Leroy Corbin, Pennsylvania's chief of food control, said he rarely hears a complaint about the state's requirement.

"I get as many calls from non-bakers who want the label on their product," he said. "They determine it to be an endorsement."

But it's illegal for the label to appear on non-bakery or non-noodle products, Brennan said. "We don't intend it as an endorsement."

Animals prolific at zoo

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The president of the San Diego Zoological Society says breeding programs are making it less and less important to import zoo animals from the wilds.

Ivor de Kirby said Monday in a speech that the survival rate for wild animals born at Wild Animal Park near Escondido stands at 84 per cent, compared with a 14 per cent rate if the animals had been born in the wilds.

The program at Wild Animal Park and its parent San Diego Zoo is so successful many animals can be sold to other zoos.

He said Wild Animal Park has had 27 baby rhinos in recent years with some of them being sold for as much as $16,000.

The rhino became so prolific the males finally had to be segregated from the females, he said.

He said improved animal medical research and care accounts for the survival rate.

Carter aide says she'll prod him to do more for women

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — The second-floor guest room in Paul and Vickie Landry's rambling Victorian home in the North End has become "The Jimmy Carter Room."

In another part of town, Lucille Kelley says she ordered a gold plaque to put on the door of a room in her house. It will read: "The Carter Suite."

When Carter is inaugurated on Thursday as 39th president of the United States, he leaves behind a two-year trail of Lucille Kelleys and Paul and Vickie Landrys — people who provided lodging for him during his uphill campaign and, by doing so, feel they earned a small place in the nation's history.

"At the time he was 'Jimmy Who.' He was driving around with Jody Powell in a rented Datsun," recalls Peter Hance of Laconia. Hance, who gave a bed to Carter one winter night in 1975, will join others like him in Washington for the inauguration and a special reception at the White House the day after.

"We lived in a drafty old house, and it was during some of the coldest weather we've ever had. We kept our thermos at 55 degrees and the potbelly stove going in the kitchen," Hance said, recalling the night Carter stayed at his home.

"That night it was 20 below outside, and we didn't turn up the thermos. We figured it was about time a Southerner learned what it was like to be a Yankee during the winter and during a fuel shortage."

Like other presidential aspirants, Carter focused early on New Hampshire, hoping to make a splash in the nation's first primary. He did, and the rest is history.

William Shaheen, a Dover attorney and one of Carter's state coordinators, recalls the days in 1975 of searching not only for votes, but for a place for Carter to spend the night.

"It was very difficult because in the early days there was really no one around and no one who wanted to be bothered, especially with Jimmy Carter because there were so many candidates to look at," recalled Shaheen.

But those who did bother cherish their candid snapshots — often made with little fanfare in their living rooms — and their warm memories of the man who will be president.

"We didn't think much about it then," says Mrs. Landry. "Now it does mean something. People come into the house and say: 'Gee, this is the room Jimmy Carter slept in.' The kids want to sleep in the bed he used."

Many people who met Carter in those early days describe him as though he were a relative coming for a weekend visit.

"They were tremendous house guests," said Kevin Sullivan, whose family hosted a number of the Carter clan in Nashua. "Jimmy had an ability I've never seen duplicated in any candidate. He had the ability to stay on schedule and excuse himself from people when it was time to go without offending anyone."

And there are the small moments which give a bit of insight into the next president:

—In the mornings, one host after another remembers, Carter would make his bed and leave his room almost as if no one had been there.

—"After a tiring day, his feet were sore. He went upstairs, took his coat and tie off, took his shoes and socks off, came down barefoot and sat in the living room and had cookies and milk," recalls Landry.

—Miss Kelley, one of the earliest Carter supporters, recalls going to a sandwich shop with the candidate one night and buying a fig bar to take home. "The next morning he wanted one for breakfast," she said. "He put an inch of peanut butter on it. That struck me so funny, but he really likes peanut butter."

Wife had Wallace's phone bugged

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace's wife, Cornelia, bugged her husband's telephone, not to gain political leverage, but to save her threatened marriage, the Ladies Home Journal reports.

In the magazine's February issue, Mrs. Wallace is quoted as saying: "I can't think of one thing I have done that was politically motivated, except to campaign for my husband. All I was ever trying to do was keep the marriage together."

The bugging incident surfaced last September when the governor confirmed reports that his telephone conversations at the governor's mansion had been tape-recorded. He called it a "domestic matter."

According to the Journal, Mrs. Wallace tapped her husband's phone and taped his nighttime conversations "to find out who my accusers were."

"Somebody tells him (George) everything I do," she says. "I'm never totally sure who it is." Bugging the phone, then, became a way to unmask the governor's confidants who planted "destructive" rumors about her.

Among her detractors, she says, is one of the governor's brothers, Gerald. "Gerald's spread rumors that I have slept with every state trooper around," Mrs. Wallace is quoted. "All that's been written and rumored has done a lot of damage to my reputation. And it has caused dissension between George and me."

Gerald Wallace told The Associated Press that the statements attributed to him are "the most false thing ever written about me."

He said he has "never made a statement to anyone about Cornelia that was bad. If I couldn't say something nice about her, I would keep my mouth shut."

In the magazine article, Mrs. Wallace indicates that she has other detractors. Some of her "accusers," says Mrs. Wallace, "were women who would like to be in my place — who hate me and would like to see me gone. I slipped into a right unpopular place when I married George Wallace."

New degree for suburbia

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — The nation's first graduate degree program to deal exclusively with the problems of suburbia is now under way at Adelphi University. The program is sponsored by Adelphi's Institute for Suburban Studies, established in 1973 to study the consequences of the shift of many Americans from cities to suburbs.

"Many American universities responded to the urban riots of the mid-1960s by creating urban studies programs," said Professor Hugh Wilson, director of the Institute. "However America is fast becoming a suburban nation as the inner cities continue to lose population and the suburbs continue to gain."

This shift has brought increased political power to the suburbs, Wilson notes, but it has also added to the problems of suburban governments.

'Progress' making logistics of travel more difficult

By DONALD W. REYNOLDS

ABOARD M.S. PRINSENDAM — For 35 years I have been associated with an organization now operating over 50 enterprises, scattered among a dozen states. Obviously a bit of traveling has been indicated. Fortunately being a hobo at heart, the wandering has been sort of fun.

But so-called "progress" is making the logistics of travel more and more difficult. A Kissinger has the entire government at his disposal but a private citizen usually turns to a travel agency for his arrangements. This year has not been, for me, good for selecting a competent agency. I've tried three and struck out every time.

In March of 1976, I answered an ad and received a folder that said in part, "never before in the world of travel has there been a cruise to compare with this. For here — in exceptional comfort and aboard a single ship — fortunate travelers can for the first time explore the magnificent diversities of the spectacularly beautiful and little-visited succession of islands that dot the Orient seas." For weight and age, being one of the world's most gullible suckers, they had me — hook line and sinker! I called the agency in Coral Gables, Fla., that had chartered the ship for this never-to-be-forgotten trip. I booked space, sent my $2,000 deposit and mentally patted myself on the back for having the foresight to make my arrangements early.

In the fall, another travel agency arranged for the "Touring Tigers," a group of Missouri University Alumni, to make a chartered plane trip to Los Angeles for the opening football game with the University of Southern California Trojans and provided for a two-day stopover in Las Vegas enroute. I first began to doubt the infallibility of travel agencies when my friends arrived in Las Vegas without confirmed hotel reservations. It was even more chaotic in Los Angeles where another mix-up switched accommodations from a deluxe hotel to an out-of-the-way hostelry and a $27 taxi fare from the airport. One could hardly blame the travel experts for the bus strike in Southern California or for the rain at game time, but the crowded freeways and the delay in leaving the hotel still make me wonder just what sort of a game was played in the first quarter.

With my infallible Monday morning quarterbacking, I decided to check on the travel agency as to progress on my holiday trip to the Orient. The phone had been disconnected, the office closed, bankruptcy proceedings filed and my two grand was down the drain!

In retrospect one would have thought that by now I would have thought someone was trying to tell me something. But fools rush in where angels fear to tread, so I contacted another agent to try and salvage my dream of a cruise to the isles of the Orient sea.

After prolonged negotiations and several personal visits where everything was theoretically arranged, I headed for the mysterious East. It turned out to be somewhat more mysterious than I had planned.

The flight from Los Angeles to Hawaii was pleasant enough and the 10 hours scheduled from Honolulu to Tokyo, while boring, was bearable. It was on arriving in the Tokyo airport that I learned our so-called arrangements had collapsed. Tokyo this time of year is packed. My original schedule called for a short stop to change planes in Japan and make the non-stop flight to Taipei, Taiwan. A schedule change known by some of the other passengers, but not transmitted to me by my travel experts, forced us to spend the night at the Senri Hankyu Hotel in Osaka, 300 miles from Tokyo. Of course by now, there was no baggage available, and my Japanese being what it is, you can imagine the rather formidable problems in acquiring a razor and a tooth brush.

Sixteen hours later after two intermediate stops, we arrived at the airport to be halted by the immigration officer because the agency had "overlooked" the necessary visa! So other than innumerable conferences with the petty bureaucracy of Taiwan, my stay in Taipei was spent in the lounge of the airport. So on to Hong Kong and Singapore, where because of the Taipei mess we arrived two days early. But for the kindness of the hotel manager I would have spent the two days in the lobby with my Japanese disposable razor and tooth brush!

Now that I'm into the second day of cruising on the Holland American M.S. Prinsendam, I've opted for no tender (small boat) excursions to visit what I am sure are interesting and attractive islands. Perhaps in another couple of days, just being lazy, I will have sufficiently recovered to visit in Jakarta.

Of course, there is one sure way to escape all of the problems of travel and the incompetent personnel supposedly arranging things — but who wants to stay home, even though the places you visit very seldom have the creature comforts you leave? Anyone for an around-the-world trip next year?

Jamaica

'For Sale' signs show increase

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

MONTEGO BAY, Jamaica (AP) — The "For Sale" signs are sprouting along the winding roadways lacing the forested hills overlooking Montego Bay.

Nestled among the purple and yellow bougainvillea, red poinsettias and huge centuries-old trees are the sprawling, one-and two-story residences of the very rich. Some sit on bluffs overlooking the Caribbean, set apart from the teeming streets, marketplaces and docks of this resort city of about 60,000 people.

But many have barred doors and windows. Guards and huge mastiff dogs patrol the grounds, alert to any intruder, day or night.

There is fear among many of the owners — fear that gangs of roaming thugs will break in and rob, beat, rape or kill.

A growing number of the thousands of foreign residents and some of the prosperous Jamaicans — in Montego Bay, Kingston and other communities are leaving the island, or seriously considering it, as a result of rising criminal violence.

The latest was the assault, robbery and rape of Lady Sarah Spencer-Churchill and the shotgun wounding of a guest at her fashionable winter home here.

"Many Americans, British, Canadians and others who have lived here for years and some of us who come back year after year are going to think twice if something drastic isn't done," said Lady Sarah, 55, a Vanderbilt heiress and distant relative of the late Sir Winston Churchill.

This Connecticut-size island of about 2 million people, a magnet for vacationers, is bracing for repercussions from other closely intertwined circumstances — rising unemployment, depleted finances, renewed overtures to Cuba's Fidel Castro and a harsh economic austerity program expected to be announced this week by the newly re-elected government of Prime Minister Michael Manley.

But it's the criminal violence that frightens people the most, both in the capital city of Kingston and in this wintertime playground of the international set.

Although there is no outward panic nor a discernible "white flight," the indications of unrest are there.

"In the last six weeks, there has been an almost 100 per cent increase in the number of British subjects applying to go back home, or at least investigating the possibilities," said an officer at the British High Commission to Jamaica, a former British colony.

Reports from American and Canadian officials are not as serious, but "these attacks have frightened some people away, no question of it," said U.S. Ambassador Sumner Girard.

"There hasn't been much done about it, and that's the worrisome thing to many of them," said Girard, who was host to Lady Sarah in Kingston for several days after the attack on her home.

"If you've got to typify it," said a longtime American resident who was mugged recently and asked that his name not be used, "call it anti-rich, not anti-white.

"It's not exclusively outsiders who are terrorized and beaten and robbed. It's the people who live well, in the big houses up on the hills."

"I think you will find it's mainly the upper-class Jamaicans who are leaving," said a Canadian consulate officer. "Our people are watching and waiting. They're worried, and they're talking about moving out, but they're not really doing it. They love it here and they hate to leave."

The government estimates that there were 53,000 fewer tourists in 1976 than in the previous year. A Tourist Board official attributed much of the decline to what he called the "bad image" of Jamaica in the news media overseas.

There are more than 1,000 Canadians, some 4,500 British citizens and more than 7,000 Americans living on the island, but exact figures are unknown because not all are registered with their embassies. There is a smattering of other nationalities.

The problem of violence is not new.

"There has been a steady rise in hooliganism for more than two years because of too many people sitting around with no jobs, for one thing," said a member of the opposition Jamaican Labor party recently. "But this is now mixed with hate because of political rhetoric."

Dr. Herbert Eldemire, a former minister of health whose home was attacked by the same gang who assaulted Lady Sarah, blamed Manley for the violence.

"What are some of these poor devils to do when they hear the prime minister go on the radio and denounce capitalist imperialist foreigners and the wealthy for the country's problems?" Eldemire asked. "The hungry man may go out and rob to feed his family, and the vicious criminals get high on ganja (marijuana) and go out looting and raping."

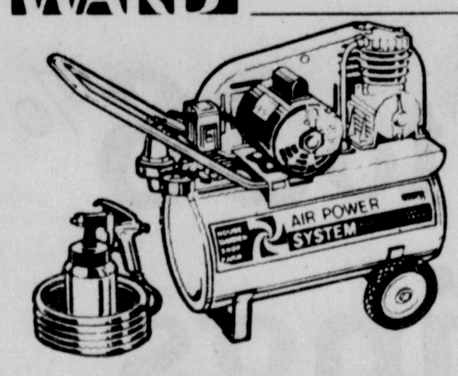

Manley, who last summer declared a state of emergency because of the outbreak in violence, sent Lady Sarah a letter after the attack but did not disclose its contents.

The day before his reelection he told a news conference there always had been "a marginal problem of political violence in Jamaica," but it had grown from rock-throwing in the old days to the "quite aweful experience of gunmen getting involved."

"Violence has its roots in ghetto poverty ... in what happens to the family structure," he said.

McNamara named in Jaycees' distinguished service award

For his contributions to community and state, his leadership ability and his vocational success, William C. McNamara, manager of the Pomona Valley Mortuary has received Pomona Jaycees' 1976 Distinguished Service Award.

The presentation was made at the Jaycees' banquet Tuesday night.

McNamara, 29, was the 1976 Jaycee blood bank chairman. He encouraged donations by telling Jaycees, "If you won't give, send your secretary and give her the rest of the day off." Because of his efforts, Pomona's club was recognized as the organization with the highest percentage of membership giving blood in 1976.

As a believer in public education, he lectured at Cal Poly Pomona, Pomona High School and Pomona Catholic High School, after designing and developing a mini course on proper estate planning, wills, funeral services and grief and bereavement as a psychological process.

He served on the Pomona Avenue of Flags Committee and helped plan June 14, Flag Day ceremonies at Indian Hill Village Mall.

He served as chairman of the Projects and Themes Subcommittee of the Pomona Bicentennial Committee and assisted in planning Pomona's Bicentennial year observances.

He served on the legislative committee of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce. He was co-chairman of the St. Joseph Catholic Church fiesta.

McNamara was day chairman for the J-Bar, Jaycee food concession at the Los Angeles County Fair, and club membership chairman where he originated an orientation program which included wives.

He is a member of the Pomona Kiwanis Club where he serves as sergeant-at-arms and on the board of directors.

He is past grand knight of Knights of Columbus Council 2378 and past deputy grand knight of Knights of Columbus Council 877 in Pomona where he edits the monthly newsletter.

At his expense, he completed a course in San Diego on how to enucleate eyes as donor tissue to be used in delicate corneal transplant surgery. A year ago, he was certified by the state Board of Medical Examiners to perform this procedure.

For community education, McNamara assembled a slide lecture which explains donor qualifications, procedures, releases and need. Acting as Pomona Valley information representative to the Los Angeles Eye Bank and the Lions Doheney Foundation, he has made the gift of sight available to eight recipients. He is on call seven days a week in this endeavor, and receives no compensation.

During 1977, McNamara is the Jaycees' Speak-Up chairman.

He is married and has three children. He is licensed as a funeral director and embalmer in California and Ohio.

He was awarded a scholarship to the National Foundation of Funeral Services in Evanston, Ill., in 1974. He took over the Pomona Valley Mortuary in January 1975.

In 1974, McNamara was awarded the President's Hero Award in Toledo, Ohio, for rescuing a trapped woman in a burning apartment building.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE — William C. McNamara, left, won the Jaycees' highest honor Tuesday night, the Distinguished Service Award. Prior winner, Bruce Richards, made presentation.

Keetle tagged 'Boss of the Year'

Stan Keetle, executive director of LeRoy Boys' Home in LaVerne is Pomona Jaycees' Boss of the Year.

He was presented a handsome plaque at the Jaycees' annual awards banquet Tuesday night.

Keetle, 50, was nominated by Jaycee Dave Kriezel, maintenance foreman at the home.

"Since I have joined the staff of LeRoy Boys' Home, Stan Keetle has supported me in all my Jaycee activities and has given me all the time off I have requested," wrote Kriezel.

In depth, he listed Keetle's civic, professional and youth contributions.

Keetle was a Pomona councilman from 1967 to 1969, a planning commissioner from 1964 to 1967 and a member of the San Gabriel Valley Planning Commission for three years before that, serving as commission chairman in 1967-68.

He served on the League of California Cities Transportation Committee in 1968-69 and was chairman of the Legislative Action Committee of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce from 1969 to 1971. He was a chamber director for three years.

He is a past director of Pomona Host Lions Club and also LaVerne Plateaus Mutual Water Co. He worked in the United Crusade campaign in 1971. He is a member of the Pomona Elks Lodge.

In 1971, Keetle was appointed to the California Attorney General's Citizen Advisory Committee.

Professionally, Keetle served on the state Committee on Children's Institution's Personnel in 1969-71 and presently is a member of the Association of Children's Institution Administrators and the California Association of Children's Residential Centers.

He is a director of Kemper Military Academy in Missouri and a district representative for the National Association Home for Boys.

He has managed a team in the Pomona American Little League, served as Camp Fire Girls district camp chairman and since 1968, served as executive director of LeRoy Boys' Home.

Keetle, Kriezel pointed out, has consistently assisted with Jaycee projects, made facilities available to them whenever possible, given employes time to work on Jaycee projects and during 1975-76, provided Kriezel with the use of his secretary to assist in preparing Jaycee treasurer reports.

Keetle reimbursed Kriezel expense money and time to attend the Jaycee's 1974 state convention.

Keetle has lived in the Pomona area 31 years.

BOSS OF YEAR — Stan Keetle, right, director of Leroy Boys' Home, is congratulated by Jaycee President Tom Dreyer after being selected Boss of the Year Tuesday night.

Jaycees play historic role

The Pomona Jaycees have always played a part in preserving the historical landmarks throughout Pomona Valley.

They believe that the history of the valley has been preserved for them, and they are obligated to assist in preserving it for future generations.

This year they have undertaken three projects to safeguard the valley's history.

They made a financial contribution to the Historical Society of Pomona Valley so it could purchase six rolls of period wallpaper to complete final touches of a bedroom in the Phillips Mansion. The paper cost $136.19.

They purchased and installed a split-rail fence around the La Casa Premira house and property at Park and McKinley avenues in Pomona. This project called for researching and talking with historians to ascertain what style and type of fencing was used when the house was built more than 170 years ago.

They have scheduled for spring the sanding and resurfacing of picnic tables at the Palomares Adobe in Pomona. Some 25 Jaycees will be involved in the project.

Tony Mikkelson is chairman of all three projects. Bruce Richards is project director.

Involvement, growth offered by Jaycees

Do you want to get involved? Do you want to grow? Can you speak in front of a group? Are you free one night a week? Do you have a goal in life? Are you satisfied with your job?

If the answer is yes to one or more of these questions, then you should call us.

We need you to become involved. You will grow and learn to speak effectively. Your goals will become defined, and you will learn to develop your unused talents.

We're waiting to hear from you today. Don't wait to call. Opportunity is waiting.

We are the Pomona Jaycees, 623-3016, P.O. Box 285, Pomona, Calif.

Young men offered 'leadership' service

Leadership through community service is what Jaycees offer to young men in the community.

Starting out, each Jaycee becomes a member of a committee. In this way he learns to function as part of a team. Committee activities last from one week to six months.

Next comes a chairmanship where the young man learns to organize a project, choose a staff, and handle all the arrangements.

Jaycees are involved in 23 separate projects from historical society to Christmas parade. This gives a wide range of projects to involve many different interests.

After a couple of years a Jaycee can be elected to the board of directors in a number of categories ranging from director of membership to president. Each job is just another step in leadership training.

Current and past Jaycees are involved in quite a number of other community areas. Jaycee experience gives young men the training to work with many aspects of the community for the betterment of all.

Jaycee volunteers aid in Yule parade

Thousands of valley residents lined Holt Avenue this past December to watch Pomona's 24th annual Christmas parade, coordinated by the Jaycees.

"Fantasies of Christmas" was the theme of the parade which consisted of 100 units.

More than 200 man hours were expended by the Jaycees in preparation for the parade. Receptions, permits, city approval, police coordination, banners, posters, press coverage and mailings are only a few necessary functions that must be handled prior to the parade.

The parade serves a two-fold purpose for the Jaycees. It is a community project, a way of thanking the citizens of the valley for their support through the year. It is also a valuable training ground for Jaycee members in the area of leadership and organization.

This year's committee included Wayne Smith and Joe Covarrubias, chairmen; Jerry Benedict, publicity; John Barsodi, formation; Rick Bracken, dispersal; Keith Johnson, special units; Ed Hildebrand, bands; Scott Ambrose, floats; Eric Holm, equestrian; Jim Walker, cars and communications; Sisto Gato and Stacy Dunn, Jaycee float; Steme Holmes, float mechanic and driver; Sisto Gato, Santa Claus.

This year the Jaycees selected two valley children to ride on the float, based on their essay "Why I would like to ride with Santa Claus."

Josephine King, a Pomona Jay-C-Ette, was in charge of the pre-parade reception. Judy Lee, Jaycee Office Secretary, took messages and prepared more than 3,000 parade forms.

The Jaycees also were assisted by the Pomona Police Department.

Jaycee community project—an idea takes form

By Bruce Richards
Project Director

On a rainy day about a year ago, I was driving north on Garey Avenue in Pomona, and I noticed several people, mostly elderly folk, standing on the sidewalk waiting for the bus.

At the same time an idea came upon me for a possible Pomona Jaycee community project. We could build public bus-stop shelters throughout the city.

I took the project idea to the Pomona Jaycee Steering Committee for its response. Members liked the idea and our next step was to research the project and to complete all the preliminaries before taking it to the board of directors for approval.

It was first necessary to sit down with the Pomona City Planning Department, then discuss the idea with the Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Then on to a meeting with the SCRTD.

Everyone agreed to support the project.

After estimating the cost, we came up with a figure of approximately $600, if we designed and built the structure ourselves.

At this point it was getting very exciting that it may actually be realized.

Next and final step was to obtain approval from the Pomona Jaycees board of directors. I presented the facts on paper, disclosed the amount of preliminary work completed and finally sold the idea with a slide presentation showing a variety of different types of bus-stop shelters. The project was approved.

The next item was to look into the club and find Jaycee members best qualified to assist in the project. The following Jaycee members are presently making the project go: Bill Robertson is the designer. Stan Kawa is chairman and builder with Ernie Vallejo as co-builder and Bruce Richards, project director.

The structure, when completed, will weigh over 4,000 pounds and will protect 10 persons at a time from the elements. A redwood bench will be included and will seat five persons comfortably.

We hope to install the bus-stop shelter in April 1977. The committee will ask the Jaycee directors to consider building several such bus-stop shelters where they are most needed along Garey Avenue.

Campground improvements listed

As far back as the records go, the Pomona Jaycees since 1963 have made an annual weekend outing, taking on building and improvement projects at Old Baldy Boy Scout Campgrounds in the Big Bear mountain area of the San Bernardino National Forest.

Projects have included building the firerings, the water-pump house, complete with the installation of the pump, roadway clearing, rifle range, stump removal, clearing for parking lot and once, late in a September, Jaycees stayed in cars and campers all weekend because of heavy rain and worried if it would snow and they might be stranded in the mountains.

Nine months later, two Jaycee wives gave birth to two future Jaycees.

The latest project at Big Bear was in August. Jaycees built an enbankment all around the outdoor campsite swimming pool using railroad ties and dirt.

The project was completed by 11 Pomona Jaycees, their wives and even the children helped. Ron Dicky, an Eagle Scout with Old Baldy Council, assisted. Next August the Jaycees may build a stone, outdoor chapel at the campgrounds.

Jaycees aid Red Cross

Following the belief that each member of the community has a personal stake in the health of his home, neighborhood and city, the Pomona Jaycees will participate in the Red Cross blood program.

The local Red Cross Chapter provides the blood service and the Jaycees provide the donors.

The Jaycees continue their participation in the program because a constant blood supply needs to be maintained by the Red Cross.

Director for the program will be Ross Clark, with Bill McNamara serving as chairman.

Speak-up 'contest' explained

The Jaycees' annual Speak-Up contest is designed to allow all club members an opportunity to improve their speaking skills.

The intention of the contest is to get the inexperienced Jaycee speaker on his feet for the purpose of building confidence and learning to express ideas effectively.

Each participant has the choice of speaking on the Jaycee creed, using one line of it to explain what being a Pomona Jaycee means to him.

The speeches must be four to five minutes in length. Each is judged on content, delivery, organization, continuity, salesmanship and originality.

As in the past, there will be a guest speaker helping to get things rolling. The tentative date for this year's Speak-Up contest is March 15.

Director will be Ross Clark with Bill McNamara serving as chairman.

Disneyland trip slated

The Jaycees will sponsor the 5th annual Pomona Day at Disneyland on Memorial Day, May 30.

This year the hours have been expanded from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Valley residents will be entitled to all rides and attractions at the amusement park.

Price is $5.25 per person, which includes free parking.

JAYCEE PROJECT — Members of the Pomona Jaycees last Christmas helped distribute 95 turkeys to needy families in the Pomona area. Assisting in the program were, from left, Tom Dreyer, Charlie Dunlap and Sisto Gatto. The Jaycees were assisted by students at Claremont Men's College who fasted and donated money they would have spent on food to purchase the turkeys. The distribution was coordinated by the Family Service of Pomona Valley, the First Christian Church of Pomona and the Pomona Jaycee members.

With 12,000 members

Jaycee history dates to 1937

The California Jaycees were organized in 1937 as a non-profit corporation to provide service and coordination to its local Jaycee chapters from throughout the state.

This powerful organization, now having more than 12,000 members from 290 California communities, represents the second largest state organization in the United States. Its membership gathers together four times a year in different parts of the state to establish its future plans and policies.

The California Jaycees, as well as any local chapter or national Jaycee organization, is dedicated to the improvement and development of the community as well as the development of individual members by training them for civic, moral and business responsibility and leadership. in community projects offered by the portfolios.

The California Jaycees trains members by doing. As a young man of action participating in civic improvement and youth welfare projects, he gains confidence, poise, and organizational experience along with parliamentary procedures, budgets, finance, and public relations. He acquires a knowledge of public affairs and community problems, and develops a sense of responsibility to further benefit himself, his family, and his country.

The California Jaycees are affiliated with both the United States Jaycees, and the Junior Chamber International.

The state organization has as its chief executive the state president. Assisting him are national directors (state officers elected by the state membership, who also serve on the U.S. Jaycee Board of Directors). Each national director is responsible for the activity of the chapters in his geographical area. State vice presidents are also assigned to each national director. Each vice president is responsible for an activity portfolio such as Leadership Training, Youth and Sports, Health and Safety, and Public Relations of the chapters in his geographical area.

The state itself is broken into 27 geographical areas known as districts, and are each led by a district governor who is elected by the membership in his area. These district governors also serve on the state executive committee.

Jaycees from within each area are selected to act as aides in assisting chapter activities such as membership, internal programming, external programming, and interchapter relations. These men are known as district chairmen.

Through the years, the California Jaycees "Leadership Training" has guided thousands of young men into better jobs and more secure social lives.

Winternationals to draw Jaycee help

The National Hot Rod Association will present the 17th annual Winternationals Jan. 27, 28, 29 and 30, at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds in Pomona.

Competitors for this year's event will come from across the country and Canada.

Grandstands will be set up the length of the quarter-mile strip to provide a view of this year's races. Reserved and general admission seating will be available.

For the 11th year, the Pomona Jaycees will work with National Hot Rod Association officials in handling ticket sales and seating.

Jaycees, the Pomona Chamber of Commerce and the City of Pomona will again be helping out-of-towners find lodgings and facilities in the valley.

Rick Bracken and Scott Ambrose are chairmen for the Jaycees. Don Pitts is the Jaycee director.

Fundamental reading program sponsored

A project called Reading Is Fundamental (RIF) is being jointly sponsored for the community by the Pomona Jaycees and Jay-C-Ettes.

Carol Smith is the chairman for the Jay-C-Ettes and Jim Stewart for the Jaycees.

The program has been expanded this year to one grade level at three area elementary schools: Lincoln, Madison and San Jose.

At organized distributions, each child in the program has the opportunity to choose from a wide variety of paperback books.

By allowing them a chance to choose books which interest them and by letting the children keep the books. "We hope to provide a pleasant incentive to read," said Mrs. Smith.

In addition, this year the program includes a library provided for an additional grade level at each of the schools.

Breakfast help given

The Jaycees aided in the Mayor's Breakfast this past November.

Periodically, the mayor and City Council meet with civic and community leaders in an open forum to discuss community affairs.

The Jaycees, working with the mayor and the chamber of commerce, help set up and coordinate this breakfast.

Photographs on this page highlight key events through the year involving Pomona Jaycees. Below is the gingerbread-house float which won second place in the Dec. 4 Christmas parade. It was entered by Pomona, Ontario, Chino and Montclair chapters of the National Federation of the Blind, and ridden by two blind students, one with a seeing-eye dog. The Jaycees coordinate the parade each year. Above, Santa Claus (Jaycee) has the company of Ellie Hamilton, left, and Robin Rose in his sleigh during the Christmas parade. Each year the Jaycees enter the Santa Claus float and traditionally it is the last unit in the parade.

Near right is the 1976 Los Angeles County Fair Queen Mary Frances Douglas. The Jaycees operate the J-Bar food concession at the fair each year as a major raiser. Far right is Mickey Mouse, king of the Magic Kingdom, where each year the Jaycees sponsor a Pomona Valley Night at Disneyland. This year's event will be on Memorial Day, May 30.

Pomona chapter

Jaycees begin in 'Slow Motion'

The Pomona Jaycees were founded in 1934 by a young man named Howard Reynolds.

They called him "Slow Motion Reynolds" because he liked to move slowly.

The only time you could get "Slow Motion" in gear was when you caught him picking an orange from a neighbor's prize tree, or when the boys met him down in the south forty for a game called football.

Old "Slow Motion" packed in 190 pounds and stood an even 6 feet tall. They say he had a way with the girls and could hit a baseball a "country mile."

"Slow" had everything going for him. He married his high school sweetheart, started selling real estate in Pomona and was an immediate success.

As the story goes, "Slow" got together with a couple of fellows, Glen "the King" Kaiser and Mel "the Cook" Hull.

They decided to grill some hot dogs at the county fair. All the profits were to go to the kids' ball team. That year the Pomona Fair was a big success and the hot dog sales made lots of money.

In fact, they were so successful they decided to form a club and joined the Junior Chamber of Commerce which was just getting started in California.

They petitioned for a charter and became the 17th approved by the State Junior Chamber of Commerce. Of course, "Slow Motion" became the first president.

Since then, over 5,000 men have passed through the membership rolls. The only reason its membership is not as large as other organizations is because when a Jaycee turns 35 years of age, he must leave the Jaycees.

Although small in membership, about 100 annually, the Pomona Jaycees have provided the leadership for many of the city's successes.

The city is scattered with slides, swings and park benches because of the Jaycees.

Jaycee fair concession

While providing fair goers with good food and drink, J-Bar provides the Jaycees with their main source of funds.

It is this major ways-and-means projects which allows the club to sponsor its many community activities each year.

'Chicken-hawk syndrome'

Many bald eagles killed by gunfire

WASHINGTON (AP) — A significant number of endangered bald eagles are killed each year by gunfire — a fact illustrated by the recent shooting of a bald eagle on Long Island, N.Y.

Many of the eagles apparently are shot by youngsters, because autopsies reveal that a high proportion of the dead birds have been killed by commonly used .22-caliber bullets, a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service agent said recently.

Some hunters shoot wantonly at the species that is the nation's symbol. Others believe the "chicken-hawk syndrome" that all large birds of prey are harmful to wildlife and livestock and should be killed, wildlife agents report.

The precise number killed each year is unknown. Federal agents believe that many of the birds are left in the fields to rot and never discovered, especially in the sparsely populated West, where the chances for discovery are slim.

But the number of dead or wounded birds that are found is "significant considering the number of bald eagles," said one agent.

Only about 900 pairs are known to nest in the contiguous 48 states.

Federal agent William Kensinger, who commands a five-state territory, reports that this year two eagles have been shot in Maryland and one bird each in Delaware, Virginia and Pennsylvania, a prime area of the southern subspecies. A bald eagle also was killed this year in Maine and another in New York.

Another federal agent said a random sampling of about one-quarter of the cases on file disclosed that in the past year bald eagles have been killed in Iowa, three birds; Illinois, two, and Minnesota, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas, one each. Two bald eagles also were caught in traps in Minnesota, he said. Complete figures were not available.

Jaycees to host race

Pomona Jaycees will be sponsoring a distance marathon race this year as a part of the Mt. San Antonio College Relays.

Last year was the first marathon, and it proved to be so popular that it is now included as a regular event.

The chairman for this year's race will be Dean Hinble. Don Pitts is the director.

Dodger trip sponsored

The Jaycees, working with the Progress Bulletin, sponsored a 2-for-1 night at Dodger Stadium. Area residents were able to purchase one ticket and get another free.

In addition, the Jaycees purchased a large block of tickets and donated them to the Pomona YMCA, Boys' Club and Le Roy Boys' Home.

Boys club aid

The Pomona Jaycees will continue their work with the Pomona Boys' Club again this year. In past years, the Jaycees have aided in fund-raising projects and with general improvements on the Boys' Club facilities.

Now TWA presents on-time service 3 new ways.

Months ago TWA made a commitment to be the best business flyer's airline in the business.

And we're living up to it.

All over the country business flyers have been impressed with our on-time record in arrivals.

Now we're taking off in 3 new directions for on-time service.

You're going to get on-time reservations – a call to TWA will be one of the quickest you can make.

You're going to get on-time in-flight service – because we know you like your beverages early in the flight.

And you're going to get on-time baggage handling – what good is a flight that arrives on time if your luggage doesn't?

TWA is out to give all flyers the most efficient service we can. And especially business flyers who are often on a tight schedule.

So call your Travel Agent. For on-time service, you want to be on TWA. Where being the best isn't everything, it's the only thing.

ARRIVALS ON TIME

Superior on-time performance. You have a right to expect it. And on TWA you get it.

Right now we're operating at the highest level of on-time performance in our history.

This superior record comes, pure and simple, from the tremendous efforts of TWA's 31,830 people who perform their jobs with outstanding efficiency to keep us running on time more of the time than ever before.

So when time is important, fly TWA. We're committed to on-time arrivals to cities like:

NEW YORK ON TIME
WASHINGTON ON TIME
CHICAGO ON TIME
ST. LOUIS ON TIME
BOSTON ON TIME

INFLIGHT SERVICE NEW ON TIME

At TWA, we know you like your beverages early in the flight. We don't believe you should be kept waiting. And we're doing everything possible to see that you're not.

As soon as the seat belt signs go off, we begin beverage service immediately and do our best to serve everyone on board within 30 minutes.

And as a special treat on our coast-to-coast flights in Coach we'll give you fine California wines for $1. Refills are free.

BAGGAGE NEW ON TIME

TWA's out to deliver your bags faster than ever before. And nine out of ten times we even beat our own tough standards.

TWA introduced double baggage containers for our widebody 1011s and 747s. They enable us to handle your baggage faster. None of our major competitors has anything like them.

After all, what good is it for you to arrive on time if your bags don't?

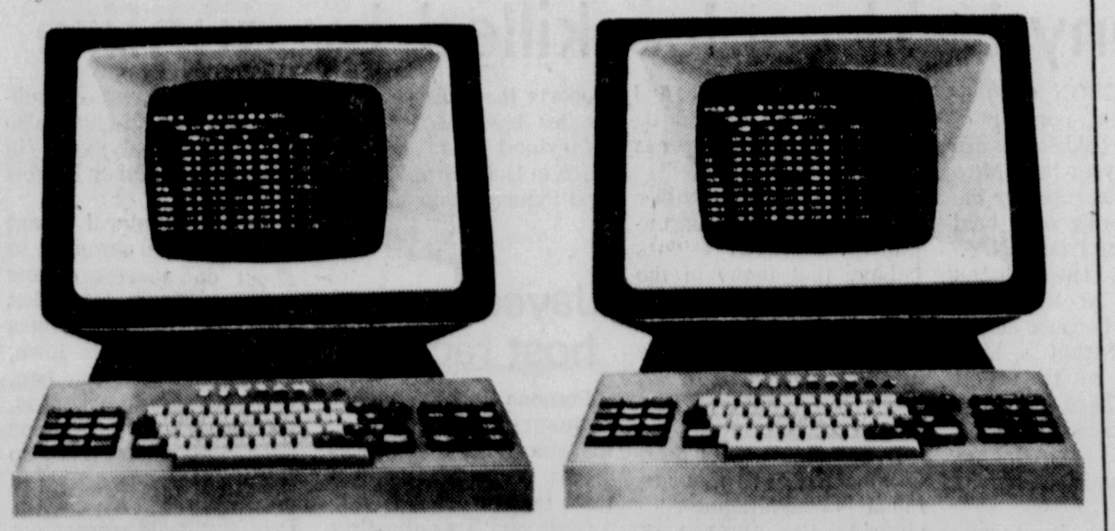

RESERVATIONS NEW ON TIME

98,000 calls a day. 35 million calls a year. To handle that kind of volume an airline has to be pretty efficient.

At TWA, we are. We answer the vast majority of our calls within 20 seconds.

You can call any one of our domestic reservations offices, any time of the day, any day of the week. And you can get information on all of TWA's flights. You'll even get information on the flights of 490 other airlines worldwide. Sometimes even they call us.

Next time you need a reservation, call TWA. It will be one of the quickest calls you'll ever make.

Being the best isn't everything. It's the only thing.℠

'Mole con pollo' a timesaver for harried party hostess

Progress Bulletin
Food
Pomona, California ■ Wednesday, January 19, 1977

Besides taking care of family and home, today's homemaker is a bit of a miracle worker. More often than not, she holds down a fulltime or parttime job outside the home but when it comes time to entertain, she manages to pull it off brilliantly. The food tastes especially good, the hostess is not frazzled, and a good time is had by all.

What's the secret? Efficient management of time

What is this magical entree? Mole con Pollo. A spicy version of chicken in Mexican "party dress." Mole con Pollo shows exactly why Mexican food is such a favorite with Americans of all ages. The taste is snappy without being overly hot, piquant without being outright peppery. Chili powder and Contadina tomato sauce supply the brightness and warmth. Cocoa and peanut butter blend with other seasonings for a delightful taste treat.

Mexican style rice is the perfect complement for the chicken dish. The rice recipe is another example of modern efficiency. It can be prepared in less than half an hour, after which it cooks 25 to 30 minutes by itself. Toss a green salad in the interim, and dinner is ready. Dessert is a baked pineapple custard, made the calorie saving way with instant nonfat dry milk crystals. To allow chilling time, make this quick and delicious dessert the night before the party.

This party meal from south of the border has been checked by the Carnation Laboratories for sound nutritional balance. Even for a party, by choosing foods from all four basic groups, at this meal everyone receives generous amounts of protein, calcium and iron, totaling better than 1/3 of their Recommended Daily Allowance of these nutrients. In addition, there is an abundance of the vitamins. It is kind to the family food budget as well. And, it is designed to help the busiest woman get the most out of entertaining. This party meal goes together so fast, a parttime cook can devote fulltime to enjoying her guests.

MOLE CON POLLO
(Makes 8 servings of chicken and 3 cups sauce) about 4 pounds chicken pieces, or use 2 split breasts, 4 thighs, and 4 drumsticks
6 cups water
¾ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons oil
1/3 cup chopped onion
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
3 tablespoons peanut butter
2 tablespoons cocoa
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons chili powder
1 chicken bouillon cube
2 cups reserved chicken broth
2 cups (two 8-ounce cans) Tomato Sauce
Sesame seeds

Wash chicken pieces. Combine chicken, water and salt in Dutch oven. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat and boil gently, covered, 25 minutes. Drain chicken; reserve broth. Heat oil in Dutch oven; add onion and garlic powder. Cook until onion is translucent. Add peanut butter; cook and stir until foamy. Remove from heat. Mix cocoa, flour and chili powder together. Add to peanut butter mixture; stir until smooth. Stir in bouillon cube and 2 cups reserved chicken broth. Cook 5 minutes over medium heat, stirring occasionally. Remove skin from chicken, except for drumsticks. Add tomato sauce and chicken to sauce mixture. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, 15 minutes. If desired, sprinkle with sesame seeds and serve with Mexican Style Rice.

MEXICAN STYLE RICE
(Makes about 6 cups)
3 tablespoons oil
1 and 2/3 cups uncooked long grain converted white rice
½ cup chopped onion
¾ cup finely chopped celery
¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
1 and 2/3 cups (14½ ounces) Contadina Round Peeled Tomatoes
2 and 2/3 cups chicken broth or water
1 crushed garlic clove
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon oregano leaves

Heat oil in large skillet; add rice and fry over medium heat until light brown. Add onion, celery and green pepper; stir for two minutes. Remove from heat. Drain tomatoes; reserve juice. Cut tomatoes in ½ inch pieces. Add tomatoes, tomato juice, broth, garlic, salt and oregano to skillet. Stir until combined. Return to heat; heat to boiling. Cover skillet and boil gently 25-30 minutes or until liquid is absorbed.

TOSSED GREEN SALAD
(Makes 8 servings)
4 heads of butterhead lettuce
1 bunch parsley
1 bunch radishes (sliced)
½ pound mushrooms, raw (sliced)
1 cup peas, cold cooked
1 small jar pimientos
1 bunch green onions (sliced)
½ cup Italian dressing

Toss and serve.

PINEAPPLE CUSTARD
(Makes 8 servings
2 slices canned pineapple
1½ cups sugar
¼ cup boiling water
8 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup Carnation Instant Nonfat Dry Milk crystals
2 cups water
¼ cup pineapple juice
1½ teaspoons vanilla

Drain pineapple slices thoroughly; reserve juice. Cut slices into quarters. Place one piece at the bottom of each of 8 6-ounce custard cups. Melt 1 cup sugar in a skillet over medium low heat. Stir constantly until sugar turns into golden brown syrup. Add boiling water; stir until combined. Pour syrup over each pineapple piece. Set aside to cool for 15 minutes. Beat eggs in large mixer bowl until well blended. Combine instant milk crystals, water, pineapple juice and vanilla. Blend thoroughly. Add milk mixture to eggs. Mix well. Skim foam from top of mixture. Pour over syrup-pineapple mixture. Place cups in pan about 2½ inches deep. Pour hot water around cups to 1 inch deep. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) 30 minutes or until knife inserted in custards comes out clean. Remove from pan. Cool on wire rack. Chill several hours.

To unmold, run knife around edge of custard cups. Dip in hot water a few seconds. Place dessert plate on top of cup; invert. Shake gently until custard slips out of cup.

Paradise fruit compote is exotic eastern fare

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Better, faster transporting of exotic fruits from around the world is turning more individuals into fruit connoisseurs. It is a pleasure during winter months to enjoy such treats as kiwi, papaya, persimmons and pomegranate plus a goodly supply of pears, grapefruit, apples, pineapples, tangerines, grapes and bananas. These are all delicious when eaten out-of-hand but also make a very special fruit compote in a variety of combinations. A truly paradise fruit compote which stars kiwi and papaya is marinated in a wine sauce and goes well with cheese, crackers and coffee.

PARADISE FRUIT COMPOTE

4 oranges
1 papaya
1 pineapple
2½ cups halved, pitted Ribier and Tokay grapes (about ½ pound)
1 lemon, sliced and seeded
1 cup Marsala wine
1 cup water
¾ cup sugar
1 stick cinnamon
3 whole cloves

Cut 3 strips orange peel from 1 orange, using vegetable peeler; reserve. Peel oranges and cut into crosswise slices. Pare papaya, cut in half lengthwise and remove seeds. Cut into cubes. To prepare pineapple, cut off stem and crown ends. Cut off rind all around from top to bottom. Remove eyes with pointed knife. Cut into quarters lengthwise. Cut away core. Cut remaining meat into fingers about 2-inches long. Combine orange slices, papaya, pineapple, grapes, lemon slices and kiwi slices in large bowl. Combine wine, water, sugar, cinnamon stick, cloves and orange peel in saucepan. Stir over medium heat until sugar dissolves. Reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Remove spices and peel. Cool to lukewarm. Pour syrup over fruit in bowl; cover and refrigerate 6 hours or overnight. Makes about two and one-half quarts; 12 servings.

APPLE-CRANBERRY BROWN BETTY

1½ cups fresh bread crumbs
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
3 cups sliced, pared apples (about 3 large apples)
1 teaspoon grated fresh lemon rind
3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
½ cup fresh cranberries
½ cup packed brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
Dash cloves
1/3 cup chopped walnuts

Mix bread crumbs and butter. Line the bottom of a shallow one and one-half quart baking dish with one-third of the bread crumb mixture. Toss apples and cranberries with lemon rind and juice. Mix brown sugar, salt and spices. Place half the apples and cranberries over the bread crumbs. Sprinkle with half the sugar mixture. Top with one-third the bread crumb mixture and half the walnuts. Add remaining apples and cranberries, sprinkle with remaining bread crumbs, sugar mixture and walnuts. Cover and bake in 350 degree oven about 30 minutes or until apples are nearly tender. Uncover and bake about 15 minutes longer. Serve warm or cooled with whipped cream or ice cream. Makes 4 servings.

Honey French chicken a treasured standby

Almost every homemaker has a collection of tried and true recipes — dishes to depend on for special occasions or for quick and nutritious meals.

One of those treasured standbys containing chicken could be a prize winner in the 1977 National Chicken Cooking Contest scheduled in Jackson, Mississippi on July 27.

The entry period is now open for this year's competition for $25,000 in prizes and your favorite chicken recipe could be the $10,000 grand prize winner.

To enter your favorite — or favorites (there's no limit to the number of entries) — just write your name, address and telephone number on each recipe and mail before the March 1 deadline to: Chicken Contest, Box 28158 Central Station, Washington, DC 20005.

The 51 finalists who will participate in the big national competition in Jackson will be selected in preliminary cook-offs — one in each state and the District of Columbia. Each finalist will receive $100, a trophy and an expense-paid trip to the national contest.

Judging is based on four equally-valued points: interest, appearance, flavor and simplicity. Each recipe must contain a broiler-fryer chicken, whole or any part or parts and at least one teaspoon Ac'cent flavor enhancer and at least one-fourth cup Mazola corn oil. Recipes should be written for approximately four servings and preparation time limited to three hours.

The National Chicken Cooking Contest, one of the nation's, oldest cooking competitions, dates back to 1949 and since that time many thousands of prize dollars have been awarded for interesting chicken recipes. The competition is sponsored by the National Broiler Council and the makers of Ac'cent flavor enhancer and the makers of Mazola corn oil. National contest ranges will be supplied by White-Westinghouse.

For a free folder containing six recipes which have won the $10,000 top prize in past cook-offs and more information about this year's contest, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Washington address.

And, just to get you thinking about the kind of recipe you might enter, here's one adapted from a previous competition.

HONEY GLAZED CHICKEN

HONEY FRENCH CHICKEN

- 3 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved, skinned, boned
- 1 teaspoon Ac'cent flavor enhancer
- ¼ cup Mazola corn oil
- ¼ cup honey
- ¼ cup cider vinegar
- ¼ cup chili sauce
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- ½ envelope (1⅜ oz.) dry onion soup mix
- ¼ teaspoon salt

Sprinkle chicken with flavor enhancer. In a jar, place corn oil, honey, vinegar, chili sauce, Worcestershire sauce, soup mix and salt. Shake well. Place chicken in single layer in large shallow baking pan. Pour sauce over chicken. Bake, uncovered, in 350 degree oven about 40 minutes or until fork can be inserted with ease. Makes approximately 4 servings.

Early 'safeguards' may protect health

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Will that smiling baby in your arms grow up to suffer heart disease, cancer or a stroke? The answer may lie in your baby's body now. No longer must we wait for years to know. Medical science has discovered ways to predict these physical illnesses.

As they grow older, children should be taught the impact of smoking, the danger of being overweight, having a high cholesterol level and failing to exercise regularly. That is the opinion of Christine W. Williams, MD of the American Health Foundation of New York, a non-profit organization for prevention of heart disease, cancer and stroke.

"With 40 per cent of our caloric consumption made up of fats, a three to one ratio of saturated fat to unsaturated fats, and a high intake of cholesterol and calories from junk foods, our children have higher cholesterol levels and greater risk of coronary disease later in life than children in almost any other country in the world," says Dr. Williams.

She and the head of the American Health Foundation wrote an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association in which they warned that cholesterol levels of the average American child at age three is equal to that of a middle-aged man in countries such as Japan, where coronary heart disease still is low.

Dr. Williams, who works largely with school children between the ages of 11 and 14, believes it is possible to make them aware of their bodies and convince them of the value of eating sensibly.

Children are intelligent. When very young, screen them for hidden threats to future health. Get the parents interested, too, and create a community of inquiry. Don't wait until they grow older. Extreme youth is the time to prevent later breakdown. It can be done — with patience, knowledge and examples," she explains.

Pediatricians should be warned that future medical examinations of small children should include registering of family history of early heart disease, blood pressure and testing for cholesterol. If threats of future heart disease are shown, preventive measures can begin at once.

Here are some tips from "Valuable Hints From the American Heart Association Cookbook":

Use lean meats and trim off excess fat. In roasting meats, use low temperatures (about 350 degrees) to increase the fat drip-off. High temperatures sear the meat, sealing in fat.

Select fat free or low-fat dairy products such as skim milk, cheeses made from skim milk which is low in fat and high in protein — such as low-fat cottage cheese, Parmesan, ricotta, mozzarella — and use polyunsaturated oils — corn, peanut, safflower — for cooking and salad dressing.

If you use brown sugar only occasionally, empty it from the package into an airtight jar.

Valentine cake for 'sweetheart' with sweet tooth

Valentine's Day is everyone's best excuse for renewing a romance. It is the time to bring out all those sentimental feelings that are often kept tucked away and out of sight the rest of the year. It is the best time to start a new romance or rekindle an old flame. But . . . wait, you say you're just too shy to speak out your heart's sweet words? Then do it in food. Go ahead. Be brave. Try any one of these sweet edible sentiments.

If you need lots of room to express yourself, or have a love with a king-sized appetite, bake a Valentine Cake. Ribbon it with Light Chocolate Frosting and then add something loving in the way of a message that is all your own to the one you care about. Quote from a favorite shared song. Snatch a clever phrase from a valentine or say something original on a batch of heart-shaped cookies. Perhaps this is the time to bake a batch of Sweetheart Cookies for all the family, with special words for each and every member.

When rosy words are just too much for you to ever express, even in frosting, say, "I love you" through an extra special dessert like Cherry Heart Tarts. The tart shells are baked in gelatin molds (you could use muffin cups) filled with a cherry pie filling and outlined with whipped cream.

And, since Valentine's Day often means a box of candy, try making Love Patties, using no-cook candy recipe. Cut them into various shapes with a cookie cutter, box them, wrap them in red tissue and tie a nosegay on top. You'll need to say no more.

Sweet peas

Don't be afraid to experiment with some new items in your spice rack. Start with a small amount of the new herb or spice — it's always easy to add more if you really like it. Try this idea for a starter. Prepare one 10-oz. package sweet peas frozen in butter sauce according to package directions. Turn into a serving dish and stir in 2 tablespoons diced pimiento and ⅛ teaspoon dill weed. Serves 3 to 4.

LOVE PATTIES

1/3 cup margarine
1/3 cup karo light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt
1 package (1lb.) confectioners sugar

In large mixing bowl stir together margarine, corn syrup, vanilla and salt until smooth. Add confectioners sugar all at once and mix in first by spoon; then with hands. Turn out onto board and knead until mixture is well blended and smooth. Roll or pat out ½-inch thick and cut in shapes with small (1-inch) cookie cutters as desired. Store covered in refrigerator. Makes 1 1/3 pounds, or about 60 pieces.

VALENTINE CAKE

Using one (18½ oz.) yellow cake mix, prepare cake following package directions. Pour batter into ungreased 13 x 9 x 2 inch baking pan, and bake following package directions. When cake is removed from oven, let stand on rack until cool. Loosen edge of cake with spatula and remove from pan. Cut a heart shape out of paper and place pattern on top of cake. Cut out heart shape with serrated knife, and cut small hearts from remaining cake pieces. Frost sides of cake with Vanilla Frosting (recipe follows) and then swirl frosting on top reserving 1/3 cup for small hearts. Frost small hearts. Using a pastry tube, pipe edge of cake with Light Chocolate Frosting (recipe follows).

VANILLA FROSTING

¼ cup margarine
3 tablespoons Karo light corn syrup
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon milk (about)
2½ cups sifted confectioners sugar

In medium bowl stir together margarine, corn syrup, salt and vanilla. Alternately add milk and confectioners sugar, beating until smooth and creamy after each addition. (Add enough milk to make good spreading consistency.) Makes enough to frost 1 layer or about 1¼ cups.

LIGHT CHOCOLATE FROSTING

¼ cup margarine
1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
1 teaspoon cocoa, unsweetened
1 teaspoon water

In small bowl stir together margarine and confectioners sugar, beating until smooth. Add cocoa and water. Mix thoroughly. Makes about ½ cup.

CHERRY HEART TARTS

2 cups sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2/3 cup margarine
3 tablespoons cold water
1 recipe Cherry Filling (recipe follows)
Whipped cream or topping

In medium bowl stir together flour and salt. With pastry blender or two knives cut in margarine until coarse crumbs form. Sprinkle water over mixture while tossing to blend well. Press dough firmly into ball with hands. Divide dough into 12 equal pieces. Press each piece into heart-shaped gelatin molds or 2-inch muffin cups pushing dough up sided. Prick dough well with tines of fork. Bake in 475 degree F. oven 8 to 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool on wire racks. When cool, invert to release pastry shells; remove pans. Fill each shell with cherry filling. Pipe whipped cream or topping around edge of tart. Makes 12 tarts.

Cherry Filling: Drain 1 can (16 oz.) pitted sour cherries packed in water, reserving liquid. In small saucepan, stir together ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons corn starch and ½ teaspoon salt. Gradually stir in ½ cup reserved liquid from cherries. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to boil and boils 1 minute. Stir in 1 tablespoon margarine, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and drained cherries. Cool.

SWEETHEART COOKIES

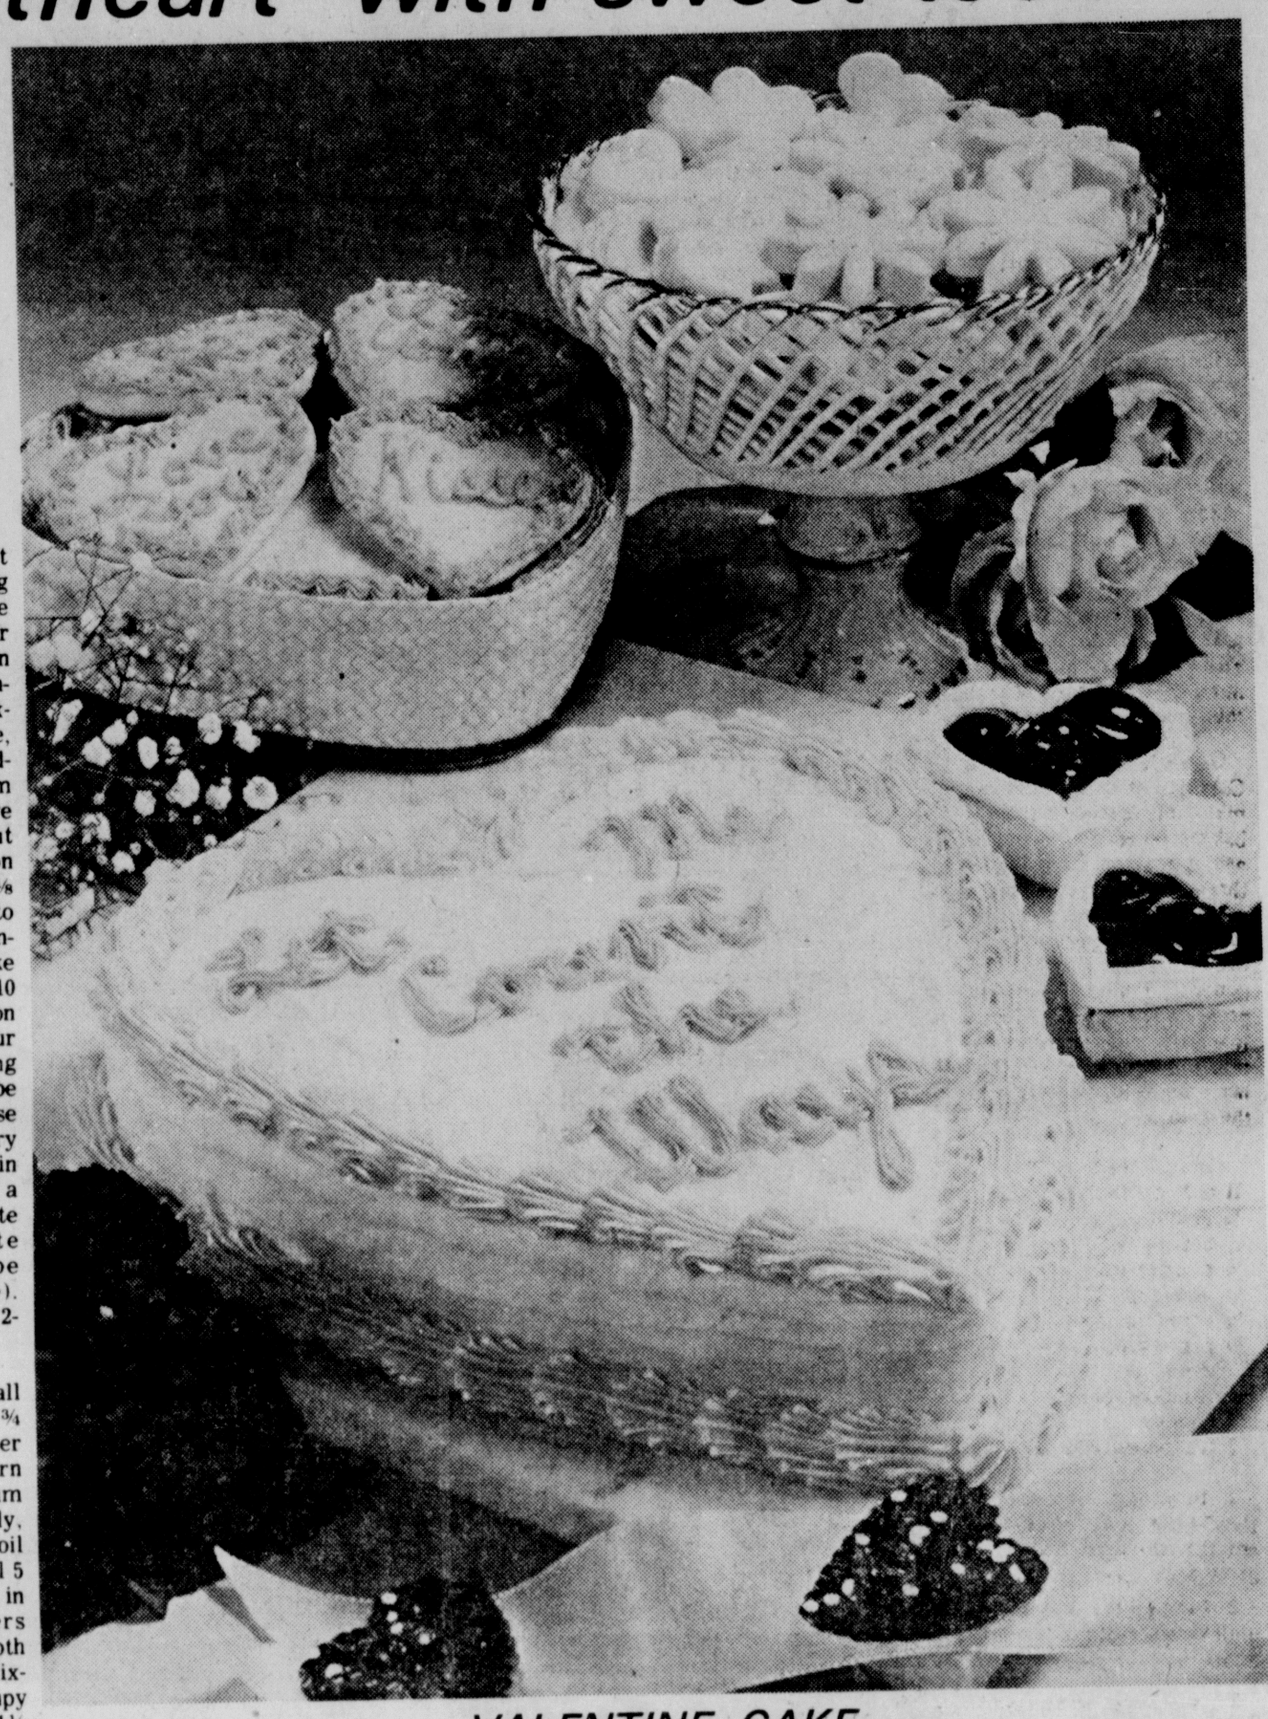

3 cups unsifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup margarine
1/3 cup sugar
½ cup light corn syrup
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 recipe Cookie Glaze (recipe follows)

In medium bowl sift together flour, baking powder and salt. In large bowl stir together margarine, sugar, corn syrup, egg and vanilla, until blended. Add flour mixture, about 1/3 at a time, beating well after each addition. Chill until firm enough to handle. Remove from refrigerator about 1/3 at a time and roll out on lightly floured surface to ⅛ inch thickness. Cut into heart shapes. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in 400 degree oven 8 to 10 minutes. Place cookies on metal rack over pan. Pour glaze over cookies letting excess fall into pan. Scrape pan frequently and reuse excess glaze. If necessary thin slightly by stirring in several drops of water at a time. If desired, decorate with Light Chocolate Frosting (see recipe following Valentine Cake). Makes about 5 dozen (2-inch) cookies.

Cookie Glaze: In small saucepan stir together ¾ cup sugar, 1/3 cup water and 2 tablespoons corn syrup. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to boil Remove from heat. Cool 5 minutes. Gradually stir in 2½ cups confectioners sugar, beating until smooth after each addition. Mixture should have a syrupy consistency. Makes 1¼ cups glaze.

Prunes 'n Yogurt

Dish up this delicious "fruit whip" in a jiffy. Cut cooked sun-sweetened prunes from pits. Stir prune pieces into vanilla or fruit flavored yogurt. Fold in whipped cream or like topping. Sprinkle on chopped toasted walnuts and serve. You can also freeze the mixture for a frozen refreshment.

'Half-a-pound' cake remedies soggyness

Recently a reader wrote that a pound cake she baked was "soggy" and asked for a remedy.

One remedy is to try a new recipe: For this we suggest one that is probably as foolproof as a recipe can be. It was contributed by Grace Manney, who has had many years of professional experience in recipe-testing, to a new cookbook that offers great value for what it costs. It's "333 Super Cakes & Cookies" published by Family Circle as the first of their five 1977 "Great Ideas" soft-cover books, on sale for $1.50 at many supermarkets from January through March this year.

Grace's Half-A-Pound Cake sticks to the old-time main ingredients but adds baking powder. Directions are given for flavoring it three extra ways. It has a compact but porous texture; don't expect it to be moist and fluffy. In general, Pound Cakes improve after storage for a few days and we found, on trying Grace's recipe, that her cake is no exception to the rule.

GRACE MANNEY'S HALF-A-POUND CAKE

½ pound eggs — 5, separated
½ pound butter — 2 sticks — 1 cup
½ pound sugar — 1 cup
½ pound cake flour — 2¼ cups
½ teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons vanilla

1. Beat egg whites until they hold soft peaks in small bowl of electric mixer at high speed; reserve.

2. Beat butter and sugar until fluffy in large bowl of mixer at high speed.

3. Beat egg yolks until thick in a second small bowl with mixer at high speed; beat into butter mixture until thick and light.

4. Sift flour and baking powder over butter mixture; stir in with a whip; fold in egg whites and vanilla until well blended; pour into a buttered 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan.

5. Bake in slow oven 325 degrees 1 hour, 15 minutes, or until cake is firm to the touch. Cool in pan on wire rack 10 minutes; loosen around edges with a spatula; cool completely on wire rack. Sprinkle with sugar before serving, if you wish.

Suggested Variations: You can make 3 other cakes with this recipe, simply by adding a different ingredient to the batter of each. For Spice Pound Cake, stir in ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg; for Citrus Pound Cake, stir in 2 tablespoons orange rind or 2 teaspoons lemon rind; for Citron Pound Cake, stir in 1/3 cup finely chopped candied citron and ½ teaspoon lemon extract.

Berries better garden fresh

There's nothing in this world that compares to fresh picked strawberries from your own garden. Market berries seldom approach the flavor of their garden counter parts.

The reason is mostly a matter of ripening. Berries reach their highest flavor when left on the plant until ready to eat. But, if commercial growers kept berries this long, they would never reach market in condition to be eaten.

Since strawberries are a cool season crop, now is the time to consider planting bare root strawberries or started plants in flats or packs for harvest next spring. You don't need much space in the garden, but make sure the space is in the sun. Like most fruits strawberries need this all important energy source for success.

Next to sun, the most important thing to look out for is proper drainage of the bed. The soil around berry's roots should never dry out, but at the same time, it should never be allowed to grow soggy or rot will result. The most common way to insure drainage is to plant in raised beds.

Furrows are dug at 1½ to 2 foot intervals and the soil from this is mounded in between to elevate the growing area. Two rows of plants are grown in each raised area, with plants and rows about nine inches apart. The raised beds also keep the ripening fruit from sitting in irrigation water. Thorough watering is accomplished by slowly filling the furrows and allowing the water to soak in.

Strawberries also make excellent container plants to enhance patios with their attractive foliage, white flowers and of course, delectable fruit. The runners will hang down over the sides of baskets and flower boxes for an extra touch of interest and dimension. Consider, too, strawberry jars or strawberry pyramids for planting in limited spaces.

Consult your nurseryman for the best variety to plant in your particular area. Remember, that everbearing varieties, while they bear over a longer season, never bear as heavily at one time. Therefore, be sure to plant extra strawberries for adequate harvests.

Parsley garnish

A garnish of chopped parsley or watercress, or a sprinkling of nuts, enhances the appetite appeal of a side dish of stuffing mix.

Wheat germ rice with fried beef

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Oriental recipes always seem to call for rice, and a stir fry beef concoction which also includes green beans, mushrooms and tomato wedges is no exception. However, the rice takes on extra flavor and nutrition when wheat germ is added to it. For more decorative serving, put the rice wheat germ mixture in a ring mold and top with the stir fry beef. This is a quick meal to make. Serve with your favorite fruit mixture such as pineapple and tangerines or mandarin oranges and tea.

WHEAT GERM RICE WITH STIR FRY BEEF

2 cups rice
½ cup vacuum packed wheat germ (regular)
1½ pounds lean boneless beef chuck steak
Instant unseasoned meat tenderizer
Pepper
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons oil
1 package (10 oz.) frozen cut green beans
½ pound fresh mushrooms, halved or quartered
1 can (1 pound) tomato wedges
½ cup dry sherry or consomme
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon basil
1 teaspoon tarragon

Cook rice according to directions on package. Mix with wheat germ and pack into buttered 6-cup ring mold. Keep hot. Meanwhile, prepare beef according to directions on label of meat tenderizer. Sprinkle with pepper. Cut beef into thin strips. Cook with garlic in oil in large skillet over high heat, tossing and stirring until browned. Add green beans and mushrooms. Cover and continue cooking until tender. Add undrained tomato wedges. Stir in wine mixed with cornstarch, salt, basil and tarragon. Cook, stirring until sauce comes to boil and thickens. Invert wheat germ ring onto plate. Fill with stir fry beef. Makes 6 servings.

'Meat, potato pie' casserole makes complete, hearty meal

Let's talk a little about the potato — the vegetable with the distinction of being produced in vastly greater amounts worldwide than any other vegetable. The United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association says that the white potato is one of Nature's most nutritious foods. Locked into each delectable, compact tuber are supplies of nitrogen, high quality protein, iron, magnesium and good amounts of vitamins C and B. Indeed, the simple, common potato, which a lot of us tend to take for granted, is really like a gold mine of nutrition without an expensive price tag.

And contrary to the common notion, potatoes are virtually fat free. One medium, baked-in-skin, 3½ ounce potato contains only 93 calories. Some nutrition research studies indicate that the potato might help the dieter to curb his appetite; when the starch in the potato is consumed in place of sugar, the dieter senses a satisfying feeling which can discourage further eating.

There are a few simple rules for selecting potatoes of quality. Choose those that are firm, relatively smooth, well-shaped and reasonably clean. Avoid potatoes with deep cuts and bruises or with pale green spots or white sprouts. One more tip for potato appreciaters, don't refrigerate them. Cold temperatures cause the potato starch to convert to sugar. Store them at room temperatureure in a dry, well-ventilated spot away from light which can cause the potato skin to turn green.

Meat and Potato Pie is a complete meal of tasty, compatible layers of ground beef, sliced potatoes and cheese. It's conveniently baked in a pie and served pizza-style, sliced into hearty wedges. The Potato Cheese Anna is another layered casserole of sliced potatoes and melted cheese but without the meat, making it a wonderful accompaniment for any meat, fish or egg entree.

So if you're looking for a food bargain, the economical, nutritious and tasty potato might be your answer. There's a quality crop now at your market in good supply.

MEAT AND POTATO PIE

¾ pound lean ground beef
1/3 cup chopped fresh onion
1/3 cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
1 small tomato, peeled and chopped
⅛ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
1¼ teaspoons salt, divided
¼ teaspoon pepper
4 medium potatoes
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Swiss or American cheese

Mix ground beef, onion, green pepper, parsley, tomato, hot pepper sauce, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper in mixing bowl; pat half of meat mixture on bottom of 9-inch pie plate. Pare potatoes and cut in ⅛-inch slices. Arrange half of potato slices over meat mixture, overlapping edges. Sprinkle with ⅛ teaspoon salt and half the cheese. Repeat with remaining meat, potatoes, salt and cheese. Bake in 350 degree oven 50 minutes. If necessary, cover loosely with foil the last 15 minutes to prevent cheese from browning too much.

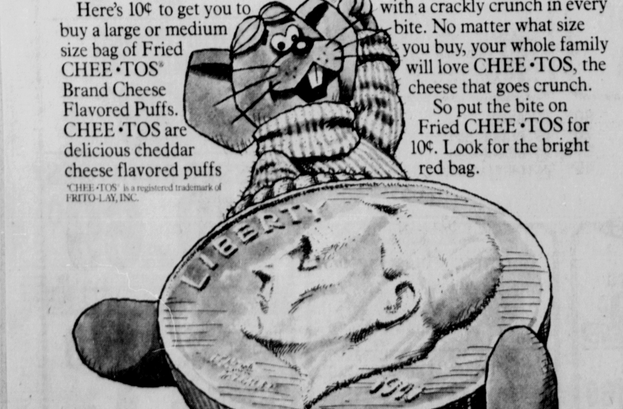

Makes: 4 to 5 servings.

POTATOES CHEESE ANNA

5 medium potatoes
1¼ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
8 ounces cheese, i.e. Swiss, American or Muenster, thinly sliced
¼ cup chopped fresh parsley

Pare potatoes, cut into ⅛-inch slices. Arrange a layer with edges overlapping in a 9-inch plate. Sprinkle with ½ teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper, top with one third of the cheese. Repeat layers, ending with cheese. Bake in 375 degree oven 45 to 50 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Sprinkle with parsley.

Makes: 6 servings.

MEAT AND POTATO PIE

Vegetables au parmesan new

We live in a time of individuality and versatility. The traditional decorating and entertaining codes of the fifties and sixties have given way to the creative and innovative ideas of the seventies. This attitude is as evident in food preparation as it is in housing and clothing styles. In entertaining, for example, brunches have replaced cocktail and late evening parties and feature menus that offer exciting and distinctively new eating experiences.

Vegetable cookery, for one, has come a long way from the simple "boil in salted water direction." In Vegetable Au Parmesan broccoli and carrots take on a whole new flavor when simmered slowly in a little chicken bouillon and spiced with dry mustard and ground ginger. For still more variety and taste appeal parmesan goldfish crackers are added just before serving.

Also a Macaroni and Cheese casserole can take on new character and appeal with a few simple additions. Start with green pepper sauteed with onion in butter; then add stewed tomatoes along with the pasta and Cheddar cheese. This mixture layered alternately with pizza goldfish crackers and garnished with tomato slices gives an old favorite a new look as well as a savory new taste.

VEGETABLES AU PARMESAN

1 bunch broccoli
2 cups carrots, sliced
1 cup chicken bouillon
1 tablespoon butter
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
1 cup Parmesan Goldfish crackers

In a saucepan simmer broccoli and carrots in a cup of chicken bouillon until tender crisp. Add butter, dry mustard and ginger. Mix in thoroughly. Just before serving, mix in ¾ cup Pepperidge Farm Goldfish crackers. Top with remaining ¼ cup Makes 6 servings.

GOLDFISH MACARONI AND CHEESE

1 small onion, sliced
1/3 cup green pepper, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
4 cups cooked elbow macaroni
1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes
2 cups Cheddar cheese, shredded
1 package pizza goldfish crackers
1 tomato, sliced

Cook onion and green pepper in butter until tender. Add cooked macaroni, stewed tomatoes and 1½ cups Cheddar cheese. In a buttered 1½ quart casserole, alternate layers of pasta mixture and goldfish, ending with goldfish. Top with remaining ½ cup cheese and arrange tomato slices on top. Bake for 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes 6 servings.

Resolution for '77

Don't eat so much, it's simple as that

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Now is the time to make good resolutions for 1977. Therefore, we asked one of the country's most accredited biochemists and nutritionists to suggest a few for the average man and woman. But nothing too drastic.

Dr. C. Glen King, formerly head of the Nutrition Foundation and currently member of the American Institute of Nutrition, suggests that we eat too much. We should taper down our appetites, or rather, cut back on our intake of foods.

"There are a million men and women today facing heart attacks because of over-stuffing. Moral: don't eat so much. It's as simple as that."

Dr. King, member of the National Academy of Sciences, urges everyone to check his or her body weight against official schedules and with his doctors. Then do something about it if overweight.

"Act sensibly but relentlessly. And try to keep your resolution to eat less within the limits of social normalcy. Eat with your family, at your club, with the crowd from the office — in other words, keep your eating habits socially acceptable. Try to eat food from the same sources as the others, but less of it. But try to eat with the group you are accustomed to," he advises. "Nobody enjoys being isolated from his social life by a diet.

"Variety is important, too," he adds. "Both nutritionally and in appetite appeal. Select wisely from meats, fish, poultry, milk and cheese, fruits and vegetables, some cereals. Selection from a variety of such foods will guarantee that you eat all the essential vitamins, proteins, calories and minerals your body needs. And you can get a lot of good eating from them at the same time."

So to sum up: resolve to eat less and choose your food wisely. Nobody wants a heart attack.

Eating too much is just one of the problems. The other is not getting out of your chair often enough.

Human physiology has not changed. We need exercise today just as much as our grandfathers did. Those larger waists, those well-tailored paunches and heavier thighs that begin to develop after age 30 are the result not only of eating too much but also of taking it too easy.

Although regular physical exercise is necessary to weight control, it does not necessarily have to be strenuous. Consistency is the key.

Fresh apple kucken just not an everyday 'affair'

Waking up to the aroma of fresh yeast bread, apples and cinnamon wafting through the air seems like a heavenly way to start a day. But who has time to make it happen? And who has time to sit down peacefully and enjoy it to the last crumb?

Actually, Fresh Apple Kucken isn't an everyday affair. It's for weekend breakfasts and brunches, for holidays and for people who notice and appreciate the homemade touch. Actually it can happen faster than you think as the batter is mixed the Rapidmix way with the active dry yeast added to some of the dry ingredients which reduces time and dirty dishes. And the batter can be mixed the night before, covered tightly and refrigerated. One rising happens while you are sleeping.

The next morning the batter is stirred down and divided into 2 pans — 9-inch square or round. Or put half the batter into a 9-inch ovenproof skillet. (Serve it right from the skillet, which will keep it warm to the last crumb.) Flour your fingers and coax the batter to the edges of the pan, then arrange slices of apples over all. You can even measure and mix the sugar, cinnamon and margarine the night before so it's ready to sprinkle over the apples. One more rising in a warm place and the Kuchen is ready for baking.

Another point about this recipe, you can substitute whole wheat flour for part of the white, adding fiber and minerals to the breakfast menu.

FRESH APPLE KUCKEN
Makes 2 cakes

- 2 to 2½ cups sifted flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 package active dry yeast
- ½ cup milk
- ¼ cup water
- ¼ cup margarine (½ stick)
- 1 egg (at room temperature)
- 4 cups sliced fresh apples
- 2/3 cup sugar
- 1½ teaspoons cinnamon
- 2 tablespoons margarine

In a large bowl thoroughly mix ¾ cup flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt and undissolved Active dry yeast.

Combine milk, water and ¼ cup margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120 degrees to 130 degrees F.). Margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a stiff batter. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. If desired, let dough rise in refrigerator. Cover tightly and refrigerate 2 hours or overnight.

Stir batter down. Turn into any 2 of the following greased pans: 9-inch square, 9-inch round, 2-quart baking dish, 12-inch pizza pan or 9-inch ovenproof skillet. Use lightly floured fingers to spread batter to edges of pans. Arrange apple slices evenly over batter. Combine 2/3 cup sugar, cinnamon and 2 tablespoons margarine; mix until crumbly. Sprinkle over fruit. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake at 375 degrees F. about 25 minutes, or until done.

Whole Wheat Fruit Kucken: Prepare as above except after beating at high speed 2 minutes, stir in 1 to 1½ cups unsifted whole wheat instead of white flour to make a stiff batter.

Ginger cake treat

There are occasions when the most experienced hostess turns to her favorite recipe file for a last-minute idea on the type of dessert she will serve to her dinner guests.

The next time you entertain, try this new recipe for "Pineapple Ginger Cake Roll." Not only will your company enjoy it, but you will bask in the smiling approval of your family.

The recipe for this dessert is typical of those that are being entered in the National Pineapple Cooking Classic which will be held next April in Hawaii.

For entry blanks, write to "Classic," P.O. Box 2374, Station B, San Francisco, Calif., 94126.

There will be 40 winners competing for $65,000 in cash awards. Deadline for entries is December 1.

PINEAPPLE GINGER CAKE ROLL

- ¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon ginger
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon soda
- 4 large eggs, separated
- ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1/3 cup brown sugar (packed)
- 1/3 cup light molasses
- 3 tablespoons melted butter
- Granulated sugar
- Pineapple Cream Filling

Grease a jelly roll pan (10 x 15 x 1-inch). Line bottom with sheet of waxed paper or parchment, and grease paper. Dust lightly with flour, shaking out excess. Resift ¾ cup sifted flour with baking powder, spices, salt and soda into mixing bowl. Beat egg whites with cream of tartar to soft peaks. Gradually beat in 1/3 cup brown sugar, beating to a stiff meringue. Add egg yolks, molasses and butter to flour mixture and beat until smooth. Gently fold in meringue, about ¼ at a time, until no streaks of meringue remain. Turn into prepared pan, and spread level with spatula. Bake in center of moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 18 to 20 minutes, until cake begins to pull away from edges of pan and top springs back when touched lightly in center. While cake bakes, sprinkle a cloth thickly with granulated sugar. Invert baked cake onto sugared cloth and gently pull off paper. Roll cake loosely in cloth, starting from narrower side. Cool cake roll on wire rack. Make Pineapple Cream Filling. When cake is cold, unroll cake and remove cloth. Spread filling evenly over surface to within 1 inch of each end. Reroll cake with filling. Chill until serving time. Cut into slices to serve. Makes 10 servings.

Pineapple Cream Filling: Mix 2 tablespoons each cornstarch and brown sugar together in saucepan. Stir in 2 (8¼ ounce) cans undrained crushed pineapple. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens. Remove from heat and stir in ¼ teaspoon almond extract. Cool. When ready to fill cake, beat ½ cup whipping cream stiff. Fold into cold pineapple mixture.

Apples

If you store apples in plastic bags in the refrigerator, make sure the bags are perforated. Apples like humidity!

Pear and ham dish flavorful

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Fruits add their own special flavoring to casserole dishes. Make use of leftover ham by combining it with diced pears, bread crumbs and topped with a tart sweet sauce. When serving, use pear slices for garnish for an extra contrast in taste and texture. This pear-ham dish is a good choice to serve for a small brunch group or the bridge club when baked in individual casseroles.

PEAR AND HAM CASSEROLES

- 2 Anjou, Bosc or Comice pears, diced
- 1/3 cup diced onion
- ½ cup diced celery
- ¼ cup diced green pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 pound cooked ham, cut in ½-inch cubes
- 6 pear slices, for garnish
- ½ cup ketchup
- ½ cup water
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- ½ cup buttered coarse bread crumbs

Dice pears, Saute onion, celery and green pepper in butter. Combine with ham and pears and place in 6 individual casseroles. Garnish with pear slices. Combine ketchup, water, brown sugar, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce and mustard. Divide evenly among casderoles. Sprinile with buttered crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees 20 to 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Steak tip

King-sized steak makes easy but elegant entree for entertaining. For 6 to 8 guests you'll need about 3 pounds of lean beef. First cut top round about 2 inches thick is an excellent choice to grill or broil to rare. To serve, squeeze the juice of an orange over the beef and slice across the grain. Garnish platter with orange wedges and watercress for a pretty finish.

In the kitchen

Working woman's time is premium

Time, always at a premium, can pose a special problem during this season of the year. For the 37 million women now in the work force, just getting dinner on the table can be a major effort. Those who work at home may find such necessary activities as cooking an intrusion when there are dozens of other things to be done.

"Organization and some positive planning can help make meal time simpler," says Gloria Hansen, a home economist with the National Canners Association. Like most working women, Mrs. Hansen has learned to budget time and resources more efficiently. Recently she shared some of her short cuts.

"I make it easy on myself by taking advantage of as many time-saving conveniences I can," she says. For one thing, she's a firm believer in kitchen devices — blenders, electric grills, toaster-ovens and mixers.

"If you don't have at least one of these appliances," she advises, "suggest it the next time a gift-giving occasion comes around."

Beyond that, she emphasizes there is no substitute for advance planning. "I work out menus in advance and keep a stock of convenience foods to add variety and interest to main courses, salads, vegetables and desserts."

Dishes that are complicated or take a long time to cook are prepared on weekends when the whole family is home to share the chores. "The key is to make the chores you delegate easy and fun," she says.

During the week she relies on convenience foods to stretch left-overs or dress up simple dishes. Sunday's roast is turned into a hearty stew with the addition of a can each of carrots, green beans, small onions, corn and potatoes. Everything is simmered in a can of gravy until it's heated through and flavored with thyme or marjoram. Plain rice cooked in boullion and garnished with peas or mushrooms is used to complement a main course.

As a welcome change from the traditional salad, Mrs. Hansen often marinates three kinds of beans in salad dressing or makes beets or asparagus vinaigrette.

Mrs. Hansen even manages to produce some rather sophisticated desserts in practically no time. A family favorite is chilled mandarin orange sections topped with sweetened coconut. For a fast, hot dessert she pours crepe batter over a layer of dark, sweet bing cherries in a shallow baking dish. Peach halves topped with hot raspberry preserves become instant peach melba when served over ice cream.

"Saving time," says Gloria Hansen, "does not mean skimping on taste or nutrition. Mostly it means making the most efficient use of your time."

Mexicali party pie traditional

Planning a holiday party? A Mexican theme will add a new flair to the traditional party setting, and please young and old alike.

One splendid way to satisfy all is with this unusual Mexicali Party Pie, created in the Lipton Kitchens. This unique dish takes its origin from the popular Mexican taco and its simplicty from American convenience foods.

For example, the base of the pie is made in a jiffy with corn bread mix, while the ground beef topping is combined with an easy-to-use onion flavor meat extender. The meat extender contains tempting bits of onion and subtle seasonings to flavor the pie; but, more importantly, it doubles the amount of meat (a welcome bonus for holiday-strained budgets), and adds a juiciness to the meat that's marvelous!

To garnish the pie, use any combination of your favorite taco toppings — chopped tomato, onion, or green pepper, sliced ripe olives, or shredded lettuce. Cut into thin wedges for party nibbling, or heartier wedges if it's a supper party.

Since you're serving a Mexican-inspired dish, you might want to carry out the theme further with a brightly colored tablecloth and napkins, and splashy paper flowers for the centerpiece. And, if you can, have a "pinata" for the children . . . a paper animal filled with small gifts. Have the children, blindfolded, try to break the suspended "pinata" with long sticks to release the presents inside.

TACO PARTY PIE

- 1 package (10 oz) easy corn bread mix
- 1 cup milk
- 2 eggs
- 1 package Lipton Make-a-Better Burger, Onion Flavor
- 2 cups warm water
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 can (6 ounce) tomato paste
- 1 can (4 ounces) green chilies, drained and chopped
- 1 to 2 tablespoons chili powder
- 2 cups shredded cheddar cheese
- Suggested toppings

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F.

In medium bowl, blend corn bread mix, milk, and eggs; divide batter into two well-greased 12-inch pizza pans. Bake 15 minutes; cool.

Meanwhile, in a large bowl, combine onion flavor meat extender and 1¼ cups warm water; add ground beef and mix thoroughly. In large skillet, brown beef mixture. Add remaining ¾ cup water, tomato paste, chilies, and chili powder; simmer 5 minutes.

Spread mixture onto corn bread crusts; top with cheese. Bake 15 minutes or until cheese melts. Garnish with Suggested Toppings; cut into wedges to serve. Each pie makes about 16 appetizer servings.

Note: Recipe may be prepared in one jelly roll pan (15½ inches x 10½ inches x 1 inch); cut into squares to serve.

Suggested Toppings: Shredded lettuce; chopped tomatoes; chopped green pepper; chopped onions; sliced ripe olives.

What Waffles!

For festive waffles, add chocolate mini chips and toasted chopped almonds to the batter. Serve with butter and marmalade for breakfast, with whipped cream and chocolate shot for dessert.

Oyster-mushroom stew 'boon' to homemakers

Oysters have been pleasing and nourishing mankind for hundreds of years. Coastal Indians enjoyed them in large quantities as evidenced by great piles of oyster shells found along the shorelines by early settlers. Oysters today are more popular than ever, and the old superstition of eating oysters only in the "R" months has long been disproved. Oysters are good to eat anytime they are available. Fortunately for oyster fanciers they can be enjoyed the year around thanks to today's modern freezing and canning processes. Right now, however, these tasty little gems are plentiful and available fresh, sweet, and ready to eat.

Oyster meats are excellent sources of protein, minerals, and vitamins, and they are easily digested. Because of the high mineral content, oysters are often recommended by doctors for patients with anemia. To retain the oyster's delicate flavor never overcook. Oysters should be cooked just long enough to heat through so they will remain plump and tender.

Soup is super — especially when oysters are in the soup. Oysters are delightful prepared in dozens of versatile ways, but now is the season to enjoy them in soups and stews. Poets have said that oyster stew nourishes the soul; whether it does or not is debatable, but we do know that it nourishes the body. Oyster-Mushroom Stew, a National Marine Fisheries Service recipe, has all the goodness of the traditional oyster stew but with a modern touch. This recipe combines the succulent oysters with milk and canned cream of mushroom soup for a hurry-up snack, lunch, or first course. A last minute addition of sherry adds a flavor fillip to make this easy combination one you'll repeat again and again. Served with a cling peach salad and your choice of crackers, this Oyster-Mushroom Stew is a boon to today's busy homemakers — ready in minutes, tasty and filling, and bound to satisfy.

OYSTER-MUSHROOM STEW

- 2 cans (12 ounces each) oysters, fresh or frozen
- 1 can (10½ ounces) cream of mushroom soup
- 2 cups oyster liquor and milk
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sherry
- Paprika

Thaw frozen oysters. Drain oysters and reserve liquor. Combine all ingredients except oysters and sherry in a 3-quart saucepan. Heat, stirring occasionally. Add oysters. Heat 3 to 5 minutes longer or until edges of oysters begin to curl. Add sherry. Sprinkle with paprika. Makes 6 servings.

OYSTER-MUSHROOM STEW

Huge crop helps

Potato boon to consumers

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has issued a special Food Alert to announce that potatoes are an extra good value for consumers because of a huge crop this fall. In fact, early estimates put potato production at a mind-boggling 30 billion pounds this year. Since fall traditionally means a return to heartier meat-and-potatoes meals, this is good news for economy-minded consumers.

It's well known that America's favorite vegetable has seen us through many lean years, helping us stretch the cost of higher priced foods to keep per-serving costs down.

What we tend to forget, though, is that the potato is a bargain in more than just price. Take nutrition for example. For just a few pennies, a medium potato (3 per pound) provides one-third of B vitamins and such important minerals as iron and potassium.

Potatoes are a calorie bargain, too. That medium potato has fewer than 100 calories, no more than an apple or pear the same size. In fact, an average man would have to eat 28 potatoes to meet his calorie needs for the day. That's a lot of potatoes!

The Good Housekeeping Institute which has been a leader in helping consumers for more than 90 years has often turned to potatoes for nutritious, low cost meal ideas. The October 1976 issue, for example, features economical meat and potato dishes for fall, including this recipe for Beef Short-Rib Soup. It's chock full of potatoes and other good fresh vegetables in season: cabbage, carrots, onions and tomatoes. So you get a lot for your money in nutrition and flavor. Try this hearty fall soup and other meat and potato dishes, and enjoy this fall's excellent potato values.

BEEF SHORT-RIB SOUP

- 2 pounds beef chuck short ribs, cut into 2-inch pieces
- 8 cups water
- 1 cup fresh or frozen chopped onion
- ¼ cup dry sherry
- 4 teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
- 3 medium sized potatoes, peeled and cut into bite-size pieces
- 3 medium carrots, diagonally sliced into bite-size pieces
- ½ small head cabbage, cut into bite-size pieces
- 2 large tomatoes, peeled, seeded and cut into bite-size pieces
- About 1 4-ounce bottle horseradish

About 3 hours before serving: In 6-quart Dutch oven or saucepot over high heat, heat short ribs and water to boiling. With spoon, skim off foam. Add onion, sherry, salt, pepper and monosodium glutamate; heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low; cover and simmer 1½ hours. Add potatoes, carrots and cabbage; over high heat, heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low; cover and simmer 30 minutes or until meat and vegetables are tender. Add tomatoes and heat through. Serve soup and let everyone dip meat in horseradish.

Makes 6 servings.

But dried fruit scarce

Peanut supplies will be plentiful

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Nature smiles on the new administration of the peanut farmer president. This year's supply of peanuts will be plentiful.

But nature has not smiled on all dried fruits and nuts at the same time. Prices for many, such as raisins, figs, pecans and filberts will be far higher than usual. Blame Nature for the extra cost.

Raisin lovers should be unhappy this year, because of much higher prices for those who crave raisin bread, raisin cookies and pound cake and to eat them plain at will during the day. The crop has been a national disaster, according to agriculture reports.

Like all relatively unprocessed foods, raisins are susceptible to the weather. Dark seedless raisins are doubly vulnerable, since they depend on the California warmth during both the growing season and a prolonged sun-drying period. This September, two heavy rains were followed by unusually cool weather. The grapes, which had been laid out in the fields to dry, got wet. Then the weather did not warm up enough to evaporate the excess moisture. Although growers are still trying to salvage some of their crop, and a final estimate of the damage is not available, production is very short. Exports, advertising and sales promotion have been halted and some packers are restricting the amount of their shipments.

Prices for the dark raisins shot up in response to this shortage and now stand around $1.15 for the 15-ounce box in supermarkets. Further price increases are likely.

Bad news also for the fig fanciers. The fig supply is also very short worldwide. The important California Calimyrna fig crop produced only one-sixth of the normal supply. Imported European figs also were hard hit by poor weather.

But the American prune eater can smile with ease. The prune supply is adequate, although there are more small prunes and fewer large ones than normal and the larger sizes may be disproportionately priced. Weather was also the culprit for prunes, since the plums did not size properly.

More good news: Supplies of the other dried fruits, including apricots, apples, peaches and pears are adequate and prices on wholesale markets are about the same or a little higher than last year. On a per-pound basis, the retail prices of these fruits are generally higher than those of raisins and prunes. Part of the reason for this is the amount of fresh fruit which it takes to produce the dried product. There are up to 10 pounds of apples in a pound of dried apples, and around six to seven pounds of apricots, peaches and pears to each pound of the dried.

Grapefruit

Pink grapefruit has been around since 1913 when it was first developed. It's a lovely grapefruit to serve half-shell style as a first course or a dessert for a company dinner.

Giants, Spartans score wins

USF plays at Anaheim

Is the University of San Francisco really the nation's best college basketball team?

Southern California fans can find out for themselves as the Dons are scheduled for three Southland appearances.

The easiest game for Pomona Valley fans to attend is Thursday night's contest between USF and the Athletes in Action at the Anaheim Convention Center in an 8 p.m. tipoff.

Later on, USF comes south for a pair of West Coast Athletic Conference games against Loyola on Tuesday, Feb. 15, at the Long Beach Arena and on Saturday, Feb. 19, at Pepperdine in Malibu.

Thursday's game is officially only an exhibition because the NCAA doesn't count games against non-collegiate opponents but it figures to be a dandy.

USF will be bringing its perfect 19-0 record against Athletes in Action, 20-6. AIA, the defending national AAU champions, has compiled its record all on the road against top college teams.

This is a rare "home" game for AIA, which is based in Tustin. A second game at Anaheim next Saturday (Jan. 29) is also quite attractive with Jerry Tarkanian bringing his Nevada Las Vegas team, the highest scoring team in the nation.

Religion enters scene

AIA is advertising Thursday's game as the best Protestant team in the country against the top Catholic squad.

A lot of basketball experts are tabbing USF as one of the great college teams of all time.

There is no question about the talent and most of it is young.

USF was the talk of the basketball world two years ago when it recruited three of the top prep sensations in America in center Bill Cartwright and forwards James Hardy and Winford Boynes.

But the Dons displayed its inexperience last year when they compiled a 22-8 record but were beaten out by Pepperdine for the WCAC title

Under free spirit Bob Gaillard's coaching, San Francisco has put it together this year.

The Dons have already won tournament titles at its own Cable Car Classic plus tourneys at Salt Lake City and Honolulu.

There may not be a real test left on the schedule until the season finale at Notre Dame.

USF gained revenge against Pepperdine last Saturday with a convincing 107-72 rout over the defending champs at the Dons' court.

"In 20 years of basketball games, I have never felt so helpless," said Pepperdine coach Gary Colson. "It was like playing the Boston Celtics.

"That's the No. 1 team in the country. They're 50 per cent better than last year. They took their lumps last season by playing three freshmen and Bob took a lot of heat for it. But what a bonus he's going to have for three years."

But not everybody agrees.

In Seattle, Bill O'Connor of Seattle U. wasn't that impressed despite an 81-63 home court loss to the Dons.

"They may go through the WCAC undefeated but I don't think they have the maturity to hang together through a national tournament."

Can't play as team?

Washington's Marv Harshman added, "I'll go on record as saying USF won't win the national championship. It has talent 10 players deep. But I believe they will destroy themselves. I don't think they can live within a team concept with all that individual talent."

That has been Gaillard's chief problem.

It's darn tough keeping many talented individuals happy and to get them to play unselfish ball.

Gaillard has been successful with his low key approach of having fun. He doesn't have a curfew and lets his players do their thing off the court.

USF and the Athletes in Action have only one common opponent — Cal Poly Pomona. The Broncs fell to AIA, 79-55, and USF, 96-68.

When told about being the only common opponent, Poly coach Don Hogan just said, "That proves how crazy we are."

Ganesha High, outplaying Garey in virtually every facet of the game, cruised into a second-place San Antonio League tie with the Vikings Tuesday with a 78-59 win at Ganesha.

Both teams are now 4-1 in league play and trail leader Damien (5-0) by a single game. Garey will get a shot at the Spartans Friday night at Damien while Ganesha visits Montclair.

Ganesha at Montclair, 8 p.m.

"We played very good defense today," said Ganesha coach Gary Fulkerson after the game. "We played a pretty good game all around but defense was the best part."

The Giants were largely responsible for Garey's total of 21 turnovers. Those Viking miscues and Ganesha's strong rebounding enabled the Giants to take 23 more shots than Garey.

Neither team shot well. Ganesha made 33 of 88 field goal attempts (37.5 per cent) and Garey made 22 of 65 (33.6 per cent).

But the Giants hit the boards well enough to score quite a few of their points after offensive rebounds. The Giants wound up with a 62-45 advantage on the boards.

Ganesha's rebounding authority was well distributed among its big men. Center George Hawthorne grabbed 14 boards while forwards James Verdon and Vince Hall added 13 apiece.

"We looked like we weren't even interested in the game," Garey coach Mike Wells said. "James Lofton was the only guy that was really playing for us. He played a heck of a game, but everybody else was standing around.

"We just didn't hustle at all. Ganesha wanted the game and they went after it."

Garey's scoring was balanced — there just wasn't enough of it. Lofton, guard Chris Davis and reserve forward Devi Parks tallied 11 points each and forwards Herbi Banks and Craig Snyder added 10 and nine, respectively.

Lofton, Garey's center, led his squad with 10 rebounds before fouling out early in the fourth quarter.

Hawthorne topped all scorers with 21 points and Verdon was next with 18.

Fulkerson inserted Hall and guard James Dowe, two juniors who have been playing quite a bit in reserve roles recently, into the starting lineup, and both turned in fine performances.

Dowe scored 16 points and Hall had nine to go along with his 13 rebounds.

Tuesday's game was never really close. The Giants took a 9-1 lead midway through the first quarter and were ahead by six, 18-12, at the end of the period.

Ganesha then outscored the visitors, 17-12, in the second quarter for a 35-24 halftime advantage.

Hawthorne, Verdon and Dowe scored six points each in the third quarter as the Giants put the game away by taking a 59-38 lead with eight minutes to go.

Kings enjoy home cookin'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There's no place like home for the Los Angeles Kings.

The Kings, coming off their longest road trip of the National Hockey League season in which they lost six of seven games, whipped Toronto 6-3 Tuesday night.

Frank St. Marseille and Marcel Dionne each had a goal and two assists.

"It was was a very big win for us," said Mike Murphy, the Kings' captain. "After losing six out of seven on the road, it was very discouraging. I thought we should have won at least four on the road, but bad breaks hurt us in close games.

Kings Coach Bob Pulford said, "We scored four goals in the first period not because we played good offense, but because we played well defensively. We took the man tonight, better than we have all year."

"It was a bad game for us," said Toronoto coach Red Kelly. "We didn't hit anybody in the first period. It was a little better the remainder of the way but we got off to a bad start."

Darryl Sittler, the Maple Leafs' top scorer, suffered torn cartilege in his ribs in the first period and was taken to the hospital for x-rays.

The Kings built a 5-0 lead before George Ferguson got the Leafs' first goal with about three minutes left in the second period.

Bob Berry opened the Kings' scoring on a 25-foot shot against rookie Leafs' goalie MikePalmateer midway in the opening period. Two minutes later, Dave Schultz added his sixth goal of the season on a 20-footer and St. Marseille connected on a backhand shot from 15 feet.

Mike Cuellar signs Halo pact

ANAHEIM (AP) — Southpaw Mike Cuellar, co-winner of the American League Cy Young Award in 1969 and four times a 20-game winner in a dozen major league seasons, has signed a contract with the California Angels.

General Manager Harry Dalton announced Tuesday that Cueller has joined the club as a free agent.

Cuellar, 39, was released by Baltimore, where he was 14-13 with a 4.96 earned run average last season.

Cuellar has a 185-129 lifetime record to go with a 3.12 career ERA.

He's currently pitching for Caguas in the Puerto Rican League where he's 5-3 with a 2.93 ERA. He has given up 51 hits in 61 innings.

This is the second time Dalton has had the services of the screwball-throwing Cuellar. As general manager in Baltimore in 1969, Dalton traded outfielder Curt Blefary to Houston for Cuellar.

Damien avoids upset

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Damien High was almost knocked from its first place perch in the San Antonio League standings as the Spartans edged Pomona, 72-66, Tuesday afternoon on their homecourt.

The Spartans are now on top of the SAL pack as Garey fell to 4-1 after losing to Ganesha. Damien is 5-0 and 8-6 in overall action with its six-point victory.

"Pomona caught us between the Ganesha and Garey games," noted Damien's Bill Roberts. "I figured this would happen coming off the Ganesha game. But we had good poise down the stretch and we hit our foul shots."

Damien actually notched the victory at the foul line as the Spartans connected on 20 of 24 charity tosses. Both squads recorded 26 goals from the field. Pomona made six less free throws than Damien.

Roberts commented, "This was the most points we've had scored on us in league play. Pomona turned in a good effort against us tonight. We were just fortunate that Ralf Paspal turned in a good performance for us."

Paspal scored 19 points and pulled down 14 rebounds for the Spartans while forward Bill Duffy scored 20. Duffy added 8 rebounds to the Spartans' board total of 35.

Pomona, which used two squads of troops throughout the contest jumped off to a 17-15 lead in the opening period of action. Pomona was able to get inside for some easy hoops on the Damien defense. Pomona kept up its hot shooting throughout most of the contest.

Damien's shooters opened the game not being able to hit their outside shots.

However, Duffy and Paspal began hitting hoops they had missed in the opening quarter of action. Ed Carlson also helped the Damien attack as he scored six of his 14 points in the first half of play.

Pomona, which played its best game of the year in trying to upset Damien, is now 0-5 in SAL action and 2-11 on the year.

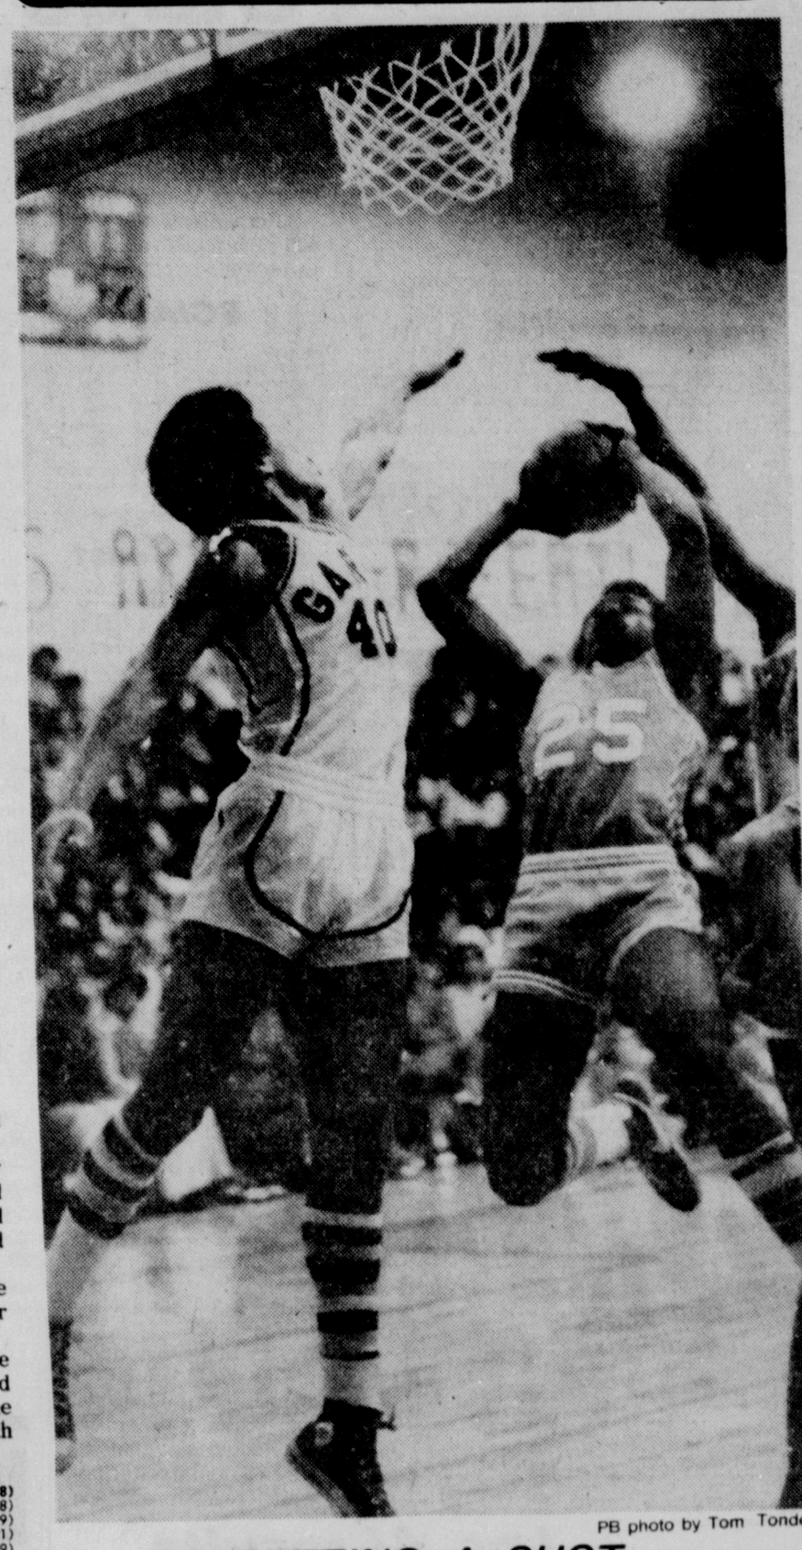

Pomona's attack was paced by Frank Haynes (18 points) and Vann Andrews with 15 points.

Pomona (66)	Damien (72)

Poly's rally stuns Loyola

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Cal Poly Pomona's basketball team could have just taken a rest Tuesday night when it fell behind, 48-30, to host Loyola Marymount here Tuesday night.

After all, it was a non-conference game on the road against a Division 1 opponent.

But the Broncos decided to work and the result was a stunning 74-67 victory over the Lions thanks to an incredible comeback.

Loyola (8-7) still enjoyed a big 17-point edge, 55-38, with 13:54 left in the game but Poly (7-8) outscored the hosts, 36-12, the rest of the way.

The big spurt came when Loyola still enjoyed an 11-point margin (59-48) with 10:23 on the clock.

Poly responded by scoring 14 straight points with baskets by Paten Calloway and Jack Gamulin putting the Broncs ahead, 62-59, with 4:40 on the clock.

Loyola recovered to retake the lead at 63-62 but Poly outscored the Lions 12-4 the rest of the way to take home the victory, the first in seven games against major college opponents this season.

Center Don Johnson's tip-in basket with three minutes to go gave Poly the permanent lead with reserves Dennis Weisse and Mark Bernhard scoring key baskets to keep the Broncos on top.

But the big hero Tuesday night was Pomonan Broderick Hunter, the former Ganesha High star who is just getting used to a Bronco uniform after transferring from Arizona State.

Hunter came off the bench to score his season high of 14 points, 10 in the second half, in making six of 11 field goals and both free throws. He also grabbed five rebounds in 27 minutes of action.

"It could have been easy to have said this game doesn't count in the conference and just go through the motions," Poly coach Don Hogan said. "But it got to be a matter of pride."

In explaining the sudden turnaround, Hogan said, "We weren't ready to play when it started and Loyola was getting a lot of its points inside on us. We just weren't doing the job inside. Suddenly, we realized we can play with these people and we settled down and played basketball."

Hogan also switched from a zone defense to a man-to-man in the second half and the move stopped Loyola from getting many offensive rebounds for baskets.

Loyola enjoyed a big 26-14 rebounding edge at halftime but Poly won the boards, 21-15, in the second half.

The Broncs also went to their press and the move paid off with 13 Loyola turnovers in the second half. For the game, the Lions were charged with 21 turnovers to Poly's 11.

Poly shot 50 per cent (33-66) while Loyola hit on 48.3 (29-60).

Hunter and Gamulin led the Broncs with 14 points apiece while guard Charles Johnson added 12. Don Johnson led on the boards with seven rebounds.

Guard Vince Morelli led Loyola with 19 points followed by center Eric Claus with 16.

Both teams face important conference games. Poly heads for an important CCAA contest Friday night at Cal State Northridge while Loyola travels to Pepperdine Thursday night.

It was a rough loss for Loyola.

"The loss was a combination of us letting down and Cal Poly's intensity," said Loyola coach Dave Benaderet. "Cal Poly has a very misleading record. No one has played a more demanding schedule. Poly took its licks but it has made them stronger and more hungry for wins."

Poly (74)	Loyola (67)

Lakers hoodwink Kings

KANSAS CITY (AP) — If Jerry West is to be believed, the Los Angeles Lakers may be the greatest masters of illusion since Harry Houdini disappeared for good.

At least they put one over on the Kansas City Kings Tuesday night, by a 113-111 count.

The head wizard was massive Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who dumped in 16 of his 36 points in the final period to give the Lakers the come-from-behind National Basketball Association thriller.

The Los Angeles guards yelled out a variety of plays as they brought the ball down the floor in the waning minutes — but the result was almost always an Abdul-Jabbar hook, jumper or stuff.

"I can assure you the plays aren't designed for that (to go only to Abdul-Jabbar)," said West, the Lakers coach. "It just looks that way."

The Kings got to look at it a lot, as the 7-foot-4 Los Angeles center brought the Lakers back from a 12-point deficit in the third quarter of a game dominated most of the way by Kansas City.

Abdul-Jabbar, benched with three fouls, came back in with nine minutes left and funneled in 10 points during a 3½-minute span. That forced the Kings to double-team him and opened the way for the rest of the Lakers.

Kermit Washington brought Los Angeles to within one at 102-101, then Johnny Neumann put the Lakers ahead to stay with a three-point play.

Kansas City still managed to stay close to the West Coast squad but saw its hopes fade when Brian King's jumper with three seconds left went astray.

Ron Boone paced the Kings with 25 points, while Rich Washington added 22. Lucius Allen had 17 for the Lakers.

Banks is named to Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, one of baseball's top all-time sluggers, was named to the Hall of Fame today by the Baseball Writers Association of America in his first year of eligibility for the shrine in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Banks, a shortstop and first baseman for 19 seasons with the Cubs, was the only player in the writers' balloting to receive the 75 per cent required for election. He had 321 votes of the 383 cast by 10-year members of the BBWAA. The required number of votes for election was 288.

Eddie Mathews, former slugger for the Braves in Boston and Milwaukee, finished second in the balloting with 239 votes, 49 shy of election. Mathews and Banks each had 512 career home runs, tied for ninth place on the all-time list.

The late Gil Hodges of the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Mets was third with 224 votes, followed by Enos Slaughter, who had 222. Slaughter played for several teams but is best known for his years with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Duke Snider, also of the Dodgers, was the only other player with more than 200 votes, receiving 212. The pitcher coming closest to election was the Dodgers' Don Drysdale, with 197 votes, sixth in the balloting.

Banks became the eighth player in Hall of Fame history to be elected in his first year of eligibility. The only others earning that distinction were Ted Williams, Sandy Koufax, Mickey Mantle, Stan Musial, Warren Spahn, Bob Feller and Jackie Robinson.

In 2,528 games with the Cubs, Banks had a career batting average of .274 with 1,636 runs batted in. He hit 40 or more home runs in five different seasons and won consecutive National League Most Valuable Player awards in 1958 and 1959.

Banks is the 55th player selected by the writers into the Hall of Fame.

The announcement of Banks' selection was made jointly by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Earl Lawson of the Cincinnati Post, president of the BBWAA.

Mathews, who finished fifth in the balloting last year, also has impressive career statistics. Besides his 512 homers the third baseman drove in 1,453 runs and had a career batting average of .271.

Stags in thick of chase

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

The success story of local college basketball this season is at Claremont-Mudd.

After suffering through a 4-21 record last year, coach Dave Wells has the Stags in the thick of the SCIAC race.

Wells will get a good idea if his third-place team (3-1) can stay in the race this week when Claremont visits Redlands tonight and hosts Occidental Saturday.

Whittier (3-0) and Occidental (2-0), the two co-favorites, meet tonight at Whittier in an early battle for the lead. In other SCIAC action tonight, Pomona-Pitzer (0-4) visits La Verne (2-2).

Claremont-Mudd is 7-9 for the season with six wins in its last eight games.

Wells praised his team at Tuesday's weekly basketball luncheon at The Castaway Restaurant.

"We're excited about our position in the league standings," he said. "If we could have a good week this week, we will be right in the thick of things. We're getting good play from just about everybody. Really, I can't say enough about this team.

"In our last eight games, we've been playing as well as we can. Our team has been very relaxed in practice but plays very hard in the games. I would like to keep it that way."

Cal Poly's Jack Gamulin was voted the Player of the Week for his part in leading the Broncos to a pair of wins over Point Loma and UC Riverside. He made 19 of 28 field goals, scored 42 points and grabbed 14 rebounds.

Claremont-Mudd guard Mark Sunderland, who scored 33 points in last week's wins over Caltech and La Verne, was also nominated. He sank 14 of 20 field goals and had nine assists.

Quoting the coaches:

GENE VICTOR, MSAC: —"It was a tough week for the Mounties. We were beaten badly twice at home by Santa Ana and Grossmont. We could make a few excuses but there is no reason to. I can't remember losing two home conference games in a row before. We have our backs to the wall at Cerritos. We usually play well at Cerritos but we don't win very often. We still have some players banged up. I can't put the finger on what's wrong."

NEIL EDWARDS, Citrus: — "We had about the same week as MSAC. We have been playing poorly on defense and allowed 96 and 95 points last week to Palomar and Chaffey. Maybe I have been stubborn staying with a man-to-man defense when we don't match up well with some of the other teams. I don't know the answer. We host Saddleback Saturday night and it may be the worst team to try a zone defense against. We hope to slow the tempo against Saddleback to stay in the game. Our realistic goal is to finish among the top four teams to get into the playoffs."

DON HOGAN, Cal Poly: —"We've been improving every game as the team is finding itself. It has done it by good team play and the attitude has been just tremendous. We have the talent so the key is maintaining the same mental approach. We visit Cal State Northridge Friday night in a battle for first place. Northridge is an improved team this year but so are we. Gamulin has gotten his act together. You can say Jack is back. He is playing very well for us and that includes his defensive play."

ART BIAS, La Verne: — "We didn't have such a good week in losing to Whittier and Claremont-Mudd. Our main concern is our defense. We better start playing defense or we're in trouble. We felt we had to win all our home games in league play and we've already lost one to Claremont. This week, we host Pomona-Pitzer Wednesday and travel to Los Angeles Baptist Saturday. We're not sure about center Ulysses Ruffin's knee as yet. We can't afford to lose him because we don't have the depth up front. Michael Sharp had another good week with 49 points and 26 rebounds in the two games."

Chaffey wins again to stay atop CBL

Chaffey High retained a third of first place in the Citrus Belt League by whipping visiting Pacific, 69-52, Tuesday night.

Ontario Christian dumped L.A. Baptist, 62-50 Tuesday night, but three other valley teams absorbed losses: Lutheran High of La Verne was edged by Sherman, 59-57, Webb fell to Lutheran of Orange, 52-36, and Calvary Baptist was swamped by Riverside Christian, 63-31.

Chaffey is now 5-1 in CBL action, as are Eisenhower and Redlands. Ike beat San Gorgonio, 51-40, Tuesday while Redlands got by Fontana in overtime, 85-78.

Chauncy Mann led the Tigers with 20 points, and scored 12 of them in the second quarter, when Chaffey outscored the visitors, 24-9.

Pacific held a 17-10 lead when Tiger center Randy Wenzel executed Chaffey's first slam dunk since the maneuver was legalized again this year. That play sparked the Tigers, who raced to a 36-26 halftime lead.

Wenzel grabbed six rebounds for the Tigers and teammates Steve Snell and Jim Winans added five each.

Chaffey (7-8 overall) can reach the .500 mark with a win Friday over visiting Fontana.

Ontario Christian's Hank Bouwman scored 22 points to lead the Knights past visiting L.A. Baptist. David Vander Stelt scored 19 points and center Pete Verhoeven scored 16 and caught eight rebounds.

OCHS trailed by a point, 22-21, at halftime, but Bouwman and Verhoeven scored seven points apiece in the third quarter to give the Knights a 39-22 lead.

The Knights, ranked ninth in the first CIF 1A poll, are 5-0 in Olympic League play and 12-3 overall.

Lutheran's Gregg Guenther scored 25 points but it wasn't enough to beat Sherman, led by Danny Dosela's 21 points. Lutheran's Dale Pomo added 10 points.

Webb's Kerry Tims scored 14 points and Calvary Baptist's Robert Turner scored 15, both in losing causes.

Cav cagers surprise Upland

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

Montclair High broke a 54-54 tie with Upland late in the game and held on to down the hosts 60-56 in San Antonio League Action Tuesday afternoon.

Montclair went into the fourth quarter down by four points at 39-35. The Cavaliers caught the Highlanders twice before tying with 1:32 left in the game.

Darrin Pierce scored a bucket and Scott Arthur sank one of his two free throws with 21 seconds to play. After Pierce sank two charities of his own, Upland's Brian Patterson scored with seven seconds remaining making the score 59-56. Cav Bruce LaVallee added a foul shot to end scoring.

Pierce and LaVallee scored eight and seven points respectively to lead Montclair in the final period.

Montclair jumped to an 8-2 midway through the first quarter and finished it on top 8-6 behind Scott Arthur's five points.

The Cavaliers stretched their to lead to nine(19-10) with 4:30 left in the first half and with the help of Pierce's 10 points took a 25-18 lead into the locker room at intermission.

Montclair let the lead slip away in the third quarter turning the ball over nine times as Patterson's eight points led them to a four-point lead.

Patterson led all scorers with 23 points and hauled down 10 rebounds from his center position. Pierce was right behind with 22 points.

LaVallee scored 17 points and led all rebounders with 15 caroms and also blocked two shots.

Montclair's league record of 3-2 ties it with Chino for fourth and fifth place in the SAL behind front-runners Damien, Garey, and Ganesha all at 4-1.

Upland drops to 1-4 in loop action and 11-7 overall.

When the league resumes Friday, Montclair will host Ganesha and Upland will host Chino, both at 8p.m.

Chino bounces winless 'Pack

By TIM CLARK
PB Correspondent

Claremont High dropped its fifth straight San Antonio League basketball game Tuesday night at Chino, blowing a three-point lead in overtime in losing to the Cowboys, 56-51.

Sure, Bob Elder's Chino squad is a fine unit (now 3-2 in league play), but the big question is: What in the heck is wrong with Claremont? This is a team that raced to a 9-2 preleague start, and a team that is loaded with individual talent.

But coach Jack Smith's Wolfpack is now in the humiliating situation of playing lowly Pomona (also 0-5 in the SAL, 2-11 overall) for sole possesion of LAST place in the San Antonio. Who would have guessed it?

"I don't know, I don't have any more excuses to give," Smith weakly smiled. "I've said we're young, I've shuffled the lineup . . . the kids are not playing smart basketball.

"But today is the best ball we've played in league, and this is by far the best that Derek (Britton) has played. Yeah, we play Pomona Friday. And you know, Bonita even beat them, but that was when Pomona had three starters out of the lineup."

The 6-7 Britton did indeed play a strong game, and was the primary reason that the Wolfpack took Chino into overtime, leading a 16-7 fourth quarter spurt by scoring nine of his game-high 21 points.

Chino was down, 51-48 in the opening moments of the overtime, but then took advantage of Claremont offensive mistakes to score eight straight (six by center Gene Campbell) to wrap it up.

A look at the final statistics raised some eyebrows. Chino was murdered by the 'Pack on the boards, 47-24, but the impressive stat for the Cowboys was in the turnover department, where they were guilty of only 11.

Few doubt Muldowney

If you're one of those skeptics who still believes Shirley Muldowney is a figment of the imagination, than you're about to join the California Condor on the endangered species list.

There just aren't many non-believers left — not after the 35-year-old drag racer won both the National Hot Rod Association Springnationals at Columbus, Ohio and the season-ending Winston World Finals at OMS last year and started out 1977 by setting a new world speed mark.

At Phoenix last week, Ms. Muldowney covered the quarter-mile in 5.78 seconds for a new record of 252.10 miles an hour. That broke the mark held by Don Garlitz of 250.69 mph for AA fueled dragsters.

But if you still have nagging doubts about Shirley's status as the Top Fuel favorite in the 17th Annual Winternationals, consider her performance record in the last four NHRA national events in which she has competed.

Her average quarter mile elapsed time for the last 16 runs is 5.964 seconds with an average speed of 239.94 miles per hour. That includes her victory in the Springnationals, her semifinal defeat at the U.S. Nationals, her first round loss in the Fallnationals and her blitz of the World Finals.

In those four events, Ms. Muldowney's worst performance was 6.11 seconds at 217.91 miles per hour and her best of 5.77 seconds, 249.30 MPH was THE BEST of the entire '76 season by anyone regardles of race, color, sex, creed or national origin.

Even in defeat she was just slightly short of sensational. She lost the Nationals despite a run of 5.97 seconds, 233.16 MPH and she was beaten at Seattle, Wash., in the Fallnationals on a run of 6.02 seconds, 241.93 MPH.

So who's a more logical choice to claim the Top Fuel championship in a Winternationals event which begins the 1977 NHRA season Jan. 27-30 at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds?

Ms. Muldowney, who has shed her "Cha Cha" nickname, tuned up for the Pomona opener by winning the Irwindale Raceway "Nitro Bowl" championship on Jan. 1 with times of 5.97, 5.86 and 6.02 seconds. Her victim was 1976 Gatornationals winner James Warren of Bakersfield, Calif.

Warren, defending Winternationals champ Frank Bradley of Napa, Calif., reigning Winston World Champion Richard Tharp of Houma, LA., and former World Champ Gary Beck of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada are among those who will challenge Mt. Clemens, Mich., lady in the '77 Winston opener.

Beck, who won the 1974 Winternationals on the way to a World Championship, will probably provide the strongest challenge. The Canadian is determined to regain the championship form which deserted him back to his 1974 victory at the World Finals, an event for which he did not qualify.

Moreover, Beck has a history of strong performances at Pomona dating back to his 1974 victory

Champions will also be crowned in Funny Car, Pro Stock, Pro Comp, Competition, Modified, Super Stock and Stock from among more than 650 original entrants.

Posted purse for the four-day event $304,750, $230,750 of that total in contingency awards. Also at stake will be Winston World Championship and Grace Cup points which could mean post-season bonuses.

Carter aide says she'll prod him to do more for women

WASHINGTON (AP) — Margaret Costanza, the only woman at the top of Jimmy Carter's White House staff, says if Carter doesn't do enough to put women in key jobs she'll take him to task for it.

"He's already done more than any other President," says Ms. Costanza, who resigned today as vice mayor of Rochester, N.Y., to become assistant to the President for public liaison. She will handle Carter's dealings with public and special interest groups.

The special interests include women.

Ms. Costanza, who goes by that honorific but prefers "Midge," is a member of the Women's Political Caucus, which, along with other women's groups, wants Carter to put more women in top jobs.

Some women see the long list of white males in Cabinet posts and other high-ranking positions as evidence that the President-elect has not kept his promise to give women key jobs.

"I can't say that they (Carter aides) have done everything they can do," Ms. Costanza said in an interview. "But on the other hand, I can't say they haven't. I've just come aboard. I really don't know how many places or how many ways they have sought out women."

And while she doesn't disagree with the complaints from women's groups, she says she has "the feeling that they really are trying, and so before I can start talking to the President, to Hamilton Jordan, or to anybody else, I need to know what the facts are. I might agree. On the other hand, I might totally disagree."

If she counts the women in top jobs and finds them too few, she plans to take Carter to task about it, although privately.

"I would not do so through the public media ... there will never be a time that I disagree that I wouldn't speak up. But under no circumstances does it do my issue, my concern, any good to call a press conference, and then tell the President."

She said Carter made a commitment during the Democratic convention to put "women — not a woman — but women" in his Cabinet. And she cited Patricia Harris, chosen to be secretary of housing and urban development and Juanita Kreps, his choice as secretary of commerce.

"He said he would seek out the best talent available in this country and that it would include women," said Ms. Costanza. "That's being done, to my knowledge."

Ms. Costanza, 44, has disagreed with Carter before — on amnesty, gay rights and abortion. He didn't go far enough in support of each.

She met Carter when he offered to help her campaign for a House seat. "Boy, that's nerve," she said she thought at the time — a Southern governor campaigning in upstate New York.

Her new job pays $44,000 and gives her an office closer to Carter than Jordan's. "I like to read into that that he not only has named a woman to this position for the first time in history, but gave her logistically a position so it would not viewed as a token."

In a top echelon of Georgians, she will be the only aide with an accent, but she says she'll fit in fine.

She wore her blue jeans on a trip to look over the White House. "I see you've been assigned a Jimmy Carter uniform," observed an aide to President Ford. "No," she shot back. "These are my own."

JOHNNY WONDER

Perhaps hearing of someone you know is not as good as it once was, and he must now wear a hearing aid.

A hearing aid is a sound amplifier — a device that increases the loudness of sounds in the ear of the wearer.

The earliest hearing aid was the ear trumpet. This was a horn-shaped instrument. Its small end was placed to the ear. It simply gathered in sound and funneled it into the ear.

Today, people who are hard-of-hearing use small electronic hearing aids instead of ear trumpets. They are essentially small battery-powered telephones.

They have a tiny microphone to pick up sounds, an amplifier to make the sounds louder and a button-sized receiver that fits in the ear or behind it.

Modern hearing aids are so small that you hardly notice them. Those with microminiature parts are sometimes built into the bows of eyeglasses. Still others can be worn entirely within the ear.

COMIC CAPERS — The comedy team of Edmonds & Curley will join singer Tom Bresh and his band in a show in the University Theater at Cal Poly at 8 p.m. Friday. The two comedians have appeared on numerous television shows and have performed at more than 800 colleges and universities. Tickets are $3 in advance.

Jan Peerce set for UCLA

Tenor Jan Peerce will be soloist with the 35-member California Chamber Orchestra, conducted by Henri Temianka, in a concert at UCLA's Royce Hall at 8 p.m. Feb. 6.

Peerce, for many years a leading tenor at the Metropolitan Opera, had made frequent concert appearances under the baton of Arturo Toscanini. He will sing some of his favorite operatic arias.

The California Chamber Symphony will match Peerce's operatic renditions with orchestral works by the same composers. Handel's arias from "Atalanta and Xerxes" will be preceded by Handel's Concerto Grosso in D. Mozart's aria, "Il mio tesoro" from "Don Giovanni" will be followed by Mozart's Haffner Symphony.

The orchestral introduction to Act I from "La Traviata" will be bracketed with two Verdi arias from "Traviata" and "Luisa Miller." A Rossini aria and the overture to "El Signor Bruschino" will conclude the program.

Parking is free. Tickets are still available at UCLA central ticket office, 650 Westwood Plaza, and at all Mutual and Liberty agencies.

Small special at D'land

Parades, stage shows and unlimited use of the "It's a Small World" attraction will highlight "Small World Days" at Disneyland Saturday and Sunday.

The park will bolster its regular entertainment offerings during the weekend with a salute to international brotherhood. Disneyland's cartoon characters will don international costumes for photo setups, and will march each day in a 2 p.m. parade along with an array of international groups.

Strang teaches at the Claremont Community School of Music and in the La Canada area.

The professional string ensemble, conducted by David Keith, will play music by Mozart, Sibelius, Handel, Fasch, Britten and Vivaldi.
